

COMFORT STATION
IN BRIDGE STREET

The Mayor and City Engineers Visited Several Cities and Have Plans Prepared

Plans for an underground municipal comfort station in Bridge street near North street have been completed and Mayor O'Donnell will ask for $22,000 to do the work. The mayor and city engineer Kearney visited various cities, including New York and Brooklyn, and in New York especially they succeeded in corraling some very valuable information relative to public convenience stations, care, equipment, etc. The mayor and the engineer believe that when completed the new convenience station will be termed a model of its kind.

After it has been built the station will not in any way disturb the street. The street will be raised upon the roof of the station which will be made sufficiently strong to stand the wear and tear of the street above. The comfort or convenience station will be a little over 71 feet in length and 28 feet in width. The women's chamber will contain twelve closets and presumably, pedestal lavatories and drinking fountain. The men's chamber will contain twelve closets and nine urinals.

Entrances to the station will be from the sidewalk. The ladies' entrance will be in Bridge street just beyond Pollard's avenue, and the entrance for the men about thirty feet from the building line in Bridge street. The depth of excavation will average about 13 feet. The station will be lighted by electricity and a fan system of ventilation will keep the air as pure as possible. The air from the station will be fanned through an ornamental post in the sidewalk.

Before deciding to build the comfort station in the public street, Mayor O'Donnell talked with property owners in the vicinity of Merrimack square and asked them what they would ask for land enough upon which to build a comfort station and the lowest price set was $20,000. The mayor thought that to pay $20,000 for land and upon top of that the cost of the station would be more than the city could stand at the present stage of the game. Every detail as to equipment has not been considered or decided upon but the important parts have been thought out and agreed upon. The excavation work will be very heavy and expensive because of the ledge that is known to exist there. The stairways leading to the station will be of granolithic cement with safety treads.

There is no wood used in the construction of the station except such as is used for the doors. Two rooms have been provided for the caretakers and these rooms can also be used by men or women in case of sudden illness.

JOHN MITCHELL
SENTENCED TODAY

On Charge of Contempt of Court

HE APPEALED FROM SENTENCE

He Furnished Bail of $4000

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 23.—John Mitchell, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, today was sentenced in the District of Columbia supreme court to nine months' imprisonment for contempt of court, growing out of the Bucks Store & Range Co. case. An appeal was taken and $4000 bail furnished to abide by the decision of the upper court.

In the same case Samuel Gompers recently was sentenced to one year and Secretary Frank Morrison to six months.

Mr. Mitchell was not in court but sent a written statement waiving his right to be present. He was to have been sentenced last week but Justice Wright then declined to pass sentence because he objected to the form of waiver submitted by Mr. Mitchell.

POSTOFFICE BILL
REPORTED TODAY

Revised Parcels Post System Included

WASHINGTON, July 23.—The post-office appropriation bill, which of the good roads provision proposed by the house and embracing a revised parcels post system with charges based on zones of distance, was reported to the senate today by the postoffice committee.

The total appropriations proposed by the bill are the same as those of the house measure, which carried approximately $200,000,000. One of the principal increases was in the pay of railroad for transporting mails, the senate committee adding more than $2,500,000.

In striking out the Shaffelford good roads feature of the house bill, which provided for federal improvement of highways, the senate committee recommended an investigation by a special commission of three house members and three senators and provides for no highway improvements until this commission has reported.

The Barnhart amendment in the house bill for the regular publication of names of stockholders of newspapers and periodicals is changed to provide for publication once a year, when lists of the stockholders are required to be filed with local postmasters.

The parcels post section is radically different from that incorporated in the house bill, which provided a flat rate of postage for all distances. The senate provisions combines third and fourth class mail matter for the parcels post service but the bill makes the parcels post apply to fourth class matter.

The senate committee struck out of the house bill the provision giving to postal employees the right to combine in labor unions and the right to petition congress to redress of their grievances.

It also provided for the abolishment of the system for carrying of first class mail by fast freight under what is known as the "blue tag" system. Under the senate bill all second class mail would be put back in regular mail cars after August 23. A special mail committee is proposed to investigate the pneumatic tube service and whether the government shall purchase that now in use in various cities. A $10,000 appropriation is authorized for improved mechanical devices in the Chicago postoffice, which is now overcrowded.

Steel cars for railway mail service, which were required by the house bill to be in universal use by American railroads by 1907 are also required by the senate bill. The house bill required the railroads to replace 20 per cent of its wooden mail cars every year while the senate bill would give the roads one year of grace and then require them to replace 25 per cent of their cars each year for four years.

DECREASE OF $5.15
IN THE TAX RATE

Announced for the Town of Chelmsford

LARGE INCREASE IN THE VALUATION

Figures That Will Interest Townspeople

Chelmsford tax rate for 1912, $14.25. There's old Chelmsford for you. Just think of it, a reduction of $5.15 from last year. In 1911 the good people of that town paid a tax of $19.40 per $1000; quite a difference, isn't it? More than that, the town receipts this year are about 50 per cent. more than last year, and that's going some. Last year the town's valuation was $4,220,425; there were 1204 poll taxes and the appropriations were $91,619.35. This year the town's valuation is $4,291,555; there are 1255 poll taxes and the appropriations are $75,942.50. That's every resident of Chelmsford rejoicing and saying good things about the management of the town's affairs.

REP. LITTLETON
DISSENTS FROM RECOMMENDATIONS OF STANLEY

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Rep. Littleton of New York, member of the democratic majority of the house steel trust investigating committee, today formally presented his views to the committee, dissenting from the recommendations of Chairman Stanley. He agreed to sign the Stanley report with many reservations. That left Mr. Stanley with but two other members of the committee of nine in complete accord with him. They are Representatives Deal of Texas and McGillicuddy of Maine. Mr. Littleton's views, to which much publicity has been given, favor principally a joint body of the senate and house to study the trust question and the exclusion from interstate commerce of corporations in restraint of trade. He declines to support a proposed bill put upon a corporate trust bill, of proving it is a "reasonable" restraint of trade. Such a bill, Mr. Littleton says, would preserve "the chief fault of the Sherman law, which is the policy of a belated attack after a concern has grown up instead of providing any means of prevention."

STOLE A PEACH

12-YEAR-OLD BOY TAKEN TO POLICE STATION

A well stocked stand of delicious fruit outside a store is very tempting to many boys, especially if they do not have the price, and many a youngster is willing to take a chance of "swiping" a peach, plum, orange or banana if one of the clerks in the store is not looking.

This afternoon a boy who is about 12 years of age stole a peach from the stand in front of George B. Meix's fruit store at the corner of Bridge and Paige streets, but one of the clerks saw him and after giving chase and catching the lad turned him over to Patrolman Philip Murphy.

The boy when questioned, said he lived in Dracut and went to the Colburn school, and told so many conflicting stories that the officers decided to take him to the police station. At the station he said he lived around back Central street, but didn't know the number, and he stuck to that story for a long time, but finally admitted that he resided in Charles street.

Many fruit dealers have been bothered by boys who make a habit of scratching fruit off stands and in several of the large fruit stores the loss for a year amounts to over $100.

GEN. OROZCO

PERMITS AMERICANS TO RETAIN THEIR ARMS

MADERA, Chihuahua, July 23.—Apprehensions in the foreign colonies were allayed today by orders from General Orozco placing Colonel Hernandez in charge of the rebel garrison with instructions to permit Americans to retain their arms. The exodus of women and children totals almost 100 per cent.

GUADALAJARA, Mexico, July 22.—The earthquake panic in this city is unabated. The exodus of families continues and clerks and workmen refuse to work.

VALLON SURRENDERS TO NEW YORK POLICE

He is Held in the Rosenthal Case

EVIDENCE POINTS TO POLICE SYSTEM

As Responsible for the Murder Plot

NEW YORK, July 23.—The gunmen wanted for the killing of Herman Rosenthal are beginning to fall into the nets. Harry Vallon, one of the notorious gangsters who was in the "murder car" the night Rosenthal was shot, surrendered himself to the police this morning, and within ten days Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty expects to round up the whole gang of gun carriers.

With the men who actually did the shooting in the tolls, the main work of District Attorney Whitman and Commissioner Dougherty will commence with that of trying to learn the identity of the real conspirators who so greatly desired that Rosenthal be done away with before he could make further revelations of the relations between the police and the gamblers.

Commissioner Dougherty remarked significantly to Mr. Whitman that "I guess we agree as to who is back of this killing." But the public prosecutor does not feel that Dougherty can swing the investigation of the killing alone, as he is of the belief that the police department is not anxious to capture the murderers.

The surrender of Vallon may be followed by voluntary appearance of the other gangsters known to have been in the "murder car" the night of the killing. Besides Vallon there were Harry Horwitz, best known under his gang name of "Gib the Blood," Dago Frank, a desperate East Side gangster, "Lefty" Louis and "Whitely" Louis. Vallon has nothing of the appearance of a gangster of the meaner sort. His appearance at the police headquarters dumbed down the desk sergeant and he had to convince the detectives as to his identity before they locked him up.

Vallon drew up at headquarters in a taxi-cab and loungers saw a fastidiously dressed, dapper little chap step lightly out from the car and, swinging a cane from a gloved hand, mount the steps of the building.

"Kindly tell me where the detective bureau is," he asked. Vallon appeared before Lieut. McNally and gave himself up and was locked up after that astonished official could summon an officer.

Commissioner Dougherty prepared to give Vallon the third degree today to learn more about those who hired the gunmen to kill Rosenthal. That some of the gunmen have fled the city is believed by detectives, who add that the gangsters are probably hiding in gang holes in Chicago.

Commissioner Dougherty thinks that from some one of the gunmen he will be able to obtain confessions that will result in bringing to book those higher up. The commissioner says that nearly a score of men played parts in the plot that ended in the murder of Rosenthal and from among them he expects to find a "squealer."

District Attorney Whitman, when told that counsel for Shapiro was ready to have the chauffeur of the "murder car" turn state's evidence if he would be protected, said:

"I will protect every man in this case if I get the evidence I want against the police. I will let Shapiro and Libby and 'Bridge' Webber and Sam Paul and Jack Rose himself turn state's witnesses if I can get the police conspirators. But I have got to be shown first."

"There are bigger men than Becker in this case, and I want them. What has the police department, except Dougherty, done? Nothing. They are not doing anything now. Dougherty is honest and on the level, but can he swing this thing alone? The murder smells of police connivance."

Sam Paul, the East Side leader, and "Bridge" Webber, the gambler, were brought into the supreme court today on writs of habeas corpus sued out by their lawyers.

$100,000 LOSS

CAUSED BY FIRES AT MANFIELD, KY.

MANFIELD, Ky., July 23.—Three fires, believed to have been of incendiary origin, destroyed property valued at upwards of $100,000 here today. The tobacco warehouses of Gardner & Walker, buyers for the Italian government, were the principal buildings burned.

TO CALL OFF STRIKE
IN NEW BEDFORD

I.W.W. to Hold Meetings During the Day and Make the Announcement

NEW BEDFORD, July 23.—There was not a semblance of a disturbance at any of the cotton mill gates this morning. The usual large police guard surrounded the plant of the Butler mill corporation but only the operatives gathered at the mill gates when the machinery started. More operatives went into this mill than since the strike started and in fact Assistant Superintendent Louis Kerr informed the Associated Press that his looms were practically all running and the whole plant was in operation. He said that he had all the operatives he wanted, having drawn largely from the better class of help at the Dartmouth and Langshaw mills which are the nearest mills to the Butler of those shut down.

All was quiet in front of the Adamowicz residence this morning. Mrs. Adamowicz is ill in bed and will not appear in the district court today to answer to a charge of disturbing the peace but a physician's certificate will be presented saying that it is impossible for her to attend.

There was nothing doing at the North End of the city at the mill gates. The police report that there were a few Industrial Workers of the World pickets on duty.

No answer had been received at headquarters this morning at ten o'clock from the textile council to the commission asking for co-operation in calling a general strike of the mills in this city. This time being the limit set by the Industrial Workers for an answer the Industrial Workers' central committee got together and arranged to hold meetings and recommend at these meetings that the strike of the textile mills be declared off. The first meeting will be held at the South End at four o'clock, while the North End meeting will be held at seven o'clock. Elizabeth Gurley Flynn will attend both meetings.

In the district court this morning the cases of the disturbers in front of the Butler mill yesterday, Josef Adamowicz and Anna, his wife, were continued until August first and they were allowed bail. The woman was unable to appear in court.

THE RUSSELL CASE

CAMBRIDGE, July 23.—An unsuccessful effort to show conspiracy by attorneys for the estate was made today by Lawyer Schurton, counsel for the Dickinson, N. D., claimant to a portion of the estate of the late Daniel Russell of Melrose.

Mr. Schurton called the attention of Master Peavy to the fact that the Fresno claimant, while on the witness stand yesterday, would not swear whether he had waived his rights to the estate before he was recognized by the Russell family as the missing son.

It was the desire of Mr. Schurton that the testimony of "Fresno Dan" be interrupted while the master heard four lawyers for the estate as to the truth or falsity of such a claim.

The master denied the motion on the ground that it could easily be brought up at some future period in the hearing.

SENATOR DIXON

DISCUSSES THE THIRD PARTY PLATFORM WITH LEADERS

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Senator Dixon, Colonel Roosevelt's manager, discussed with leaders of the third party movement today the platform to be drafted for submission to the national convention in Chicago on Aug. 5.

"If we cannot offer to the people anything more than the old parties have offered, then there is no excuse for Col. Roosevelt running," he said. "But it will be a platform that will stir the country. It will be a document full of human interest and will provide specifically for the solutions of the great problems."

Opponents of the third party ticket in Illinois, which is said to have been assured by Gov. Deneen's announcement that he would not support Col. Roosevelt, sent an open letter to the Roosevelt headquarters today asserting that a third ticket "must" defeat for the republican candidates for state offices.

THE LOWELL POLICE DEFEATED

By the Lynn "Cops" by a Score of 28 to 19

The Lynn police ball team with a bunch of rooters came to Lowell today on a special car and were entertained at Spaulding park by the Lowell police team. The game lasted three hours and there were all kinds of baseball tricks there was no chance to copy.

Big Jack Sullivan went in to pitch for the locals and worked for 4 and 1-3 innings, allowing the visitors 13 hits, and the score was tied, 17 to 17. McCarthy pitched for the Lynn team and the Lynn men won out, by good hitting, assisted by numerous errors. The wind had considerable to do with the misplays, but some were of the bad apple order.

Lynn got two in the first inning on three hits and an error by Clark in left field. In Lowell's half, Manager Donovan's boys scored one on an error by Rock and a hit by Cooney.

In the second Lowell scored 11 runs on seven hits, three stolen bases, two bases on balls, five errors and a man being hit. It looked to the Lowell men as though they were to come back for the defeat at the hands of the Lynn men, when the latter won out at Lynn on May 25 by the score of 15 to 7.

The jinx got working in the third and Lynn piled up five runs as a result of three hits, two passes and a couple of errors.

Lynn continued to increase in the third getting three, five in the fifth, three in the sixth, four in the seventh, one in the eighth and three in the ninth.

In the fifth Lowell scored two and also got two more in the last and the game ended with two men on bases for Lowell, Sherry being put on while on third by a throw by Donovan to McLaughlin. The summary:

ASSAULT CASES TRIED IN COURT

Larceny of Shoes From Car—Thieves Found

The major portion of this morning's session of the police court was devoted to the hearing of assault and battery cases. Inasmuch as it was necessary to use interpreters in the different cases, the hearings were long drawn out.

Joseph Martin entered pleas of guilty to complaints charging him with drunkenness and assault and battery on his sister Hortense. Martin's wife is dead and his sister cares for his two children. She testified that he had been drinking heavily of late and when under the influence of liquor he was very abusive and last Sunday night he came home and assaulted her. The court found him guilty on both complaints and sentenced him to five months in jail for drunkenness, the assault case being placed on file.

Found Guilty of Assault
Epimetheus Dracopoulos was charged with having assaulted Speros Spontanis on July 20th. According to the testimony the defendant found him to the complainant and when he asked for the return of the money the complainant refused to pay and the defendant struck him. Dracopoulos was found guilty and a fine of $5 was imposed.

Drunken Offenders
Charles Tessier, charged with drunkenness, was found guilty and sentenced to one month in jail. The sentence was suspended and the man was placed on probation for three months.

Otto J. Cottarius was sentenced to the state farm, and Michael J. Rogers will spend the next month in jail.

Owing to the fact that John Miller was in a bad condition physically as a result of too much drink, the court deemed it advisable to sentence him to 30 days in jail.

John Gill and Leonard Reel were fined $6 each. There were several first offenders who were fined $2 each.

Assault in Winter Street

John Charles was charged with assault and battery on Asador Ogasapian. The defendant conducts a grocery store in Winter street and it is alleged that while the complainant was passing through the street a week ago yesterday a woman in the store threw some water into the street and soaked Ogasapian. The latter became angry and thinking that Charles had thrown the water, picked up a stone and hit Charles in the left arm.

The court after considering the evidence in the case found the defendant guilty and ordered him to pay a fine of $10.

For Larceny

A pair of russet shoes on the feet of Patrick McMahon aroused the suspicion of Lieut. Maher yesterday and after making a careful inquiry he was sent to the police station where he was booked for larceny and was later taken to Manchester, N. H., where it is alleged he broke into a freight car and stole several pairs of russet leather shoes.

Lieut. Maher had heard of the break and was on the lookout for the thief if he should happen to come to this city. While passing through Middlesex street yesterday afternoon the inspector came across McMahon, who was wearing russet shoes and also had a bundle under his arm.

When McMahon was sent to the police station it was found that the bundle contained russet leather shoes. The Manchester police were notified and Inspector Hannigan came to this city last night and he identified McMahon as the man who was wanted for larceny.

Garage Thieves Found

The thieves who broke into the automobile garages of Otto Dow in Stevens street and also the garage of Albert Stearns in Foster street have been located through the clever work of Lieut. Maher of the police department. Three shoes were stolen from each place. The shoes have been recovered and the parties who stole them will appear in police court within a few days.

Children's Appeal Successful

George H. Brown was charged with being drunk and after admitting his guilt was fined $6. Just as Brown and several other prisoners were waiting to be taken to jail because of non-payment of fines, Brown's wife and two children entered the police station and the little ones cried so bitterly at seeing their father about to be taken away that Judge Pickman was aware of the incident and he had Brown brought back to court and withdrew the fine and placed the man on probation for six months.

FOR DEAF MUTES

PHILADELPHIA, July 23.—Ground will be broken here next month for a church for deaf mutes. Plans for the church and parish house are almost completed. The buildings will be financed by the congregation of the All Souls Protestant Episcopal church. The deaf mute congregation numbers more than 250 members. It now worships in a small building at Franklin and Brown streets.

TODAY'S OUTINGS MANY VISIT BEACHES

Leaving for Old Orchard,
Lynn and Revere

A large number of Lowell people left this city on the morning trains for the beaches, especially those along the coast of Maine. The majority of the Lowell vacationists who leave here by train are going to Old Orchard and the beaches in that vicinity. Several also left today for Oak Bluffs, while more took trains for Boston to enjoy a stay at Revere, Lynn or Nantasket.

On the Fall River train this morning several immigrants arrived, having come here from New York, offering labor from the old country. They later took the train for Lawrence.

The baggage at the station was reported as quite heavy today, and all the trains were running as per schedule.

Mrs. Shepard's Party

The employees and a few other friends of Mrs. Bromley Shepard, the well-known dressmaker, went to Boston today to see her off for Europe. Mrs. Shepard is to visit Paris and other cities on the continent. She will return about Sept. 1.

Sisters of Mary

The Sisters of Mary, who are in charge of the Sacred Heart parochial school are today enjoying an outing at the summer home of the Knights of Columbus, the Genoa club. The sisters went to the grounds in automobiles that were kindly supplied for the occasion. They left their residence on Moore street at 5 o'clock this morning and proceeded directly to the grounds, where they enjoyed the many features of the beautiful place. At noon there dinner was served in the camp and a concert program was given during the afternoon. The return home will be made by automobile this evening.

Cars for Revere

There were three large cars pressed into service this morning to convey the beach party to the beach on the regular excursion of the Bay State street railway. The cars were well patronized and returned at 8:15 o'clock. The beach party will start at 6 o'clock.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

One of the best bills ever presented at the Merrimack Square theatre is provided for the many patrons of this popular house this week. It is headed by a bright, clean and very acceptable comedy, entitled "A Bachelor's Dilemma," which is being presented in a very delightful manner, by Mortimer Snow & Co. The play starts with the familiar setting, a lavishly furnished bachelor's apartment and the bachelor proprietor asleep in front of his fireplace. So far the playlet promises nothing unusual. A burglar enters, a little tussle takes place, the burglar is disarmed and then given his freedom. But from this point on it is just one unexpected thing after another. The bachelor telephones over to a restaurant for a lunch, and instead of the "dago" whom he supposes is bringing his lunch, a very pretty waitress appears, delivers his lunch, arranges it at a little table in front of him in a dainty and attractive manner, coquettishly seats herself opposite him and eats his meal. And furthermore the maiden has deep troubles and needs a lawyer, for on New Year's night she was married to a strange young man who left her at the restaurant at which they had celebrated the coming of a new year and their nuptials, leaving her with only a marriage certificate. And so the play goes on, a medley of Italian waiters, burglars, and terrible discoveries, full of good fun, exciting episodes and the most weird situations, and until the curtain drops it is beyond one's imagination to fathom how it will all end up. And when one has discovered it all, it is only to laugh at oneself for not having thought of that solution from the very first; it seems such a very natural ending.

Johnson and Wentworth are a pair of excellent singers and they are very good entertainers. Their songs are of the most desirable quality and as both are possessed of elegant voices, their act is very creditable.

Herman, the Mexican magician, has several new and interesting tricks with him, and he mystifies his audience in great style. His act is very commendable and as a slight-of-hand performer Herman cannot be excelled.

Alice Bagley sang illustrated songs in an enjoyable manner, her song, "That's My Personality," winning instant applause and demands for an encore.

The photo-plays ranged in setting from the Arizona desert to a fashionable New England summer resort, and in subject from the most dramatic and stirring of western dramas to a little bit of fooling by an office boy. All were bright and entertaining and were highly enjoyed by the audience.

LAKEVIEW DANCE HALL

Last evening at the Lakeview dance hall there was a large crowd and judging from the pleasant expressions on the countenances of the many couples as they glided past the orchestra pit all were greatly enjoying the dancing. The floor there is in such perfect condition, the music so entrancing, and the vocal solos by Jack Myers so well given that a night at the popular hall can not be other than a most pleasant one. Every afternoon and evening the full orchestra is present, while on several evenings of the week added musicians are pressed into service. This evening there will be fireworks and all may see the display from the pavilion around the dance hall. The fountain adjoining the hall is presided over by a sufficient number of capable clerks which insures no waits and drinks are served properly. At the bowling alleys there are four large fans, which circulate a breeze that keeps the place as cool and comfortable as is possible.

THE KASINO

As if on wings they glide along—this gleeful cheerful Kasino throng; to music tuneful day and night, they make their way with footstep light. If you haven't enjoyed dancing at the Kasino you have missed a real treat, for the hall is one of the largest, the floor is the smoothest and the orchestra is the best to be found in this section. Every afternoon and evening a free concert precedes dancing, and the first dance, afternoon and evening, is free. Join the procession.

LAKEVIEW THEATRE

Prince Ellwood opened in "The Hand of Man" to a large and appreciative audience. The company is well balanced and on the whole deserves great credit. Mr. Ellwood as Tony Tuckers, the newsboy detective, is well suited to his part, keeping the audience in uppers of laughter during the entire performance. Mr. Ellwood will be remembered as a comedian in the Augusta Perry Co., who played Lowell and Lakeview park last season, applever trick on his violin in the way of a novelty. Mr. Ellwood's songs made a decided hit and his rendition of "Rose was cleverly done, and Mr. Ellwood must be commended for his clever work.

THEATRE VOYONS

A biograph, "Heaven Avenges," heads the bill at the Theatre Voyons today, and it is a most pleasing picture. It tells a story of the life in the orange groves of California that is thrilling and most heart touching. "Together" is a Lubin domestic drama with two of the most popular Lubin players in the leading roles. Two comedies bring plenty of laughs. One, "A Persistent Lover," with John Bunny, Flora Finch and a very clever elephant actor, is especially good.

THE VERY FINEST PLAYS

Lowell theatre-goers are to have the pleasure of witnessing a series of theatrical out-puts that will at once assure the success of "The Players" at "The Playhouse." Each drama or comedy has been selected for its true worth, as well as modern interest. The style of drama offered will be varied. The very best authors will be represented. Plays of only a year since their original New York production, great plays of the past few seasons, as well as masterpieces of many years' vitality, will be offered. Besides these plays will be staged with all the perfection of detail that characterizes a Metropolitan bid for popular favor. The plays will be announced later.

PHOTOGRAPHERS ASSOCIATION

PHILADELPHIA, July 23.—The tariff, so far as it applies to the importation of supplies used in the business, will be one of the questions taken up in the 32nd annual convention of the Photographers Association of America, which opened here today. Another subject will be the advisability to the camera men forming an adjunct to the association to be known as "the copyright league." Many of the delegates claim that their pictures are "stolen" by periodicals.

SICK DAUGHTER NOW WELL

Mrs. C. Cole Tells How Her Daughter Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

Fitchville, Ohio.—"I take great pleasure in writing to thank you for what your medicine has done for my daughter."

"Before taking your medicine she was all run down, suffered from pains in her side, could not walk but a short distance at a time, and had severe pains in head and limbs. She came very near having nervous prostration. She had begun to cough a good deal and seemed melancholy by spells. She tried two doctors but got little help."

"I cannot find words to express my gratefulness for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for my daughter. She feels and looks like another girl since taking it, and I shall always feel that I owe you a great debt."

"You can use this letter for the benefit of others if you wish, as I shall always recommend your medicines for female troubles."—Mrs. C. COLE, Fitchville, Ohio.

Hundreds of such letters from mothers expressing their gratitude for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished have been received by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company, Lynn, Mass.

Young Girls, Heed This Advice. Girls who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, headache, dragging-down sensations, fainting spells, or indigestion, should immediately seek restoration to health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The climax received rounds of applause and it can safely be said "The Hand of Man" will please all who witness it during its stay here this week. Miss Eldredge as Betty Brindle is very clever and made many friends. Miss Huntington as Mrs. Rakston won the sympathy of the audience. Other members of the company were Messrs. FAVORS SHORT DAY FOR POSTAL CLERKS

The Senate Committee
Adopts 10 Hour Limit

WASHINGTON, July 23.—No appropriation bill reported to the senate in this congress is probably of more moment to the large cities of New England than that for the support of the postal service presented yesterday. Most of the Massachusetts delegation in both branches of congress have given more or less attention to various proposed reforms carried therein. This is particularly true of the Boston members because of the large number of clerks and carriers there who will be benefited.

Some time ago Congressman Curley introduced in the house a bill embodying the principle incorporated in the bill and providing for postal employees in offices of the first and second classes what is known as "the eight-hours-in-a-day" plan. There has been a very great demand for something like this from these employees. Heretofore they have been required by law to work eight hours, but had to do so during any period of the 24 hours of the day. Now, under the provision accepted by the postoffice committee of the senate, the eight hours of labor must be within a period of ten hours.

The house made the eight-hour-in-a-day plan effective July 1, but the senate proposes to defer it till March 4, 1913. Members of the house are hopeful of a compromise for Oct. 15 or Jan. 1.

The increases recommended for letter carriers would advance about 50 per cent of those employees from $1100 to $1200 a year. The house proposed that 1540 carriers now receiving $1200 should be given $1300. The senate committee increases this number to 1717. The senate also increases from $60 to $47 the number of promotions from $1200 to $1400.

There is also much satisfaction among postal carriers in the new grading which the senate committee recommends. The bill as it now stands provides for ten grades, the highest salary being $1500 a year and the lowest $1200.

JIMMY GARDNER HAS RECOVERED FROM ATTACK OF DIPHTHERIA

"Jimmy" Gardner, the well known boxer, has recovered from a very severe attack of diphtheria. His age was diagnosed as diphtheria on June 17. Jimmy was getting along fairly well and was looking forward in glad anticipation to the day when he could visit his gymnasium and have a go with the mites, but somehow or other he got more cold and suffered a relapse. For a few days he was on the dangerous list but his splendid physique and the courage that goes with it pulled him through and today the culture sent the board of health by Jimmy's physician, Dr. A. E. A. McCann, proved negative. Jimmy Gardner says he has had many a hard battle but he allows that he would rather meet all the Johnsons from here to Africa than to have another run in with old man diphtheria. Gardner's sickness has cost him a pretty penny. It will be remembered that his throat went bad when he was training to meet Eddie McGoorty at the Pilgrim A. A. Boston. He showed up, however, and was willing to fight but the doctors would not allow him to go on. It was then believed that he was suffering from tonsillitis but a little later it was discovered that he had diphtheria. He had a big campaign mapped out for the summer and fall and would have gone to Paris to fill engagements, but for the throat trouble that laid him low.

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

LOCAL AUTO DEALERS TO SHOW 1913 MODELS

The New Cars Will Make Their First Appearance Here in a Few Weeks

Local automobile dealers are now preparing for the showing of 1913 models, and it is expected that within a few weeks the first of the new cars will make their appearance in this city. At the present time the sale of this year's cars is practically over but many second hand cars taken in trade for new ones are being disposed of at low prices and in many instances a person in purchasing a high priced car of a moderate figure will be better satisfied than paying out the same amount of money for a low priced car which is brand new.

Undertaker Amadee Archambault has received his model 45 Oakland touring car, which is a beauty. It has a capacity of seven passengers and the body and running gear are finished in royal blue. The Oakland housewife which Mr. Archambault has also purchased is expected to arrive in this city about the middle of August. The upholstery of this car will be of light broadcloth and the machine will be equipped with electric lights, both outside and inside, speaking tubes, etc. The body of this car will also be finished in royal blue.

A Ford commercial roadster has been delivered to Dr. Wilfred L. Burke through the agency of the Lowell Motor Mart.

Automobile thieves have been operating in many of the large cities, and may at any time make a visit to Lowell. Therefore, owners of machines should take extra precaution when leaving their machines unattended in the streets for any length of time.

The recent rains have greatly improved the roads in and around Lowell and at the present time there is an absence of dust.

The heavy downpour of rain Sunday was disappointing to many motorists who intended to make a tour of the beaches or the country.

Another supreme court, this time in the Keystone State, has decided that townships, municipalities, counties or states maintaining water bars in public highways are responsible for damages to automobiles or their cars, caused by contact with these unnecessary obstructions.

This is a sweeping victory for motorists, as it is believed there is not the slightest doubt about either state, as well as United States courts sustaining the Pennsylvania decision. It is in direct line with the opinion of the corporation counsel of the City of New York, who recently notified Mayor Gaynor that the city could be held for damages caused through an order of the park commissioners in "directing" motorists over a given portion of a public highway, to wit, Coney Island boulevard, between King's highway and 22nd street. The mayor at once directed the commissioners to rescind their order.

The Touring Club of America has been urging a test case such as has just been decided in Pennsylvania, and the club now proposes that an action should be brought against the toll road companies in New England with a view to showing that it is in accordance members of the club's contest committee have been in touch.

It will not require much work to put the course in shape and Elgin has plenty of time in which to smooth out the wrinkles. Had the deal been closed earlier the backstretch would have been widened, but that will have to wait until another year. The citizens of Elgin are more interested than ever, for when it looked as if the races would be abandoned they began to realize what they were losing.

The deal also marks the return to the promotion field of the Chicago Automobile club, which has held aloof from the sport since the Crown Point road races in 1903, which were handled by the C. A. C.

Boston will again have two shows in 1913. The pleasure car section under the auspices of the Boston Automobile Dealers' association, Inc., will be held as usual in Mechanics' building, March 8 to 15, inclusive, and the truck show held by the Boston Commercial Motor Vehicle association, Inc., from March 10 to 26, inclusive.

The first exclusive truck show held last March was a great surprise to all—not only from the volume of business transacted but the general interest and attendance. Practically all the space was subscribed for, and a comparison with the other big shows was all in favor of Boston. From present indications and the applications for space the coming show will eclipse that of last year.

The pleasure car section will as usual prove the great magnet for the entire New England—not only will every make of car be shown, but elaborate preparations are under way for the usual unique decorative features.

COL. ROOSEVELT TELLS WHY HE LEADS IN FORM- ING NEW PARTY

NEW YORK, July 23.—In his first speech since he returned from Chicago, Col. Roosevelt today set forth his reasons for leading in the formation of a new party. His address was delivered at a meeting of the New York state county chairmen. "No man knows better than I," said Col. Roosevelt, "that enthusiasm and high principles cannot be effective without organization and work. A great responsibility rests upon you men here who are undertaking the organization of a new party which is to stand four squares to democracy, which is to be literally the party of the people. It will fight on live issues and not dead ones. It will embody a protest against the corruption in both of the old party machines. It will be a party into which ex-democrats and ex-republicans without regard to their past are to come on an exact equality and to have each the same share in the party management."

"We are going to see to it that this party is organized so that it will be impossible for any 33 men chosen four years before by politicians to stand superior to all the voters of a great state like California, and if that state has not shaped its laws according to a given call of 500 private men the state shall not be disenfranchised."

"My own judgment is that Messrs. Barnes, Penrose, Guggenheim & Company made a poor swap when they took the stolen delegates from California in place of the electoral vote of California. They were not content with that. They swapped the electoral vote of Massachusetts for the vote of two delegates. I think it was about as expensive a swap as ever made by political managers."

DIFFICULT TASK TO SECURE WORKING QUORUM IN THE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, July 23.—The problem of maintaining a working quorum in the house came up today before the journal of yesterday's proceedings had been read. Business was delayed half an hour until a quorum was secured. Sergeants-at-arms were sent out yesterday with warrants for the arrest of the absent members before a quorum was secured.

THE MILK SUPPLY WILL BE IMPROVED

By the Heavy Rains—Quality of Milk Nothing to Boast of for Past Few Weeks

Summer drought and crop failure which has drilled into the profits of the farmers who produce milk have gone the limit and now the farmer can see a light ahead. Sunday's rain was a great thing for the country at large and while some farmers will complain of too much rain for the lowlands, the average farmer will tell you that the rain was a great blessing and that a little more wouldn't do any harm.

The rain will do a whole lot to improve the milk supply. The city hall reporter for The Sun dropped in upon the inspector of milk, Melvin Master, yesterday at his laboratory on the top floor of city hall and asked the inspector a few questions concerning the milk supply. Mr. Master said that the quality of the milk for the last few weeks has not been sufficiently good to boast about and there has been a great scarcity of milk, too. "The milk has been hanging around close to the standard," said the inspector, "but the rain of yesterday will help out a whole lot. While the milk has not been above standard, no adulteration has been discovered. The producers and dealers have co-operated with this department in keeping the milk supply up to the standard and it was discovered to be below the standard it was a good bet that it was due to natural causes. The milk is so poor at the present time that it would not be very difficult to detect added water and we have not discovered any."

"The farmer, the milk producer, has been up against it good and hard this summer and reports from milk producing districts have been becoming more and more pessimistic."

"The fundamental cause is to be found in the recent dry spell, when pastures dried up under the withering rays of the sun. The cost of grain has increased and is increasing and some of the producers have turned to feeding their stock early corn crops which have been stunted by the drought also. Conditions have been very bad indeed but I think that the rain will make all the difference in the world. It will give new life to the pastures and they constitute the main stay."

It was but Saturday that a producer, in close touch with the situation, said: "The spring opened very favorably, but the recent drought has created a very serious problem for the producer. His pastures have failed him almost completely; grain feed is out of the question at the present prices, and the farmer's condition is getting critical. There are but two alternatives—to raise his price or quit producing at a loss or no profit."

"In my mind there is no question but that the advance will have to come by next Thursday, but whether it will mean enough to raise the price to the consumer is a question that the wholesalers will have to answer."

Champ Clark Leads Delegation of More Than 100 Congressmen to Visit Governor Wilson

SEA GIRT, N. J., July 23.—Speaker Champ Clark, the principal rival of Woodrow Wilson for the democratic nomination for the presidency, led a delegation of more than 100 congressmen from Washington to the "Little White House" to call on the candidate. Gov. Wilson addressed his callers from the porch of his home and later spent three or four hours chatting with the visitors, each of whom had a few moments of the candidate's time. In the lower picture Speaker Clark is standing at the right of Gov. Wilson.

PRESIDENT TAFT USED LAST BULLET TO PUT AN END TO HIS OWN LIFE

WASHINGTON, July 23.—President Taft has indicated to republican leaders in the senate a wish to know their views about repealing the Clandon reciprocity act.

The senate has already passed repeal provisions as amendments to two tariff bills and a separate bill for the repeal of the act has been favorably reported to the finance committee.

Mr. Taft, so far, however, has not stated that he absolutely favors a repeal, but has let it be known that if senate leaders favored such a measure he wanted to discuss it with them.

SHAVEN ARRESTED VINCENZO ANGELONI, WANTED FOR A STABBING AFFRAY IN MONTECARLO

FAIRMONT, W. Va., July 23.—Temporarily crazed with pain from wounds inflicted on his back by a bullet which he used his last bullet to end his own life.

The man who had shot him. The assailant and the policeman's prisoner, when he had rescued, despite the fact that Sheriff George Amos and all the officials of the county pursued them with bloodhounds, apparently have made their escape.

Shaver arrested Vincenzo Angeloni, wanted for a stabbing affray in Montecarlo a year ago. As he was walking to the station with his prisoner, a man believed to be a brother of the prisoner shot Shaver and he fell mortally wounded.

THE OFFICER MANAGED TO SLUGGER TO HIS FEET AND SENT HIM TO THE HOSPITAL WITH HIS PISTOL AT THE MAN, BUT MISSED HIM.

Then, suffering terrible agony from his wounds, he waded back Warren Davis, who was rushing to his assistance, with: "Keep away, brother; I am all in!" and sent his last bullet crashing into his own brain.

Strong Statement By Well Known Lowell Man

RETIRED POLICE OFFICER REGAINS HEALTH—MAKES INTERESTING STATEMENT

A surprising number of Lowell people are daily adding their support to the remedy, Var-ne-sis, which is being introduced here at a downtown drug store. Hardly a day passes but someone comes in to give their experience with this great stomach and rheumatic remedy.

EX-OFFICER JOHN BUCHANAN

Probably there is no one better known in this city than Ex-Officer John Buchanan, who lives at 106 Beech street.

"I certainly feel fine now, but I had a severe case of sciatic rheumatism from which I suffered for 10 years without receiving any permanent benefit, until I took this Var-ne-sis. I had tried all kinds of rheumatic cures, liniments and electric treatments, but nothing helped me for any length of time. When I was on duty as a police officer, where I served for 20 years, I was often obliged to remain at home for weeks at a time on account of the pain, being unable to walk on account of the rheumatism in my ankle and knees."

"This Var-ne-sis not only cured my rheumatism completely, but cured a severe kidney trouble that was very annoying. I certainly feel very grateful for the remarkable results I have obtained from this medicine."

The doctor when seen at the Var-ne-sis headquarters, said: "There is nothing mysterious about this remedy. It simply breaks away from the ordinary medicines which have been given for stomach trouble and rheumatism; it does not contain any opiate, minerals, potash, wintergreen, salicylates or any of the harmful drugs which people have been accustomed to. It goes direct to the stomach, stops that gas formation, fermentation, sourness, dizziness and a disordered stomach, by its action on the liver. The liver is the main organ at fault in rheumatism, and you have to remove the cause before you can cure any case of this terrible disease. Get the stomach right and watch how quick your rheumatism will disappear. Constipation quickly responds to this vegetable discovery. I have never seen a case of stomach trouble or rheumatism that would not respond to it." It was stated that the Var-ne-sis physician would continue to meet the public every day from 10 in the morning to 8 at night, at the Dows drug store, corner Merrimack and Central streets, to give free consultation.

THE PROGRESSIVES TO NAME TICKET

In the State of New Jersey

ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 23.—The New Jersey progressive leaders decided today to put into the field a complete ticket, including presidential electors and nominees for state officers. The methods of accomplishing this, however, kept them in conference until two o'clock. The mass convention meets shortly after noon. This convention was the principal one discussed at the meeting of the committee composed of the members of Roosevelt state committee and the 28 state delegates to the republican national convention, which began at ten o'clock last night and continued in session for four hours. At ten o'clock today the committee met again in a final effort to agree upon a resolution by which the subject could be placed before the convention. A majority favored a declaration that would put the progressive party of New Jersey immediately in the field and sever forthwith all relations with the republican organization.

Those who opposed this plan urged that the national progressive party was yet unborn and would not come into being until after the progressives held their national convention in Chicago. They argued that action by the state organization be delayed until after the Chicago convention had launched the national party.

There was also a decision as to whether the New Jersey progressives should hereafter ignore the republican organization and try and capture the machinery of the old party.

WAGE CONTROVERSY BETWEEN LOCOMOTIVE ENGINEERS AND ROAD MANAGERS

NEW YORK, July 23.—At the meeting of the arbitration committee today to determine the merits of the wage controversy between the locomotive engineers and the managers of 52 railroads east of Chicago, B. A. Worthington, president of the Chicago & Alton road, again took the stand. He completed his explanation of the 115 statistical tables which the railway managers offered to controvert the claim of the engineers for increases in pay estimated at $7,500,000 per year. He said that these tables show a gradual increase in the pay of engineers who are the highest paid skilled workmen in the service of the railroads. He added that the tables also show a proportionate increase in the pay of other employees whenever the engineers obtain an advance and that in his opinion it would be difficult to persuade the firemen and other employees that they are not also entitled to more pay.

JUROR LEAVITT MAY BE ABLE TO RETURN TO DUTY TOMORROW

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 23.—Indications early today were that L. A. Leavitt, the juror whose illness caused a suspension of the bribery trial of Clarence S. Darrow would be improved sufficiently to return to his duties tomorrow.

Judge Hulton decided to wait for a further report from the physicians before resuming the trial with A. M. Blakeney, the 13th juror, in Leavitt's seat, as yesterday was thought would be necessary.

500 BOY SCOUTS TO HELP CLEAN STREETS IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, July 23.—Beginning on Monday next 500 uniformed Boy Scouts with the co-operation of the street cleaning department and the department of health will undertake the work of cleaning bits of paper, garbage and refuse from the streets of the East Side and other congested neighborhoods of the city. It is expected that the undertaking will be repeated at intervals throughout the hot season, promoting good health among the inhabitants of that section.

BUBONIC PLAGUE HAS CAUSED TWENTY-THREE DEATHS IN PORTO RICO

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 23.—The plague situation in Porto Rico was declared yesterday by public health service officials not so favorable, while the situation in Cuba was considered satisfactory. In Porto Rico the plague has resulted in 42 cases and 23 deaths. The campaign against the disease is being pushed hard. Passed Assistant Surgeon Craci at San Juan, P. R., yesterday asked for an additional officer and three inspectors, the latter to be used in examining freight destined for the United States. San Juan has been districted and an inspector assigned to each district. Forces of rat catchers and rat poisoners are at work and 500 rats a day are being examined. By the end of the week this number is expected to reach 1000 daily. With officers at Carolina and Dorado, it is believed the disease at those places soon will be under control and stamped out.

At Havana three cases have developed and one death has occurred. Yesterday a case under observation nine days was confirmed as plague. Another suspect was found yesterday, and has been placed under observation. The eradication of rats continues; 3015 have been examined, but none found infected.

COMMISSIONERS MEET SEATTLE, WASH., July 23.—With 200 insurance men in attendance, the annual national convention of state insurance commissioners opened today in Spokane. Practically every state in the Union is represented. The convention will extend over four days.

TO SELL RAILROAD DENVER, Colo., July 23.—The Denver, Northwestern & Pacific railroad, known as the Moffatt road, will be sold under the hammer to satisfy over $2,500,000 bonds held by eastern bankers, according to a statement current here today.

PROGRESSIVES' CAMPAIGN CANNON CITY, Colo., July 23.—The republican progressive campaign in Colorado opened here last night when Philip B. Stewart, candidate for governor, and Attorney General Griffith addressed an audience. The meeting was the opening of a whirlwind automobile speaking tour through Arkansas valley.

FR. FINNEGAN, O. M. I.

At St. Mary's Church in Collinsville

Rev. Dennis Finnegan, O. M. I., of Lowell who since his ordination to the priesthood has been stationed at Ottawa, being a professor at the university there, is at present taking Fr. Walsh's place at St. Mary's church, Collinsville. Fr. Finnegan was in this city, enjoying a vacation, but as the pastor of the Collinsville church is now taking a two weeks' rest, the former was assigned to the church until Fr. Walsh returns. Fr. Finnegan celebrated high masses at the church Sunday and also read the week's announcements. The envelopes for the church debt offerings which will be taken up next Sunday were distributed.

SCOTT GAVE $30,000 TO ROOSEVELT FUND

He Tells of Contributions That Were Made

H. HAVEMEYER ALSO CONTRIBUTED

George R. Sheldon to Testify Thursday

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Former Senator Scott of West Virginia today told the senate committee investigating campaign funds of 1904 and 1908 that contributions were made to Col. Roosevelt's campaign fund by Henry Havemeyer, the sugar king, and representatives of the International Harvester Co. so far as he could recall. Mr. Scott testified that the largest contribution of which he had knowledge made to the national committee in that campaign was his own, amounting to $30,000 or $40,000. George W. Perkins, he said, had given $15,000 but not to the national committee. Both contributions were used in the West Virginia state campaign.

"In October, 1904, Mr. Scott said, 'Mr. Perkins asked me the situation in West Virginia and I told him we had a very hard fight on for governor and that it was doubtful whether we could elect William O. Dawson. Mr. Perkins said, as a friend of President Roosevelt, he would be very sorry to see the state go democratic and made the contribution."

"Was Mr. Perkins at that time a member of J. P. Morgan & Co.?" asked Senator Jones.

Mr. Scott did not know. Asked about any activities of the American Protective Tariff League in the campaign, he said the league had furnished some campaign material, but it had been paid in cash for its work and had never contributed directly or indirectly to the campaign.

George R. Sheldon, treasurer of the national committee in 1908, is to testify Thursday. It is expected the books of the republican committee for that campaign will be submitted to the committee this week.

FUNERALS DUMONT—The funeral of Jean Baptiste Dumont was held yesterday from his home, 41 Tucker street. High mass of requiem was celebrated at 9 o'clock at St. Jean Baptiste church by Rev. Charles Denizet, O. M. I., D. D. The choir was under the direction of Dr. Geo. E. Caisac, Miss Elodie Chapdelaine presiding at the organ. The bearers were Joseph, Emile, Alfred and Paul Theriault. Burial took place in St. Joseph's cemetery, where the committal prayers were recited by Rev. Joseph Blais, O. M. I. Funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertaker Joseph Albert.

TO HELP NATURE SHED A BAD COMPLEXION

(From The Family Physician)

Beauty devotees are enthusiastic over the beautifying qualities of mercurized wax. Perhaps nothing discovered within recent years accomplishes so much, so quickly, without harm without detaching one indoors, and at such small expense. The principal reason for its wonderful merit is that it works in harmony with physiological laws. Instead of hiding, or "covering" complexion defects, it removes them. The wax actually takes off the aged, faded, yellow or blotchy cuticle, gently, gradually, causing no inconvenience. It is Nature's way of renewing complexion. When the natural process is retarded because of deficient circulation or nerve tone, mercurized wax comes to the rescue and hastens the skin shedding. The new complexion which appears is a natural one, youthful, healthy, exquisitely beautiful. If you've never tried mercurized wax, get an ounce of it at the drug store, use at night like cold cream, washing it off in the morning.

Another natural beautifying treatment—for wrinkled, flabby skin—is to bathe the face in a lotion made by dissolving an ounce of salicilic in a half pint witch hazel. This is remarkably effective.

SIXTY SCHOOL CHILDREN WERE HIS VICTIMS

Boston Man Wanted by Police For Taking School Diplomas of Nashua Graduates

NASHUA, N. H., July 23.—Sixty, more or less, of the 75 members of the class of 1912 of the Nashua high school are anxiously awaiting the frames for their diplomas or portraits, orders for which they gave a stranger, accompanied with the payments of from $2 cents to $1.

In some instances the solicitor took the diplomas, and the graduates are more worried about their parchments than their money. The man hired horses and buggies from the stables of Frank E. Lewis, Railroad square, Frank L. McKean, Thayers court, and Arthur D. Marshall, Reeds court, for which it is said he still owes.

To Messrs. McKean and Lewis he said when he brought the carriage back that he would want the same the next day. The Marshall rig was found hitched near the Phoenix hotel.

The man registered at the Laton House July 8 as H. W. Adams of Boston, representing the Syracuse Portrait company. He owes for his entertainment in the hotel during his stay in Nashua. He also obtained two watches valued at $10 from Landlord Pendlar, for which he said he had prospective customers, and still has them.

He was an eloquent talker and when he did not find the graduate at home, did business with his or her mother. When told that the family intended having the work done by Alderman William H. Lovejoy, who made a special price for diplomas, the man said he was soliciting work for Mr. Lovejoy.

He assured the people from whom he obtained orders that he would return with the work last week Tuesday and collect the balance of his money, but he has not been seen since by persons interested.

He obtained the addresses of the class from one of its officers, agreeing to frame the officer's diploma in payment. The officer was also to receive $2 for driving around with Adams one afternoon, but did not get his pay.

At other times he was accompanied by a young lady, not a member of the class, but the daughter of a highly respected Nashua family. Both the class officer and the young lady are greatly chagrined over the turn affairs have taken and are anxious that their friends know that they simply drove around to point the way and hold the horse while Adams was inside.

He is described as 27 years old, 5 feet tall and of medium dark complexion.

THE HIBERNIANS

GIVE $38,000 FOR CATHOLIC CHURCH EXTENSION

CHICAGO, July 23.—The delegates and visitors who have been in Chicago attending the convention and the festivities of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and the Ladies' Auxiliary departed yesterday for their homes. Many remained over Sunday to attend the annual picnic given by the Chicago and Cook County Hibernians at Gardner Park.

The loyalty of the Irish people to America to the Roman Catholic church was demonstrated yesterday by a gift of $38,000 to the Catholic Church Extension society by the Ancient Order of Hibernians. Of this sum $10,000 was given by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the order.

The gift will be used to establish a permanent fund, known as the Hibernian fund, to which will be added the gifts of individual members of the order from time to time.

Interest from this fund will be used to establish chapels and small churches throughout America. As a corollary to the donors, the society will use the money to build branches of the church where the Irish people are more numerous to have them. The money was raised by a tax of 25 cents per member, levied two years ago at the biennial convention.

BRUTAL ASSAULT

JOHNSON WAS ATTACKED BY TWO UNKNOWN MEN

A brutal assault took place in Lakeview avenue Friday night, when a man named Henry Johnson, residing at the Navy Yard, was attacked and robbed by two unknown men. Inasmuch as the victim could not recognize or give a description of his assailants, the matter was not reported to the police.

According to Johnson, who is from Finland, he has resided in this city a little over two weeks. He is employed as a weaver in the Merrimack Woolen mills at the Navy Yard, and resides at Mrs. Killig's boarding house in the Navy Yard. Last Friday evening he came to the city and returned to his home at about 11 o'clock. When he reached a point in Lakeview avenue, a short distance above Beaver street, he claims he was attacked by two men, one of whom struck him over the ear. The blow nearly severed his ear. Johnson saw the men then pounced on him and robbed him of his pocket-book, which however contained nothing but his discharge papers from the Finland marine.

JEWELS STOLEN

THEY ARE PROPERTY OF WIFE OF UMPIRE STAFFORD

BOSTON, July 23.—Miss Mary Stafford reported to Chief Kendall of the Somerville police about 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon that five diamond rings and a pair of diamond earrings, aggregating in value about $1000, had been stolen late in the afternoon from the top of a dressing table in a bedroom of her home, 131 Elm street. The jewels were all the property of her sister-in-law, Mrs. John E. Stafford. When questioned Miss Stafford said that so far as known no stranger had been in the house between the time when the rings were last seen and the time when they were missed. She furnished a police with evidence which they believe will lead either to the prompt recovery of the stolen property or to the arrest of a suspected party. Three of the rings were solitaires, the largest of which is valued at $450.

John E. Stafford is an umpire of the New England baseball league.

BEGINS WORK ON HIS SPEECH OF ACCEPTANCE

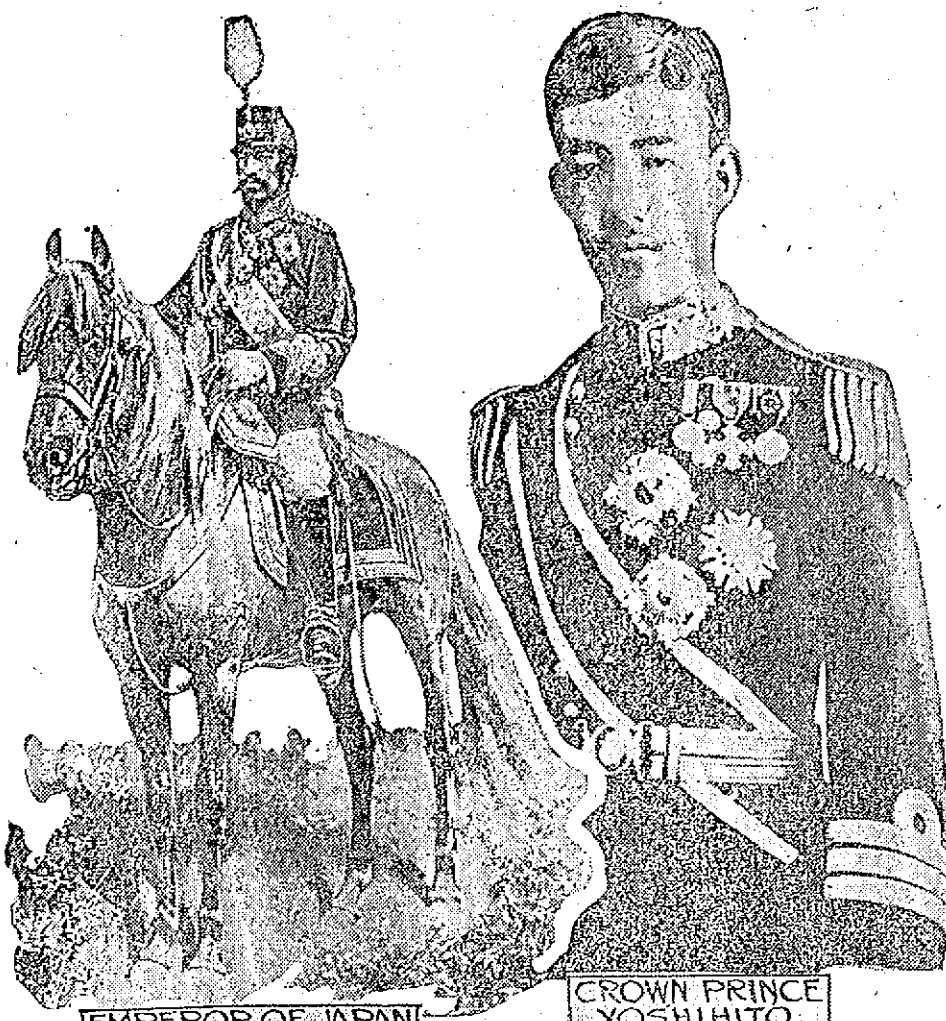

SEA GIRT, N. J., July 23.—Governor Wilson began today to write his speech of acceptance. He spent the night at the home of a friend, where he will deliver himself to all callers until the speech is completed. He expects to spend today and tomorrow at the task and perhaps a portion of Thursday. "I expect to make the speech as short as I can," he said. "Although brevity, of course, will not be my principal aim."

The governor has purposely refrained from commenting upon the platform and the situation so that he might reserve his views for the speech which he will deliver here on Aug. 7.

CROWN PRINCE YOSHIHITO

TOKIO, July 23.—Though the inkado is still alive and his condition is improved, his physicians hold out no hope for his ultimate recovery. Mutsuhito was born among the mountains of Kioto on Nov. 3, 1852, being the second son of his predecessor and the 121st of his line, according to Japanese reckoning, which reckons from the days when Jimmu ascended the throne, in 660 B. C., and on through reigns more or less apocryphal until the written records, beginning about A. D. 700. When the young emperor was crowned at Osaka on Oct. 31, 1868, Japan had no telegraph system, no railroads, no navy, no steamship lines. Feudalism had not yet been abolished. The first military school was founded in the very year of Mutsuhito's coronation.

He married in 1869 the tactful Princess Haruko, whose name means spring. She was a daughter of Ichijo Tadaka, noble of the first rank. One son and several daughters were born to the emperor and empress. The heir apparent, Prince Yoshihito, was born Aug. 31, 1879, and married in 1900 to the Princess Sada, daughter of Prince Kujo. Prince Yoshihito has three boys.

"A friend of mine had big red blotches form all over his legs, body and arms. It was pronounced a very bad case of eczema. After two months' treatment he was suffering untold tortures, and would awake at night and find himself scratching, with hands all over blood. His legs were like a place of raw meat, itching and burning. For two months he slept scarcely any, but would get up and walk the floor. He says he simply felt as if he were burning up. After the case had lasted six months he began the use of Resinol Soap and Ointment. He was cured, and his skin was as clear as crystal."

MEXICAN PRIEST HERO OF MASSACRE

He Brought About End of Slaughter

MEXICO CITY, July 23.—A priest is today hailed as the hero of the massacre near here, when Zapatistas attacked a Mexico-Cuernavaca train, resulting in the death of 34 persons.

Wounded now being cared for in hospitals today declared that more would undoubtedly have been slain but for the bravery of the clergyman who walked directly through the fire of the rebels and seeking out Dele, their leader, exclaimed: "Genero, what are you doing? Would you have the blood of innocent people on your soul?"

The firing immediately ceased and the rebels withdrew.

Trains are still running between Mexico City and the scene of the week and slaughter today. Forty-three soldiers are known to have been killed. The bodies of nine victims have been recovered and of the remaining 23 missing a majority are believed to be killed and their bodies consumed in the burning cars which were fired by the rebels. Women passengers were subjected to indescribable barbarities.

WEATHER COOLER

MANY VACATIONISTS HAD WRAPS LAST NIGHT

There was quite a drop in the temperature last evening and this morning. Many were seen wearing sweaters and overcoats. After the storm of Sunday, it was expected that the weather would warm up, but we were handed just the reverse for since the rain the weather has gradually become colder. Last evening there was a heavy wind blowing, and while many people went to the parks in the vicinity to enjoy dancing and other amusements, canoes and boats were conspicuous by their absence on the lakes and ponds.

At Lakeview there was a very strong wind blowing, and it increased during the evening. At midnight the breeze was very strong and even the residents in the city were obliged to get up and close up the windows. This morning the breeze continued and those obliged to ride in from camps and also from the outskirts of the city did not find an overcoat or sweater in the way.

During the morning the wind moderated a little, and the weather became much warmer, but at 12 o'clock today the thermometer in Merrimack square registered just 50.

COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY

NEW YORK, July 23.—After having been officially and legally "Columbia college" for more than 125 years, the institution is at last to have its name changed to "Columbia university," according to a motion filed with the state supreme court here.

This will be the fourth time that Columbia has been through the process of a rechristening. The letters patent which King George II. sent to this country in 1754 called for the incorporation of the "Governors of the college of the province of New York in the city of New York." Soon after this the institution became known as Kings college and Kings college it remained until after the revolution. In 1784 it was named Columbia.

Not Good to Eat

No you can't eat coal, but you will find it just as necessary as bread when it comes to cooking. Who wants to eat raw meats or vegetables. Non-sense of course—but sense—get good coal, the kind we provide summer and winter. Do you know the merits of coal from the famous Kingston colliery? If not, you have never laid the best in coal.

BLAME FOR THE STRIKE IS PUT ON "L" ROAD

State Board Says Men Were Discharged for Joining Union

BOSTON, July 23.—The report of the state board of arbitration, made public last night, justifies the belief of the striking car men that its members were discharged by the Elevated road for membership in the union. The board further holds the company's contention that a strike does not exist as invalid and recommends that an amicable settlement by conference of both parties be reached.

Upon the receipt of the board's report statements were issued by the strikers, by Gov. Foss and Mayor Fitzgerald. All three urge immediate action to bring about a settlement.

The statement of the union calls for "immediate action to the end that justice may prevail," and further asserts that "now that the Elevated company has been found guilty by a tribunal of this state of violating the law by discharging men for joining a union, that if this action does not take place, union labor will take the matter in its own hands by calling a general sympathetic strike of all the unions in Boston next Sunday."

Gov. Foss declared that the action of the Elevated was absolutely against the spirit of the commonwealth, and that as a result of the management of the corporation should be taken out of the hands of its present holders and the guilty officials should be punished by law.

After failing to meet the governor last night, Mayor Fitzgerald asked for a conference with the Elevated officials at 5 o'clock this morning, at which he will ask that the striking employees be put back to work at once. If this request is not granted by the officials of the Elevated, he will advise that a special session of the legislature be called without delay to enact laws that will compel them to follow the recommendations of the board.

The report was especially pleasing to me," said the mayor, "because it justified the position that I have taken that I should not interfere in this matter until the state board had made its findings."

A meeting between Gov. Foss and Mayor Fitzgerald at which their course of action in the L. strike was to be discussed had been arranged for last night at the Bellevue. The governor did not wait long for the mayor, however. He arrived at 8 and stayed till half-past. Then he told the clerk to tell the mayor when he came that he had gone to his summer home. Five minutes later Mayor Fitzgerald walked in. He received the governor's message from the clerk and left without comment.

Dist. Atty. Pelletier will today call a special session of the Suffolk grand jury to consider the charges brought by Atty. James H. Vahey of perjury on the part of Elevated officials at the hearing before the state board of arbitration. The grand jury will also take up the charge of violation by the company of the Massachusetts statutes forbidding the discharge of an employee for activity or membership in a trade union.

AT ST. PETER'S

IMMACULATE CONCEPTION SOCIETY TO GO TO REVERE

The members of the sodality of the Immaculate Conception of St. Peter's church have practically completed arrangements for the annual outing at Revere beach, one week from today. A committee on arrangements is now working on the details and will report back at a subsequent meeting. Under Rev. Fr. Mullin the sodality has grown in numbers and today it is one of the largest in the archdiocese. Hence, the committee in charge of the outing anticipates a very large attendance on next Tuesday.

OLIVE OIL IN THE HOUSEHOLD

Next to bread, there is no other article of food which has so much value as pure olive oil. It is so easily digested that it can and should be used with nearly all our foods. Pompeian Olive Oil, from the finest groves in Italy, not chemically treated or adulterated in any way, has such a sweet, nutty taste that it improves the taste of foods and at the same time gives to the body health and strength.

Pompeian Olive Oil when mixed with the flour used in clam soup, cream of tomato, or other thick soups, imparts a most delicious flavor. In making fish cutlets, or frying fish of any kind, use Pompeian Olive Oil instead of butter or lard, and the taste will be improved one hundred per cent. Sweet potato croquettes, cold slaw, macaroni and other dishes are likewise made tastier when this oil is used. By reason of its sweet, nutty flavor, it should be used in preference to any other kind for salad dressings, especially where fruit salads are served. In scrambling eggs, a little cream and olive oil put in the frying pan gives you a dish better than anything you ever tried before. Ask your dealer for a book of Pompeian recipes, and when once you try this oil in cooking, you will never do without it.

Pompeian Olive Oil is sold by druggists and grocers. Full one-half pint cans, 25 cents; full pint cans, 50 cents; full quart cans, 90 cents.

GOVERNOR FOSS SCORES ELEVATED

Charges Officials With Evasion of Law

BOSTON, July 23.—Punishment of "guilty" officials of the Elevated was urged last night in a statement issued by Gov. Foss in regard to the report of the arbitration board on the Elevated strike. The railway in the governor's opinion, should be in charge of men who would obey the letter and the spirit of the law.

The statement follows:

"The report of the state board of conciliation and arbitration on the controversy between the Boston Elevated railway company and the striking car men has been placed in my hands tonight and issued to the press."

"The report is signed by all three members of the board. It indicates clearly that employees of the elevated were discharged because of their membership in a certain labor organization, or for their activity in forming that organization."

"Such action by the Elevated is absolutely against the spirit of the law of this commonwealth, which prohibits employers from denying their employees the right to join labor organizations. This prohibition is made in the same fair spirit in which the law also declares that 'no person shall by intimidation or force, threat, or seek to prevent, a person from entering into or continuing in the employment of any person or corporation.' By violating this law the officials of the Boston Elevated Railway company have done serious wrong to their employees, and created a situation which resulted in much hardship to the general public as well."

"Public sentiment will demand a change of policy on the part of that corporation, and every right thinking stockholder should join in enforcing this demand."

"Guilty officials should be punished, and the management of the corporation placed in the hands of those who will respect not only the letter but the spirit of our laws."

"This quasi public corporation, as well as others, has been fighting my attempts the past two years to secure legislation giving the state a public utilities commission, with ample power to protect the rights of the stockholder, the employee and the public."

THE STRIKING MILL MEN

Woodworkers Held Enthusiastic Meeting

A special meeting of the members of the Millmen's union, at present on strike, was held in Runels building, Carpenters' hall, Sunday afternoon. The meeting was addressed by Mr. Shields, general state organizer, who gave the men some valuable advice on the situation as it stands at present. He also reported that the executive council of the state which met in the same hall earlier in the day to consider the financial end of the question, had voted the financial assistance necessary, which announcement was received with enthusiasm.

Mr. Charles N. Kimball then addressed the meeting and gave a resume of the trouble, urging the men to go on with the good work, emphasizing the fact that the whole Carpenters' union of the country is at their back, both morally and financially. Mr. Kimball received a rousing reception.

The meeting was next addressed by Mr. Hannigan, president of the state council from Worcester. He spoke of the liability to accident in the wood-working mills owing to the unprotected nature of the machinery, urging organization as the only way to remedy this matter as well as the general betterment of the men employed. It is a well known fact that a man looking for a job in a wood-working mill and lacking a few fingers is given the preference over a man with all his fingers. Remarks were made by Mr. Pratt of the executive board of the state council and the state of affairs in Brockton. Mr. T. H. T. H. then spoke on the necessity of having the union label introduced into the shops.

TALES of the TURKISH TROPHIES

TALE 9 - THE BANDIT CHIEF

"WHO pulled the fire alarm?" queried the Kink, as a loud clamor was heard within the palace walls.

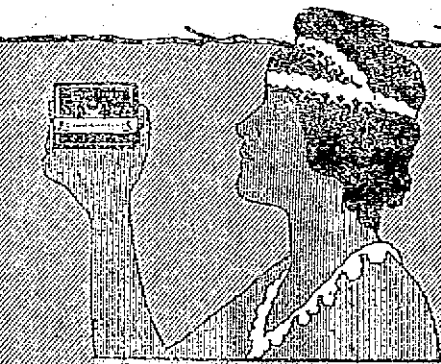

"Dire news, your Majesty," said the Secretary of state. "Old Uppercut, the Bandit Chief, has carried away ten of your Majesty's wives, and holds them for heavy ransom."

"Don't scare me like that again!" said the Kink. "I thought the Turkish Trophies' factory must be ablaze, and believe me! that would be a calamity worth talking about," and he went on with his breakfast.

MISSING BOY FOUND IN LONSDALE

Spent Two Days and Nights on Wheel

BOSTON, July 23.—At the point of complete exhaustion from hunger and exposure, Kenneth A. Libby, the 14-year-old Winchester boy who disappeared from home last Saturday, stumbled into the Lonsdale boarding house at Lonsdale, R. I., last night, with a story of having spent two nights and two days riding across two states on his bicycle in a vain search for his home.

At the time he was telling the story in the Rhode Island mill village, forty miles from home, the police and firemen of Winchester, with the Metropolitan park police and scores of volunteers, were giving up in exhaustion the search they had carried on intermittently for two days in the Middlesex Falls. It had been feared that the lad was the victim of an accident or murder, and that his body lay in some obscure spot around his home town.

The lad slowly pedaled his bicycle into Lonsdale after dark. He almost fell off the wheel in front of the Lonsdale boarding house, on the street to "The Narrows," a big building run by one of the mills and patronized by mill employees. Standing outside the door were some men, including Robert Glassey, a policeman, who ran forward when they saw that the youngster was staggering and seemed about to fall. Young Libby showed signs of his experiences. His face was drawn with hunger and exposure, his eyes were heavy from lack of sleep, and his whole figure bespoke utter fatigue. The bicycle was covered with mud.

After he had been taken into the boarding house and been given a meal, he was pressed to give an account of himself. He seemed bewildered and was so tired that he kept dropping off to sleep as questions were put to him. Of his experience since he wandered away on Saturday he could give no connected account, simply saying that he had kept traveling in the hope that he would finally reach home, and stating that it had rained very heavily, and he had been soaked.

NORTH CHELMSFORD

The board of water commissioners of the North Chelmsford fire district organized as follows: Chairman, George C. Moore; secretary, James F. Leashey; treasurer, C. Frank Betterfield.

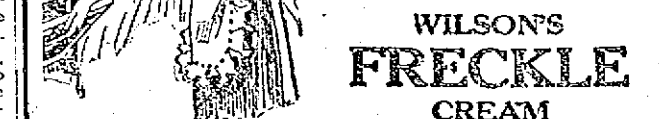

The election of a superintendent was deferred until the next meeting of the board on Thursday. At the last meeting it was also decided to extend the water service into the building of the North Chelmsford Library association on Gay street.

AFTER BAD START, LOWELL WINS

Fall River Scored 4 Runs
in First, But Grays
Won

FALL RIVER, July 22.—Lowell defeated Fall River here yesterday in a grand uphill fight, the score at the end of the game being 6 to 5 in favor of last year's champs. Fall River got the jump and what many thought the game in the first inning when they piled up a quartet of runs.

The runs resulted because of a pitcher's wildness and a rather clever home run by Capt. Bowen. The men were passed and another hit and then Bowen, who had been in the outfield, the latter landing on a base stone and bounding high over the fence for a homer. With the tie ball, the game looked like one lost for Lowell, but the Grays worked hard and fought all the way. After the first season, Dyer pitched very effectively, and he was given the support, especially in the catching department, for Monahan played one of the best games seen here this season. He talked to his pitcher and held him up all the way. Incidentally Monahan batted out two fine hits that assisted materially in Lowell winning the game.

Pitler started in the box for Fall River but he didn't last. When Manager John O'Brien saw that Lowell got his naps, Wormwood was sent in and the latter went along fairly well until the eighth, when he became wild and after he hit two men, passed three and was touched up for a double. Lowell was in the lead, and was never passed.

Owing to the fact that the regular ump did not show up, Lavigne of Lowell and Arrington and Wilson of Fall River did the honors. Arrington, who started with Lavigne, did not last as his own men began to tell him a few things about umpiring and he went to the clubhouse, Wilson taking up the job.

Lowell scored her first run in the third. Magee opened with a triple to center and he scored when De Groff slammed the ball to right for a double. McGamwell grounded to left, scored out at first, De Groff taking third. Miller fled to right and the De Groff tried to catch. Many thought he did, but Arrington thought otherwise and called him out. The throw of the Fall River left fielder was a beauty, but the Cubs leaked safe.

In the fourth inning Lowell got another one. Bowles went out at second on De Groff's ground ball. Monahan fled to right. Clemens got a scratch hit. The bases were filled and there was an argument, and as the umpire did not call time, De Groff took advantage of the opportunity and scored. Lavigne called the Lowell shortstop safe and called the Lowell shortstop safe and called the Lowell shortstop safe.

Then another argument arose. Finally Arrington tendered his resignation, and he was recorded a rising vote of thanks—nil. Magee walked. Riley was then sent to the stable and Wormwood took up the work. With three on and De Groff up, it looked rather dark for the Lowell, but he was there and forced Babe to do the wand drive.

Fall River added one in the fifth. Walsh walked to first on four wide ones and went to second on Weaver's grounder and came home when Hickman singled.

Lowell settled the game in the eighth. After Bowles had gone out on a fly, Walsh took first after Monahan being hit by a pitched ball. Monahan then sent the ball to center for a double and De Groff scored. Joe's hit got Wormwood and the latter walked. The result that Monahan was forced home, with another run. De Groff was hit and Pfeiffer scored. The score was then 4 to 4 and McGamwell fled to right and Clemens came home. Miller ended the inning on a fly to Merrill.

Fall River tried hard to score in the eighth and ninth but there was nothing doing. The score:

Another Field That Was Occupied by Man Has Gone by Women Are Now Engaged in Playing the Game of Polo

When the hard driven wooden ball goes whizzing through the air along the tails of the impact of the mallet and of the snowy arm that wielded it, when the hard ridden ponies clash and smash and bump and turn only to crash together again, when the possible end of the game is buried in mud six inches thick, churned into a smear by the cutting hoofs—with the possibility of broken or strained limbs, crushed features or death itself as the guard, the polo field, when play is on, is no place for women.

Not for most women. But "there are others," as the French say. There are women—not many, it must be admitted—who glory in the thrills of the king's sport and seek at the danger. When the polo season is on they imperil their necks, their limbs and their reputations for womanly gentleness. Point you polo as you will, to this complexion it must come at last. It is no game for the woman whose idea of something good to ride upon is a rocking chair. Nor is it a game for the woman who lives and moves and has her being within the circle of the conventionalities.

When the game is on and the ponies must be ridden hard across the field to the spot where the ball lies waiting the first touch of the mallet, when the horses, playing the game fully as much as their masters and mistresses, rear and plunge in mad endeavor to upset their opponents there is no time to think of appearances. "The game is the thing," not disarranged dress or spills or muddled hair or muddled features or loss of calm and dignity. When you are trying to whack the sphere far beyond the other fellow's or woman's reach you've no time to think of last hairpins.

Polo playing by women in teams is a new "stunt," one of the newest in the sporting world. Of course there have been always, since the time when Emperor Aurangzeb or somebody like that invented the game of polo, centuries ago, women who have dabbled with the stirring game of the mallet, ball and pony. In recent years Florence or Adelaide or Estelle, being a good horse woman and filled with the spirit of mischief, has donned her own or her brother's riding togs and stole out in the gray dawn to take a whack or two at the ball. Sometimes even two or three of these venturesome spirits have foregathered in practice periods. And even of late years women have played in regular polo games with men. Now, however, for the first time in the history of this well known universe women have organized a polo club of their own.

They are really, truly society women who have taken up the game of polo. They are the cream of the cream, the elite of the swell. They are, for instance, Miss Eleanor Sears of Boston, California and half a dozen other fortunate places; Mrs. Thomas Hastings of New York, Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock and her two daughters, also of New York; Mrs. Reginald Brooks, Mrs. W. Butler Duncan, Mrs. Harold C. Phipps and others. These society dames could play polo with platinum balls and diamond studded mallets if they wanted to. They represent, besides daring horsemanship, skill, strength, endurance, nerve and willingness to take chances. M-O-N-E-Y in large accumulations. They need it, of course, because polo costs much mazzuma.

First, there are the ponies. Now, a polo pony isn't much for sale, but he's very strong on looks and value. There must be many of him (or her) if the polo player is to have any sort of respectable string. No polo pony is much good after he goes down head first in a melec, and the rider, just before he or she is pitched over the beast's head, hears in the whirl of disordered thoughts of the game the sickening, "rotten" crack that tells of a beloved animal's leg broken.

Good Polo Ponies Scarce

You see, good ponies are scarce. Not every horse, noble animal though every one is, has the intelligence to become a polo pony. He must be trained carefully to follow the ball, and he must be swift and sturdy and hardy and invincibly, unerringly, surefooted. In England they say a polo pony must be able to turn like a flash on a sixpence. That's about the size of a dime. And he must have the instinct for the game—indescribable, of course, as are all subtle things.

Why They Play Polo

To the charge that polo, being a rough, exciting game, with frequent upsetting of riders and entailing great strain on players, is "no business" for a woman, Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock, leader of the polo set on Long Island, said recently that she saw no reason for the criticism. She asserted with truth that in the cross country riding of the Meadow Brook Hunt and other clubs women take a leading part, being

"in at the death" with their male companions and rivals and frequently beating them to the brush.

If women can "take" fences and ditches with men, ride with them stirrup to stirrup when the fox is breaking cover, keep up with the hounds as they course like swallows over broken country and for in the "view halo" when the overtaken animal breaks cover, why can't they play polo? asks Mrs. Hitchcock. The answer is that they can, and they do play good polo when they want to.

Mrs. and Miss Hitchcock. We just can't let this thing go on to the end without telling about the Hitchcocks. You said mothers of daughters in long skirts, who spend your days in supervising your household and your evenings in happy, housewifely dreams, think of Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock actually playing polo against her own daughter! Don't rub your eyes—it's a fact. To prove it here's a recent quotation from a New York paper:

"Miss Helen Hitchcock, who is fast becoming a true shot, made a remarkably good play against her mother. Mrs. Hitchcock had the ball going down field when her daughter cut sharply across, just avoiding a foul, backed the ball, wheeled quickly and scored in four strokes from center field." Shades of Martha Washington and Nancy Hanks!

RUSIE AND WALSH THE BEST

"I found during the long time that I was in the big league that Amos Rusie and Ed Walsh were the hardest pitchers for me to hit," says Willie Keeler. "I have gone through a season without striking out, and Rusie and Walsh have the distinction of making me fan twice in one game."

"Amos could shoot them over. He had more speed on his curve ball than some of the present day pitchers have on their fast one. When the big fellow, who was with the Giants, was going right he was a wonder. How he could huzz them over the plate! I know for a fact that when he was going good it was not necessary for him to pitch any curves. That fast one always had a beautiful hop on it, and it was impossible to connect with it."

"Ed Walsh was another great one with that spitball of his. I have seen all kinds of wet balls, but Walsh has one which takes the cake."

WHY KID TWIRLERS FAIL

Monte Cross Points Out Some Reasons

Monte Cross, who played ball for many years with the Athletics and was a star in his day, says that there is no such thing as luck in baseball. Monte is positive that all good ball clubs, the ones that are always high up in the race year after year, make a study of the game and players and that by thoroughly mastering every point they have little trouble in ripping off victories. Cross says that to become perfect in baseball as in anything else, one must devote considerable time to the study of the game. That explains the reason, according to Cross, for the continued success of Manager Mack and the Philadelphia Athletics.

Having a system of signals is one of Mack's great secrets. Another is in knowing out what the other fellows are going to pull off. Mack and his players, says Cross, never fail to catch the signals of an opposing team, and when once they do everything is easy sailing. Says Cross:

"When the first man on the Athletics trots up to the plate he has instructions to watch closely every move that his opponents make in the field, and especially the pitcher. Lots of times a batter can tell what a twirler is going to shoot over the plate by watching his foot. Then many fingers have certain little habits not noticed by the fans, perhaps, by which a smart ball tosser can tell just what kind of a curve is going to come over. This trick of telling what kind of a ball is to be thrown is done by closely observing the pitcher's swing and also how he holds the sphere."

"Many pitchers fail to learn how to cover up when delivering a ball. I have noticed this at the spring training camp. Very few of the young pitchers know how to conceal what they are going to throw, and none of the pitchers can conceal the fact when they intend tossing the ball to first trying to nip a base runner. Most young pitchers will plainly show in throwing to the initial sack some little habit that should be easy for the runner quickly to solve. The fault with the youngster here and it is the same with every recruit that comes up from the smaller leagues, is that when they are about to throw to first they will invariably drag their foot on the ground in making the quarter turn. When they are going to pitch to the batter they lift the foot."

"I want to tell you something of considerable interest that perhaps few of the fans have thought of. When a young ball player is brought up for trial and by his wonderful speed and great curves the manager decides to retain him that does not necessarily mean that he is a good flinger. Just because a recruit happens to have a grand physique, speed and curves that is not by any means all that is required. He must also have brains."

"And now we are getting down to the real interesting point that I wanted to tell you about. Perhaps this youngster will go along for two or three seasons and twirl fairly good ball. All the while this particular man will be working as hard as he knows how—in fact, almost throwing his arm off every time he goes on the mound. This sort of pitching is an awful strain on a man, and it soon begins to have its effect. Suddenly by constant hard labor, the pitcher one day strains his arm, his speed and curves are gone, and the fans figure that he is through. But such is far from being true."

When a big, strong fellow suddenly awakes to the fact that his arm is gone he becomes a real clever pitcher, and by that I mean a smart, heady twirler. He then goes to rely solely upon head work to fool the opposing hitters, and instead of merely using his once wonderful arm he falls back on his brain to hold his job. Remember quite a few years ago Christy Mathewson hurt his arm, and many of the wise ones had it that this fellow was through. Well, what did Matty do? He simply developed a new curve ball, and today he is still considered one of the greatest pitchers in the game. There are many other cases quite similar to that of Mathewson's."

There is another thing I want to say about bush league pitchers who get a chance in the big league, but are turned back because they lose control. If these same men would only practice hard under some manager or coach who knew just what to do under such conditions not half the men would be sent back. I take the credit for developing Jack Coombs into a clever twirler, as I worked with him constantly and helped him to gain control. When Jack broke in he was as wild as any pitcher that I had ever before seen. He didn't seem to have any control, and what's more, it was easy to see that Jack had no idea as to how ever to become perfect."

"I took Coombs in hand and worked with him every day. I explained to him that in order to gain control to try to always aim for some certain spot on the person of the catcher, when he threw a ball. For instance, if he wanted a low ball on the inside to throw at the catcher's knee. If he wanted a ball high and on the outside, to aim for the catcher's shoulder. By hard practice, and lots of it, Coombs acquired control. When Jack throws a ball now he knows exactly where it is going, and that is more than a good many flingers can say."

A NUMBER OF BATSMEN

Benefited by Sheer Force of Bingles

There are ball players who add to their store of base hits by the sheer force of their hits. Like all good hitters they land squarely; but, unlike some good hitters, they land exceptionally hard. Momentum carries many a drive of theirs along so fast that the fielder can't get to it. Other batters may land just as squarely and with as good direction, but lose hits because fielders have time to intercept them. Schulte of the Cubs is a square lander, but not a fierce swinger and is a good hitter because of the cleanliness of his stroke; but, although he is a slugger and a hitter for extra bases, his wallop does not go with the speed of some others.

Take Byrne of the Pirates. A small man, but he hits a ball almost hard—harder than any man of his inches. Wagner drives a ball with startling speed when he lands right, and hits of his have gone so straight as to result only in singles, then, had they lifted a little, the momentum and trajectory would have made doubles or triples of them. Some of his hits shoot on a bee line for the ground, too fast to be handled, but not having the arc necessary to clear the outfield.

The hardest hitter this season is Zimmerman of the Cubs, whose eye is exceptional and whose swing is powerful, but well controlled, because of his easy, natural poise. Doyle and Meyers are both in this hard hitting class. Doyle of the Giants, taking the most vicious sort of a swing. Meyers' swing is less violent, but the chief is a splendid judge of a pitched ball and meets it with beautiful precision. Like Lajoie, Speaker, Cobb and other powerful hitters, he can make up his mind quickly, while the ball is coming up and is ready to meet it.

Sam Crawford in a more set way than Lajoie jumps the ball off his bat as viciously as any of them, swinging powerfully, but not violently. He gets all his body into it. Lajoie handles the bat with a freer, lighter sweep, wrist and arm and body co-ordinating, body relaxed and in ideal poise, and is probably the freest hitter of them all. Zinn of the Highlanders also meets the ball with great force, sending it like a ball bat, yet is not a hard swinger. He swings more on the Schulte and Baumgardner order. He has an excellent batting position. Those mentioned are not all, but they will serve to illustrate the subject of players who are hard hitters in the sense that they are literally so, being "picklers" of note.

Never Travel Without Sanfords Ginger

It quickly checks stomach and bowel ills due to heat or sudden change of water, food and climate; dispels fatigue, nervousness and sleeplessness, knocks out cramps, pains, colds and chills, and wards off many a threatening ill.

A delicious combination of ginger, cream and Frank's brandy. Look for the Old Trade Mark on the wrapper, lest you get a cheap, worthless or dangerous substitute. Forty years the standard of purity, flavor and strength. Sold by all druggists and grocers.

SELEE BEST MANAGER SAYS KLING

Johnny Kling, manager of the Boston Nationals, says Frank Selee was the greatest manager.

"Selee really made the Cubs champions. He developed Chance into a first baseman, discovered Evers, Reulbach, Tinker and Schulte and gave me the first opportunity to catch behind the bat. Selee was a natural judge of playing talent. He wasn't a bulldozer on the bench, but an even tempered, fair-minded critic of the mistakes made by his players. Had he lived he would have received all the credit for the greatness of the Cubs instead of Chance. I don't believe Chance can pick up and develop young players, but he knows how to make the men placed in his care play ball. He is a strict disciplinarian and a great field general. As a first baseman and batter he was at the top of the heap and set a winning example. Chance has always believed in slipping on flies for boob plays."

THE FAMOUS TY COBB

Deserving of Censure For Recent Act

Is Ty Cobb, Detroit's outfielder, the greatest ball player that most people regard him? This question is suggested by a happening at the Detroit ball park recently, when the Georgian quit the game after the first half of the ninth inning and went to the clubhouse to take a shower bath.

He thought he would not come to bat and decided to gain a few minutes by dressing while his mates were battling. But the Tigers got a few men on the bases, scoring a run, and it was Ty's turn to bat. He was nowhere to be found. When finally discovered he was under his shower bath in the dressing room.

This little incident will doubtless cause Mr. Cobb to fall many points in the estimation of many who had regarded him as all that could be desired in a ball player. Mechanically he is undoubtedly a wonder, and deserving of all the fulsome praise that has been heaped upon him, but if he is no more interested in the success of his team than this happening would indicate he is not nearly as great as we have been led to believe.

The great ball player, the man who is worth most to his team, is the man who fights to the last ditch, regardless of the size of the score or without thinking of whether his team is ahead or behind. Any bailing is likely to change the complexion of any game, and the only players worth while are those who are on the job every minute of the contest.

Cobb, like many other stars, has enemies, but even his friends condemned him for his recent action, and he was deserving of censure. Ty owes it to the fans, as well as to his employers, to do his best at all times and to work every day for victory. He has no right to take it for granted that he will not be needed in a certain inning. A man who figures that way does not have the best interests of his team at heart.

BROWNS LAND CRACK PITCHER

A new pitcher has been captured by the St. Louis Browns. He is a collegian, Right Hander Adams, and hails from the Albright college of Myerstown, Pa. Adams was discovered by Professor Charles S. Kelchner, one of Colonel Hedges' unknown scouts in the east, and is due to report to Boss Stovall immediately.

Adams' fame was gained a few weeks ago when he pitched two games in one day, morning and afternoon, and accomplished the feat of striking out thirty-two batters, sixteen per show. Kelchner is the one who picked up First Baseman Ed Miller. If Adams is as worthy as his namesake, "Babe" of the Pirates, and can whiff sixteen every time he pitches, then the Browns have the wonder of wonders.

CRUSADE AGAINST INFANT MORTALITY

The Boston board of health is instituting an investigation into the extraordinary infant mortality in some hospitals and following the treatment of some doctors. Improper feeding is said to be the cause. That will doubtless explain many deaths of infants. The nurses attached to the Lowell Guild find this to be one of the prevailing causes of infant mortality. They claim also that there are many mothers who adopt artificial feeding for their babies without any cause except to avoid the trouble. The modified milk prepared at the milk station or prepared from the medical formula is the best substitute for the natural food; but skill is necessary even in using that. The Lowell Guild is doing much to instruct mothers in the preparation of modified milk for children of various ages as well as on other important matters in the care of children.

The local board of health should circulate as widely as possible its rules for the care of children in hot weather, and it should also note whether there is a train of infant deaths following treatment by any particular doctor.

Speaking of the crusade started in Boston an official of the board of health says:

"We must have the most conscientious co-operation of the physicians, hospitals and parents of the children. We feel that many of the babies could easily be saved, and we are going to see to it that all that can be saved are saved, or we will know the reason why. It is not our intention to antagonize any physician, hospital or anyone else for that matter. We intend to co-operate with the physicians and hospitals. If we are convinced that a physician or a hospital does not do its full duty by their patients why of course that will be another thing."

Doubtless the Boston board has good grounds for its movement to lessen the infant mortality. The doctors are not numerous who can analyze the ailments of a baby and prescribe just what is needed.

THE NATIONAL ANTHEM AGAIN

Again has the question of what is our national anthem been brought to the front, this time by Senator Rayner. The senator wanted an appropriation to preserve old Fort Henry which repulsed the British fleet in 1812, claiming that it was there the "Star Spangled Banner," the national anthem, was born.

Senator Heyburn objected that this famous song had never been adopted as the national anthem; but he did not mention any other, although he favors "My Country 'Tis of Thee."

The question is one that has been discussed for a long time and is not yet settled. Some poets have vainly essayed to furnish a national anthem, and some magazines have offered prizes for the best original anthem. But no national anthem was ever born on demand in this way. It comes only from the fire of genius stirred by lofty patriotism. Had a special effort been made during the Civil war a suitable national anthem might have been produced; but since that time there has been no occasion sufficient to fill the poetic soul to the dizzy heights on Mt. Parnassus to snatch even the echo of the inspired strains that alone can make an appropriate and undying national anthem. The "Star Spangled Banner" is too ponderous, and "America" is too solemn and sedate, although as an anthem the latter is more appropriate, yet in spirit it is inferior to the other.

In some future emergency a genius will undoubtedly arise to give this nation an anthem that will have the fire of patriotism and at the same time the poetic grace, the lofty conception and the musical possibilities requisite for a real anthem.

TO BURY THE G. O. P.

The leaders of the Roosevelt party do not expect to win this year, but they expect to kill the old republican party, having exposed its inefficiency, and its inseparability from graft and special privilege. The old machine may run through this campaign and then after sustaining a crushing defeat, the Bull Moose party will come up in opposition. The question will then come upon which is the real opposition party. There may be a reorganization out of which will be evolved a national party to take charge of the obsequies of the republican organization.

We would suggest that J. Pierpont Morgan and John D. Rockefeller be the chief mourners, that Andrew Carnegie deliver the funeral oration, and that the hearers be made up of representatives of the steel trust, the beef trust, the sugar trust, International Harvester trust, the rubber trust and several others equally prominent. For a monument there should be a large elephant bearing in a spacious howdah representatives of the leading trusts while the huge heart is being shot down by that famous hunter of the plains, Col. Roosevelt.

WILSON AND HARVEY

In reply to the critics who told Governor Wilson on receiving the support of Harper's Weekly after rejecting it before the nomination, it may be said that as a party candidate Governor Wilson has no right to turn away the support of any citizen or any newspaper. He is the candidate of a party whose success is of the greatest importance to the nation, and as such it is not his province to belittle the support offered him from any quarter. Before the convention he was free to choose his supporters and backers; but now the situation has changed. If Harper's Weekly supports him Governor Wilson should appreciate the fact. The country knows his attitude to Col. Harvey, so that there can be no misunderstanding. If elected, President Wilson will not be influenced by what Harper's may say just because it supported his candidacy.

THE UNWEDDED D. I. WALSH

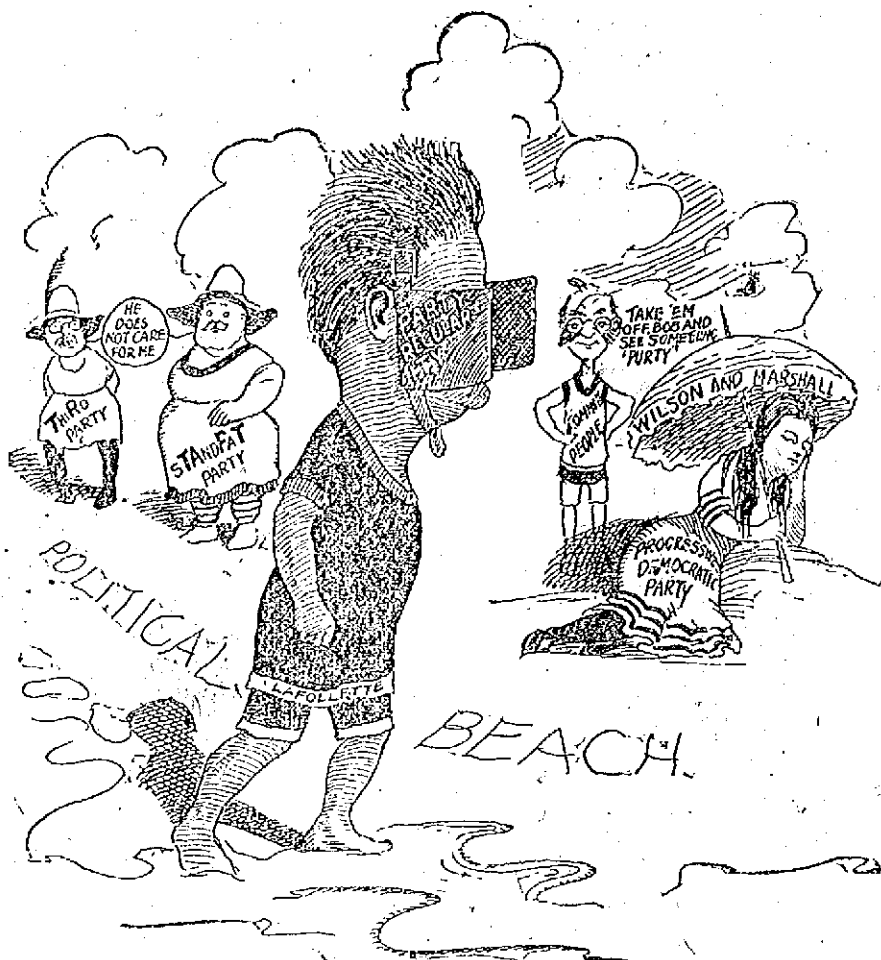

Nay that David I. Walsh's hat is in the matrimonial ring, shall it ever be said of Fitchburg's charming young women that they permitted such a Chalk candidate to escape? Don't all speak at once, please, because only one can wear the hat. Fitchburg News.

Could it have been to Mr. Walsh, Governor-elect attached when he said the candidate for governor should be a married man?

This being a leap year, some of the Fitchburg young ladies have an excellent opportunity to help Mr. Walsh in removing this hat to his eligibility for the highest office in the gift of the state.

Col. Roosevelt must be preparing a big program for his Chicago show since he has fixed the price of seats at $10, $15 and $20 each. The other parties gave free shows. It cannot be shortage of funds that causes the Colonel to adopt these prices, for George W. Perkins, the leading magnate in the $35,000,000 Morgan bank and railroad combine, is behind the Bull Moose party. The New York World hints that after paying such prices the spectators will expect something at least as good as a prize-fight in which somebody will be beaten to a frazzle.

How Grace Benson Became Famous for the Beauty of Her Hands and Arms

Grace Benson, famous for the marvelous beauty of her hands and arms in a recent interview, says: "If I could tell every woman about the prescription that has caused all this talk about my hands and arms they could every one of them make their hands and arms just as beautiful as mine. I am glad to have the opportunity to give my receipt free to the world. It will help every woman to improve her personal appearance."

When I asked her if she would allow me to publish the prescription, she quickly answered: "Certainly, only too glad to have you do it." Turning to a desk, she wrote it on a slip of paper and handed it to me. Here it is: "Go to any drug store, get an empty two-ounce bottle, also a one-ounce bottle of Kulus Compound. Pour the entire bottle of Kulus into the two-ounce bottle, add quarter of an ounce of witch hazel, then fill with water. Apply night and morning."

She further said: "This prescription makes the skin transparent and removes all defects, such as freckles, tan, run spots, roughness and ruddiness. A simple application works a marvelous transformation. Where low collars are worn it can be applied to the neck with equally as startling results. It is absolutely harmless, and will positively not stimulate or produce a growth of hair."

Free Prescription That Can Be Prepared at Home Without Expense

into a close fitting "overcoat" for the hook. At times this cunningly contrived implement of death would lie in the water only a few minutes when the line would twitch and I would be ordered to "pull 'er in fast." Then in yanking the line from the water I would become surcharged with excitement on feeling the resisting "lug" of the fish in its efforts to free itself from the hook and, when buttering on the end of the line, its shining sides at last appeared in view, well, I would become the most excited person in Acrostook county. Immediately my previous disappointment and enigma would be forgotten and, after finally detaching the fish from the hook, my piscatorial pride would be increased a hundred fold. At one of these joyful moments I exclaimed: "Well, Jack, I'll soon be classed as a fisherman with Isaac Walton, eh?" "I dunno, who you mean, Bill, but if like is any sort of a fisherman and can pull 'em out like you, w'al I allow I'd like to fish with him some lewry Sunday." Evidently Jack knew something about putting on the save even if he knew nothing about the famous Isaac.

Jack was a wiry, active little man with an unusually large nose, keen pair of eyes and four days' crop of beard. A pair of overalls, rubber boots, turtle neck sweater and golf cap—all weather-beaten—kept off the tan, while a "Duke's mixture" cigarette set off this attire. His remark that "I'd jes sit here all day, seven days a week, and fish" indicated his feelings on the fishing question. In fact, this enthusiasm was so pronounced that I fancy it materially though unconsciously influenced his powers of imagination. The yarns he spun about the large masses of trout, salmon or pickerel which he alleged to have drawn from the water were truly marvelous. Besides being an expert fisherman, he could hunt anything from rabbit to "hog" with any man in the county, so he informed me. This I did not doubt, for although several of his fish stories seemed in keeping with their name, still he certainly did know many of the finer points about fish catching, and, moreover, missed no opportunity of passing the knowledge along to me. He was an agreeable companion and at times an entertaining one. One "crack" which he unconsciously made is well worth repeating. While describing a fox hunt in which he and several other young men participated last winter he dwelt at length on the sagacity of the fox in eluding capture. "By crickets, Bill," said he, "these 'ther foxes are the smartest critters I've ever seen. Who ever named 'em 'live 'em a good name.' The feminine gender, I noticed, was invariably used by Jack in referring to fish. On my asking him if there was any particular reason for his being so complimentary, he replied: "Sure thing. You see, those 'ther fish are all 'eavin' gaddin' 'bout an' are always looking for somethin' fer collin', an' in particular, are always mighty slippery."

Regarding the size and number of my catches I will maintain silence, for were I to truthfully disclose their exact size and number, I fear I would lose that reputation for veracity which has taken me many years to establish. Moreover, I have noticed that when the subject pertains to the size and number of fish there is apt to be much jealousy and envy shown and innuendos cast against a successful fisherman by less fortunate, or even bungling, handlers of the hook and rod. Consequently I remain silent. Nevertheless, we were not a long time on the water before our basket was filled. Whether the basket was 5-4-1 inches, or whether it was 3-2-2 feet, I will not state, for, as I will again remark, I will take no chances on endangering what reputation for truthfulness which I now possess. However, by "trading between the lines" of this latter statement, I can easily conclude that the results of our expedition were by no means inconsiderable.

THE POET AND THE SUNSETS
The gorgeous grandeur of the sunsets thrills me.
The brilliant colors and the golden glow.
I think sometimes it must be I'm a poet.
For poets all say it affects them so,
I love to watch the sinking sun's departure.
And muse, and wonder why it goes
It leaves with regularity, I've noticed,
And always at the closing of the day.
It fills my soul with deep poetic feeling.
To watch the daily setting of the sun,
I've started several poems on the subject.
But somehow I have never finished

BABY CRUSHED

DREAM OF LITTLE ONE'S MOTHER IS FULFILLED

BOSTON, July 23.—The dream of Mrs. Annie Labovitz, 37 Barton street, has come true. Sunday night she dreamed that her little 20 months' old son, Hyman, was dead. Today he is in his coffin.

Late yesterday afternoon Mrs. Labovitz left her son while she went up to the roof of the house to take in her washing.

She warned the child not to move until she came down, but as soon as his mother was out of his sight the little one crawled out into the middle of the street and under the hoofs of a horse attached to a heavy wagon owned by the American Grocery company. The man who was driving the horse stepped on the child's head.

Aroused by the shrieks of the woman who witnessed the accident, Mrs. Labovitz rushed down from the roof of the tenement to the street. "My dream has come true," she cried when told of the accident, and fainted. The driver of the team, Abraham Cohen of 51 Leverett street, was arrested by Officer Parmenter of the Joy street station and was held pending investigation.

A LITTLE NONSENSE

WARDING OFF THE REQUEST. "The very instant that Brown was married he struck his father-in-law for a loan."

"Why did he do that?" "His bride had warned him that the old man intended to strike him for one."

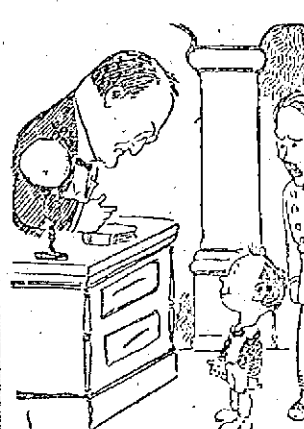

THEY AREN'T WISE. Mrs. Boardmanhouse--I don't see why all these flies come here.

Poetish Boarder--Not when there is a first class class across the street for the same price. They must be strangers in town.

AN EYE FOR BUSINESS. Summer Boarder--I could spend years looking at that mountain.

The Landlord--Well, board by the year comes cheaper. Just look look!

'AMBITIOUS. Judge--You are only 12 years old and have been caught four times at petty larceny. Where do you expect to finish?

Culprit--If I tend strictly to business I hope to grow up to be a first-class second-story man.

HARDLY ABLE TO DO IT. "My household bills are paid weekly."

"So are mine--very weakly, indeed."

STANDPATTERS. First Statesman--We don't want any standpatters in our party.

Second Statesman--No; and yet we don't want too many of those people who are always side-stepping so that you can't tell where they stand.

LITTLE YACHTS

ARE REPORTED TO BE SAFELY HARBORED

PORTLAND, Me., July 23.—Telephone calls from ports along the coast reporting the missing craft of the Boston Yacht club fleet were anxiously awaited during the morning hours today by the yachtsmen who were assembled in the harbor as guests of the Portland Yacht club. Slowly the information came in that the little craft, some of them damaged by their experience in yesterday's run from Little Harbor, Portsmouth, to Portland were safely harbored at Cape Porpoise, Biddeford Pool, Wells beach or some other safe anchorage.

No word had been received shortly before noon from the auxiliary sail Yarmouth and the ship Alkyris, and there was some anxiety although it was believed they were safe. Commander Alfred Douglas, who investigated a report last night that a ship was lying in a distressed condition six miles south of the entrance to Portland harbor, found no trace of any of the boats. It was planned to hold races in the harbor this afternoon by members of both clubs for cups donated by Portland yachtsmen.

MATRIMONIAL

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at 3 o'clock this afternoon at Notre Dame de Lourdes church in Branch street, when Mr. Reginald Sheldon, a popular young man of North Chelmsford and superintendent for the Albion Construction company, and Miss Lillian Coggin, a charming young woman of this city, were united in the bonds of matrimony. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Fr. Laguerre, O. M. I. The young couple were attended by Mr. David Perreault and Miss Eugenie P. Cantin, the latter a sister of the bride, as best man and bridesmaid, respectively.

After the ceremony, the bridal party repaired to the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Joseph Cantin, 45 R street, where a dainty wedding dinner was served to the immediate relatives of the contracting couple. Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon, who were the recipients of many beautiful gifts, left on the four o'clock train for the White mountains. They will be at home to their friends at Pawtucket, R. I., after Sept. 1.

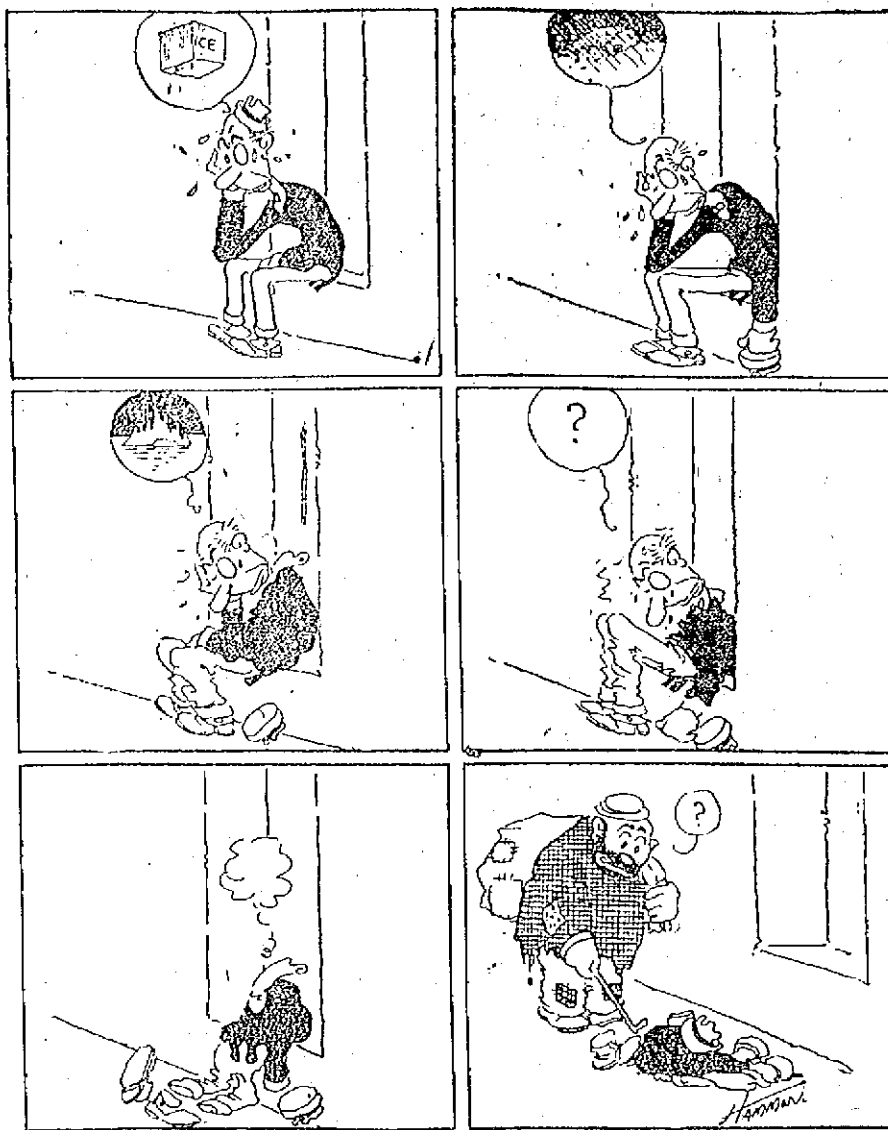

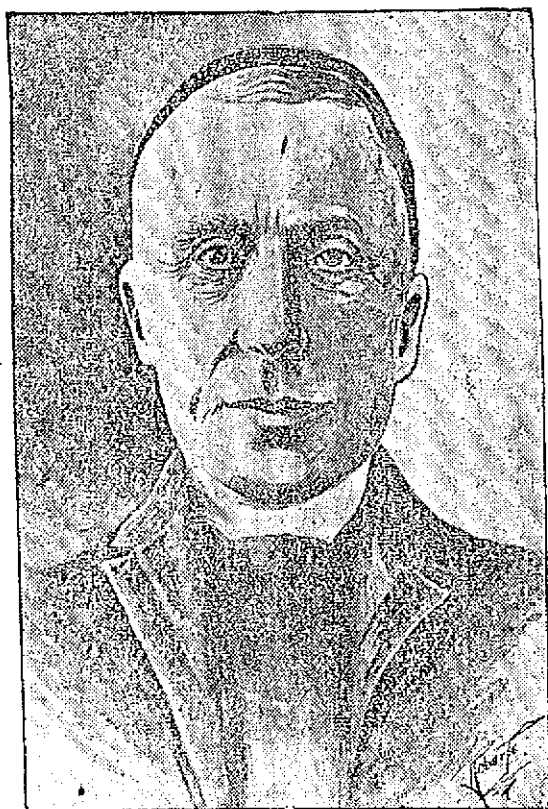

ATKINSON-BAYMAN

Mr. Alfred Atkinson and Miss Ada Bayman were united in marriage yesterday afternoon at five o'clock at St. John's church by Rev. James Bancroft. The bride was given away by her father, James Bayman, and was attired in white silk with a lace all-over dress and carried a bouquet of white roses. Miss Emma Pearson, the bridesmaid, wore a white tulle dress, trimmed with lace with a hat to match, and carried a bouquet of white carnations. Mr. Alfred Atkinson, the bridegroom, was attended by his brother, Mr. Norman Atkinson of Lawrence.

After the ceremony, the bridal party went to the home of the bride, where refreshments were served to the immediate families. In the evening a reception was tendered the young couple, at which many of their friends gathered to wish them the best of success in their new venture. The evening was whittled away with songs and readings. Refreshments were served at 10 o'clock. The committee consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wilbur, Arthur White, I. W. Foster, Mrs. Pearson, Fred Calvert and Mrs. Kennedy.

The happy couple left on a late train for New Hampshire, where their honeymoon will be spent.

"THE IVORY SMILE"

Being a Deliberate Attempt to Tell You What You Don't Know About Your Teeth

The fact that the average person can get along with one set of hands but not with one set of teeth, proves that something is radically wrong with the methods employed in caring for the teeth.

Our hands are normally healthy because they are exposed to the air, which contains a large percentage of oxygen.

Dentifrices used in the past were made simply to whiten the teeth, no thought being given to the health of teeth, mouth and gums.

Chalk and other gritty substances were used—anything to clean the surface of the teeth. Strong flavoring materials and irritants such as Thymol, Menthol or Oil-of-Whitewash were used in dentifrices to cover offensive odors of decaying teeth—and as a result the enamel coating was destroyed.

The United States government has granted a process patent exclusively to the inventors, for their method of retaining oxygen in Dentyne Peroxide Paste and Powder. Oxygen liberated when used as in Dentyne Peroxide acts as nature's deodorizer, germicide and bleach. It is the one preparation that not only cleanses and preserves the teeth but also makes them snowy white.

CHICAGO, July 23.—Jack Johnson, heavyweight champion of the world, last night made application for the first base position on the American Glants, Rube Foster's colored, semi-professional team, and will be given a chance for the place.

Manager Foster asked Johnson to report for morning practice for a couple of weeks for the purpose of developing his batting powers. Johnson says he played a fair game of ball several years ago and he has no doubt that he can "come back."

LOOKED LIKE WAX

A Symptom of Lack of Blood That Is Evident to Every One.

Pale, sallow complexion, ears that seem almost transparent, lips almost white—these are outward signs of anemia, or lack of blood.

The patient probably has a slight cough, complains of being easily tired and is troubled with palpitation of the heart.

There is one remedy for this condition—more blood. Blood is made from the food we eat but in this condition it is not made as fast as needed. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills double the blood making value of the food and are therefore a powerful agency in building up the blood.

Mrs. R. L. Harrod, of 413 South Ohio avenue, Muncie, Ind., recommends Dr. Williams' Pink Pills because they restored her to health when all other medicines failed. "A few years ago," she says, "when I was living at Bellefontaine, Ohio, I was suffering with anemia. I was pale and had a wax-like color and was short of breath that I couldn't go up stairs without stopping to rest or couldn't stand the least little exertion. I was run down and very thin, didn't feel like eating and couldn't wait to talk to or see anyone. My heart would palpitate so that I would feel weak. I couldn't sleep well, coughed constantly and had pains under my shoulders. I was so miserable that I wanted to die."

"The doctors told me that my blood was turning into water, and that I was going into a decline and asked me if there had been any consumption in my family. They didn't help me at all and I had read so much about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that I decided to try a box of them. They helped me so much that I gave up all other medicine and pinned my faith to them alone. I took several boxes and in a few weeks was completely restored to health. I became strong and healthy and was able to work again. I know Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved my life."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have also cured rheumatism, after-effects of the grip and fever, nervous diseases, such as neuralgia, nervous headaches, dizziness, St. Vitus' dance and even partial paralysis and locomotor ataxia.

A booklet of valuable information, entitled "Building Up the Blood," will be sent free to any person interested. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50 by Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

COMFORT STATION IN BRIDGE STREET

The Mayor and City Engineers Visited Several Cities and Have Plans Prepared

Plans for an underground municipal comfort station in Paige street near Bridge street have been completed and Mayor O'Donnell will ask for $22,000 to do the work. The mayor and City Engineer Kearney visited various cities, including New York and Brooklyn, and in New York especially they succeeded in corraling some very valuable information relative to public convenience stations, care, equipment etc. The mayor and the engineer believe that when completed the new convenience station will be termed a model of its kind.

After it has been built the station will not in any way disturb the street. The street will be raised upon the roof of the station which will be made independently strong to stand the wear and tear of the street above. The comfort or convenience station will be a little over 71 feet in length and 28 feet in width. The women's chamber will contain twelve closets and, presumably, pedestal lavatories and drinking fountain. The men's chamber will contain twelve closets and nine urinals.

Entrances to the station will be from the sidewalk. The ladies' entrance will be in Paige street just beyond Pollard's avenue, and the entrance for the men about thirty feet from the building line in Bridge street. The depth of excavation will average about 13 feet. The station will be lighted by electricity and a fan system of ventilation will keep the air as pure as possible. The air from the station will be fanned through an ornamental post in the sidewalk.

Before deciding to build the comfort station in the public street, Mayor O'Donnell talked with property owners in the vicinity of Merimack square and asked them what they would ask for land enough upon which to build a comfort station and the lowest price set was $20,000. The mayor thought that to pay $20,000 for land and upon that to pay the cost of the station would be more than the city could stand at the present stage of the game. Every detail as to equipment has not been considered or decided upon but the important parts have been thought out and agreed upon. The excavation work will be very heavy and expensive because of the ledge that is known to exist there. The stairways leading to the station will be of granite and built with safety rails.

There is no wood used in the construction of the station except such as is used for the doors. Two rooms have been provided for the caretakers and these rooms can also be used by men or women in case of sudden illness.

DECREASE OF $5.15 IN THE TAX RATE

Announced for the Town of Chelmsford

LARGE INCREASE IN THE VALUATION

Figures That Will Interest Townspeople

Chelmsford tax rate for 1912, $11.25. There's old Chelmsford for you. Just think of it, a reduction of $5.15 from last year. In 1911 the good people of that town paid a tax of $12.40 per $1000; quite a difference, isn't it? More than that, the town receipts this year are about 50 per cent. more than last year, and that's going some. Last year the town's valuation was $1,220,425; there were 1304 poll taxes and the appropriations were $91,619.35. This year the town's valuation is $1,244,755; there are 1333 poll taxes and the appropriations are $103,942.50. That's why every resident of Chelmsford is rejoicing and saying good things about the management of the town's affairs.

SLOOP EARLY DAWN DRIFTING TO SEA

There Are Five Persons on Board

REVENUE CUTTER TO LOOK FOR YACHT

Yacht Was Disabled Off Boon Island

PORTLAND, Me., July 23.—(Dis)asted and helpless in the heavy seas and northwesterly gale, the big sloop Early Dawn of the Boston Yacht club fleet was drifting out to sea today with five persons on board. Arrangements were made for one of the revenue cutters to leave port and search for the yacht. The first news that the Early Dawn had been dismasted in the race from Little Harbor yesterday was received late this afternoon from Biddeford Pool upon after the Vanessa arrived there. The yacht was disabled 15 miles off Boon Island and was picked up by the Vanessa which started for this port. Off Cape Elizabeth the towing hawser parted and wound around the Vanessa's propeller. The Early Dawn then drifted to sea and the Vanessa had a hard time reaching Biddeford Pool.

POSTOFFICE BILL REPORTED TODAY

Revised Parcels Post System Included

WASHINGTON, July 23.—The post-office appropriation bill, shorn of the good roads provision proposed by the house and embracing a revised parcels post system with charges based on zones of distance, was reported to the senate today by the postoffice committee.

The total appropriations proposed by the bill are the same as those of the house measure, which carried approximately $250,000,000. One of the principal increases was in the pay of mail-carriers for transporting mails, the senate committee adding more than $2,500,000.

In striking out the Shaekeford good roads feature of the house bill, which provided for federal improvement of highways, the senate committee recommends an investigation by a special commission of three house members and three senators and provides for no highway improvements until this commission has reported.

The Barnhart amendment in the house bill for the regular publication of names of stockholders of newspapers and periodicals is changed to provide for publication once a year, when lists of the stockholders are required to be filed with local postmasters.

The parcels post section is radically different from that incorporated in the house bill, which provided a flat rate of postage for all distances. The senate provisions combines third and fourth class mail matter for the parcels post service but the bill makes the parcels post apply to fourth class matter.

The senate committee struck out of the house bill the provision giving to postal employees the right to combine in labor unions and the right to petition congress to redress of their grievances.

It also provided for the abolishment of the system for carrying of first class mail by fast freight under what is known as the "blue tag" system. Under the senate bill all second class mail would be put back in regular mail cars after August 31. A special mail committee is proposed to investigate the pneumatic tube service and whether the government shall purchase that now in use in various cities. A $10,000 appropriation is authorized for improved mechanical devices in the Chicago postoffice, which is now overcrowded.

Steel cars for railway mail service, which were required by the house bill to be in universal use by American railroads by 1917 are also required by the senate bill. The house bill required the railroads to replace 20 per cent of its wooden mail cars every year while the senate bill would give the roads one year of grace and then require them to replace 25 per cent of their cars each year for four years.

VALLON SURRENDERS TO NEW YORK POLICE

He is Held in the Rosenthal Case

EVIDENCE POINTS TO POLICE SYSTEM

As Responsible for the Murder Plot

NEW YORK, July 23.—The gunmen wanted for the killing of Herman Rosenthal are beginning to fall into the nets. Harry Vallon, one of the notorious gangsters who was in the "murder car" the night Rosenthal was shot, surrendered himself to the police this morning, and within ten days Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty expects to round up the whole gang of gun carriers.

With the men who actually did the shooting in the tolls, the main work of District Attorney Whitman and Commissioner Dougherty will commence with that of trying to learn the identity of the real conspirators who so greatly desired that Rosenthal be done away with before he could make further revelations of the relations between the police and the gamblers.

Commissioner Dougherty remarked significantly to Mr. Whitman that "I guess we agree as to who is back of this killing." But the public prosecutor does not feel that Dougherty can swing the investigation of the killing alone, as he is of the belief that the police department is not anxious to capture the murderers.

The surrender of Vallon may be followed by voluntary appearance of the other gangsters known to have been in the "murder car" the night of the killing. Besides Vallon there were Harry Horwitz, best known under his gang name of "Gib the Blood," Dago Frank, a desperate East Side gangster, "Lefty" Louis and "Whitey" Louis. Vallon has nothing of the appearance of a gangster of the meaner sort. His appearance at the police headquarters disarmed the desk sergeant and he had to convince the detectives as to his identity before they locked him up.

Vallon drew up at headquarters in a taxi-cab and loungers saw a fastidiously dressed, dapper little chap step lightly out from the car and, swinging a cane from a gloved hand, mount the steps of the building.

"Kindly tell me where the detective bureau is," he asked. Vallon appeared before Lieut. McNally and gave himself up and was locked up after that astonished official could summon an officer.

Commissioner Dougherty prepared to give Vallon the third degree today to learn more about those who hired the gunmen to kill Rosenthal. That some of the gunmen have fled the city is believed by detectives, who add that the gangsters are probably hiding in gang holes in Chicago.

Commissioner Dougherty thinks that from some one of the gunmen he will be able to obtain confessions that will result in bringing to book those higher up. The commissioner says that nearly a score of men played parts in the plot that ended in the murder of Rosenthal and from among them he expects to find a "supplere."

District Attorney Whitman, when told that counsel for Shapiro was ready to have the chauffeur of the "murder car" turn state's evidence if he would be protected, said:

"I will protect every man in this case if I get the evidence I want against policemen. I will let Shapiro and Libby and 'Bridgie' Webber and Sam Paul and Jack Rose himself turn state's witnesses if I can get the police conspirators. But I have got to be shown first."

"There are bigger men than Becker in this case, and I want them. What has the police department, except Dougherty, done? Nothing. They are not doing anything now. Dougherty is honest and on the level, but he can't swing this thing alone. The murder smells of police connivance."

Sam Paul, the East Side leader, and "Bridgie" Webber, the gambler, were brought into the supreme court today on writs of habeas corpus sued out by their lawyers.

SUIT FOR $10,000

Frank W. Conklin, the well known Boston real estate man who was formerly a resident of this city, has brought suit in the sum of $10,000 against Lawrence C. Swan of Woburn. This is an action of contract on a note which has been filed at the registry of deeds in the court house in this city.

Abraham S. Goldman has had an attachment of $1000 placed on the property of Mary W. Huntley. This is an action of contract.

TO CALL OFF STRIKE IN NEW BEDFORD

I.W.W. to Hold Meetings During the Day and Make the Announcement

NEW BEDFORD, July 23.—There was not a semblance of a disturbance at any of the cotton mill gates this morning. The usual large police guard surrounded the plant of the Butler mill corporation but only the operatives gathered at the mill gates when the machinery started. More operatives went into this mill than since the strike started and in fact Assistant Superintendent Louis Kerr informed the Associated Press that his looms were practically all running and the whole plant was in operation. It is said that he had all the operatives he wanted, having drawn largely from the better class of help at the Dartmouth and Langshaw mills which are the nearest mills to the Butler of those shut down.

All was quiet in front of the Adamowicz residence this morning. Mrs. Adamowicz is ill in bed and will not appear in the district court today to answer to a charge of disturbing the peace but a physician's certificate will be presented saying that it is impossible for her to attend.

There was nothing doing at the North End of the city at the mill gates. The police report that there were a few Industrial Workers of the World pickets on duty.

No answer had been received at Industrial Workers of the World headquarters this morning at ten o'clock from the textile council to the committee asking for co-operation in calling a general strike of the mills in this city. This time being the limit set by the Industrial Workers for an answer the Industrial Workers' central committee got together and arranged to hold meetings and recommend at these meetings that the strike of the I. W. W. in this city be declared off. The first meeting will be held at South End at four o'clock, while the North End meeting will be held at seven o'clock. Elizabeth Gentry Flynn will attend both meetings.

In the district court this morning the cases of the disturbers in front of the Butler mill yesterday, Josef Adamowicz and Anna, his wife, were continued until August first and they were allowed bail. The woman was unable to appear in court.

$75,000 WANTED FOR WATER SERVICE

Alderman Barrett Presents His Request in the Form of a Loan Order

At a meeting of the municipal council held this afternoon Ald. Barrett asked for $75,000 for the improvement and extension of the water service in Lowell. He presented his request in the form of a loan order to be paid in twenty annual payments.

Mayor O'Donnell called to order at 2:45 o'clock, with all members present.

The first business before the council was the petition of the Hay State Street Railway company for alterations and pole locations in Middlesex street near the Chelmsford line. Supt. Lees appeared for the street railway company and explained that while the proposition involved only about 150 feet of track the same legal procedure as though a big line of track was being built was necessary. There were no recommendations to the petition and it was referred to the commissioner on streets and highways.

Several petitions for licenses to keep, store and sell gasoline were granted.

A petition that Wilton avenue be extended to Columbus avenue was referred to the commissioner on streets and highways.

The petition of James W. Marshall for permission to move a building from Swan street to London street was read and a hearing set for August 6, at 2 p. m.

Minor petitions for pole locations and wire attachments were referred to the commissioner on streets and highways.

A communication from the board of gas and electric light commissioners to the mayor having to do with the report of the board granting the corporation's request to issue 1166 shares of stock was read. The communication was not accepted.

An order allowing the Lowell Electric Light company to place their wires for a pole of the Hay State Street Railway company in Beacon street in order to furnish light for the water department, for two or three nights, or while changes are being made in water mains, was adopted.

The ordinance calling for annual fees for pole locations and wire attachments was taken up. The proposition is to have the electrical companies pay $5 for each new pole location and $1 for each new wire attachment in order to defray the expense of the office of the superintendent of wires. Ald. Cummings did not think that the electrical companies should be asked to pay the full amount and gave notice at a previous meeting that he would not vote for the ordinance. The ordinance was passed to be enrolled. Ald. Cummings and Ald. Donnelly voting against.

Ald. Cummings called for action on the petition by the Lowell Electric Light corporation for wires in Market and Dutton streets to supply power to the Bigelow Carpet company and to a new industry in Dutton street. The petition was granted.

Ald. Barrett read a loan order for $75,000 for the extension and improvement of the water department, including the completion of the new reservoir, new wells and pumping station. The Highlands district came in for special mention in the order. The arrangement for the payment of the $75,000 as outlined in the order was in twenty annual payments. Mr. Barrett said the order writers are in favor of the proposition and he had been told by insurance men, he said, that unless better service was afforded the Highlands they would have to increase the insurance rates. Mr. Barrett said that the proposition had been given thoroughly by competent men, including engineers, and was considered by them to be very feasible.

Supt. Thomas in Favor

Supt. Thomas was present and spoke in favor of the proposition. He said that Ald. Barrett had covered the ground very thoroughly and there was little, he said, that he could add. He said he endorsed all that Ald. Barrett had said. Mr. Thomas allowed that the proposition was a very moderate one.

Ald. Barrett, in the course of his explanation, said he did not want to be an alarmist, "but," he said, "when we cut the 30 inch main at the reservoir tomorrow the city will have to depend upon the Cook wells and a 12 inch main for its supply. If anything should happen we would be in a bad fix and such a condition would not exist under such conditions as I have outlined in the proposition for the extensions and improvements as embodied in the order to borrow $75,000."

No Legal Objection

Ald. Barrett assured the council that

LOWELL GIRL REPORTED INJURED IN AN AUTO ACCIDENT

A telephone message from Boston to the home of Miss Jennie McKinley, of 29 Eighth street, this city, this afternoon said that Miss McKinley met with a serious automobile accident today. It was learned that Miss McKinley left Lowell at 10:20 this morning in company with Mr. and Mrs. John Healey and family, in an automobile driven by Mr. Healey. The latter is the manager of the local store for Mitchell, the tailor, and upon inquiry at the store it was learned that no information of the accident was received there.

The party was headed for Hampton beach, where they were to be the guests of Mrs. George Lynch and family of Tewksbury, who are summering there.

CHARGED WITH LARCENY

Eugene W. Ward, aged about 25 years, was arrested by Lieut. Martin Staher this afternoon on a warrant charging him with the larceny of automobile shoes from the garages of Otto Dow in Stevens street and Albert Sloum in Foster street. Ward will be arraigned in police court tomorrow morning.

ASSAULT CASES

TRIED IN COURT

Larceny of Shoes From Car—Thieves Found

The major portion of this morning's session of the police court was devoted to the hearing of assault and battery cases. Inasmuch as it was necessary to use interpreters in the different cases, the hearings were long drawn out.

Joseph Martin entered pleas of guilty to complaints charging him with drunkenness and assault and battery on his sister Hortense. Martin's wife is dead and his sister cares for his two children. She testified that he had been drinking heavily of late and when under the influence of liquor he was very abusive and last Sunday night he came home and assaulted her. The court found him guilty on both complaints and sentenced him to five months in jail for drunkenness, the assault case being placed on file.

Found Guilty of Assault

Epiminooudas Dracopoulos was charged with having assaulted Speros Spoticats on July 20th. According to the testimony the defendant lashed the complainant and when he was returned to the money the complainant refused to pay and the defendant struck him. Dracopoulos was found guilty and a fine of $5 was imposed.

Drunken Offenders

Charles Tessier, charged with drunkenness, was found guilty and sentenced to one month in jail. The sentence was suspended and the man was placed on probation for three months.

Otto J. Cortinaus was sentenced to the state farm, and Michael J. Sayes will spend the next month in jail.

Owing to the fact that John Miller was in a bad condition physically as a result of too much drink, the court deemed it advisable to sentence him to 20 days in jail.

John Gill and Leonard Reed were fined $5 each. There were several first offenders who were fined $2 each.

Assault in Winter Street

John Charles was charged with assault and battery on Asador Ogasman. The defendant conducts a grocery store in Winter street and it is alleged that while the complainant was passing through the store a week ago yesterday a woman in the store threw some water into the street and soaked Ogasman. The latter became angry and thinking that Charles had thrown the water, picked up a stone and hit Charles in the left arm.

The court after considering the evidence in the case found the defendant guilty and ordered him to pay a fine of $10.

For Larceny

A pair of russet shoes on the feet of Patrick McMahon aroused the suspicion of Lieut. Maher yesterday and after making a careful inquiry he was sent to the police station where he was booked for larceny and was later taken to Manchester, N. H., where it is alleged he broke into a freight car and stole several pairs of russet leather shoes.

Lieut. Maher had heard of the break and was on the lookout for the thief if he should happen to come to this city. While passing through Middlesex street yesterday afternoon the inspector came across McMahon, who was wearing russet shoes and also had a bundle under his arm.

When McMahon was sent to the police station it was found that the bundle contained russet leather shoes. The Manchester police were notified and Inspector Hatapin came in this city last night and he identified McMahon as the man who was wanted for larceny.

Garage Thieves Found

The thieves who broke into the automobile garages of Otto Dow in Stevens street and also the garage of Albert Storum in Foster street have been located through the clever work of Lieut. Maher of the police department. Three shoes were stolen from each place. The shoes have been recovered and the parties who stole them will appear in police court within a few days.

Children's Appeal Successful

George H. Brown was charged with being drunk, and after admitting his guilt was fined $5. Just as Brown and several other prisoners were waiting to be taken to jail because of non-payment of fines, Brown's wife and two children entered the police station and the little ones cried so loudly at seeing their father about to be taken away that Judge Pickman was apprised of the incident and he had Brown brought back to court and withdrew the fine and placed the man on probation for six months.

FOR DEAF MUTES

PHILADELPHIA, July 23.—Ground will be broken here next month for a church for deaf mutes. Plans for the church and parish house are almost completed. The building will be financed by the congregation of the All Souls Protestant Episcopal church. The deaf mute congregation numbers more than 250 members. It now worships in a small building at Franklin and Brown streets.

TODAY'S OUTINGS
MANY VISIT BEACHES

Leaving for Old Orchard,
Lynn and Revere

A large number of Lowell people left this city on the morning trains for the beaches, especially those along the coast of Maine. The majority of the Lowell vacationists who leave here by train are going to Old Orchard and the beaches in that vicinity. Several also left today for Oak Bluffs, while more look trains for Boston to enjoy a stay at Revere, Lynn or Nahant.

On the Fall River train this morning several immigrants arrived, having come here from New York after arriving from the old country. They later took the train for Lawrence.

The language at the station was reported as quite heavy today, and all the trains were running as per schedule.

Mrs. Shepard's Party

The employees and a few other friends of Mrs. Bromley Shepard, the well known dressmaker, went to Boston today to see her off for Europe. Mrs. Shepard is visiting Paris and other cities on the continent. She will return about Sept. 1.

Sisters of Mary

The Sisters of Mary, who are in charge of the Sacred Heart parochial school are today enjoying an outing at the summer home of the Knights of Columbus, the Genoa club. The sisters went to the grounds in automobiles that were kindly supplied for the occasion. They left their residence on Moore street at 5 o'clock this morning and proceeded directly to the grounds, where they enjoyed the many features of the beautiful place. At noon lunch was served in the camp and a concert program was given during the afternoon. The return home will be made by automobile this evening.

Cars for Revere

There were three large cars pressed into service this morning to convey the Lowell people to Revere beach on the regular excursion of the Bay State line at 7:15 a.m. The cars were well patronized, and the morning trip started at 6 o'clock. The homeward trip will start at 6 o'clock.

KILLED HIMSELF

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Miles J. Reunick, formerly a clerk to Senator G. C. Kenyon, killed himself in a hospital today by cutting veins in his throat with the glass dial of an alarm clock.

OUT OF COMMISSION

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 23.—The entrance to this harbor lost some of its guiding beacons today when Sasquatch Point light was placed out of commission by the government after more than 40 years service. The light's usefulness came to an end when the channel was deepened and broadened at that point.

ORDERS THAT ALL HOSTILITIES BE SUSPENDED

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 23.—The new Turkish cabinet under Moustapha Pasha, the grand vizier, is celebrating the anniversary of the day when the constitution was wrung from Abdul Hamid, the former sultan, by inaugurating a new policy in Albania. Orders were issued today to suspend all hostilities and the authorities were instructed to take every means of pacifying the rebel province while the troops are to be withdrawn to the principal towns. Two important dismissals of officials were announced today, those of Shehab Eddin Bey, the commandant of Constantinople, and of Edib Bey, commandant general of gendarmes.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

One of the best bills ever presented at the Merrimack Square theatre is being provided for the many patrons of this popular house this week. It is headed by a bright, clean and very acceptable comedy, entitled "A Bachelor's Dilemma," which is being presented in a very delightful manner by Mortimer Snow & Co. The play starts with a familiar setting, a lavishly furnished bachelor's apartment and the bachelor proprietor asleep in front of his fireplace. So far the playlet promises nothing unusual. A burglar enters, a little taste takes place, the burglar is disarmed and then given his freedom. But from this point on it is just one unexpected thing after another. The bachelor telephones over to a restaurant for a lunch, and instead of the "dago" whom he supposes is bringing his lunch, a very pretty waitress appears, delivers his lunch, arranges it at a little table in front of him in a dainty and attractive manner, coquettishly seats herself opposite him and eats his meal. And furthermore the maiden has deep troubles and needs a lawyer, for on New Year's night she was married to a strange young man who left her at the restaurant at which they had celebrated the coming of a new year and their nuptials, leaving her with only a marriage certificate. And so the play goes on, a medley of Italian waltzes, burglars, and terrible discoveries, full of good fun, exciting episodes and the most weird situations, and until the curtain drops it is beyond one's imagination to fathom how it will all end up. And when one has discovered it all, it is only to laugh at oneself for not having thought of that solution from the very first; it seems such a very natural ending.

Johnson and Wentworth are a pair of excellent singers and they are very good entertainers. Their songs are of the most desirable quality and as both are possessed of elegant voices, their act is very creditable.

Herman, the Mexican magician, has several new and interesting tricks with him, and he mystifies his audience in great style. His act is very commendable and as a sleight-of-hand performer Herman cannot be excelled.

Alice Bagley sang illustrated songs in an enjoyable manner, her song, "That's My Personality," winning instant applause and demands for an encore.

LAKEVIEW DANCE HALL

Last evening at the Lakeview dance hall there was a large crowd and judging from the pleasant expressions on the countenances of the many couples as they glided past the orchestra pit all were greatly enjoying the dancing. The floor there is in such perfect condition, the music so entrancing, and the vocal solos by Jack Myers so well given that a night at the popular hall can not be other than a most pleasant one. Every afternoon and evening the full orchestra is present, while on several evenings of the week added musicians are pressed into service. This evening there will be fireworks and all may see the display from the pavilion around the dance hall. The fountain adjoining the hall is presided over by a sufficient number of capable clerks which insures no waits and drinks are served properly. At the bowling alleys there are four large fans, which circulate a breeze that keeps the place as cool and comfortable as is possible.

THE KASINO

As if on wings they glide along—this gleeful cheerful Kasino throng; to music tuneful day and night, they make their way with footsteps light. If you haven't enjoyed dancing at the Kasino you have missed a real treat, for the hall is one of the largest, the floor is the smoothest and the orchestra is the best to be found in this section. Every afternoon and evening, a free concert precedes dancing, and the first dance, afternoon and evening, is free. Join the procession.

LAKEVIEW THEATRE

Prince Ellwood opened in "The Hand of Man" to a large and appreciative audience. The company is well balanced and on the whole deserves great credit. Mr. Ellwood as Tenny Tueters, the newsboy detective, is well suited to his part, keeping the audience in uprons of laughter during the entire performance. Mr. Ellwood will be remembered as a comedian in the Augusta Perry Co., who played Lowell and Lakeview park last season, appearing in a large and appreciative audience.

SICK DAUGHTER NOW WELL

Mrs. C. Cole Tells How Her Daughter Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

Fitchville, Ohio.—"I take great pleasure in writing to thank you for what your medicine has done for my daughter. 'Before taking your medicine she was all run down, suffered from pains in her side, could not walk but a short distance at a time, and had severe pains in head and limbs. She came very near having nervous prostration. She had begun to cough a good deal and seemed melancholy by spells. She tried two doctors but got little help. 'I cannot find words to express my gratefulness for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for my daughter. She feels and looks like another girl since taking it, and I shall always feel that I owe you a great debt. 'You can use this letter for the benefit of others if you wish, as I shall always recommend your medicines for female troubles.'—Mrs. C. COLE, Fitchville, Ohio.

Hundreds of such letters from mothers expressing their gratitude for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished have been received by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company, Lynn, Mass.

THEATRE VOYONS

A biograph, "Heaven Avenges," heads the bill at the Theatre Voyons today, and it is a most pleasing picture. It tells a story of the life in the orange groves of California that is thrilling and most heart touching. "Together" is a Lubin domestic drama with two of the most popular Lubin players in the leading roles. Two comedies bring plenty of laughs. One, "A Persistent Lover," with John Runny, Flora Finch and a very clever elephant actor, is especially good.

THE VERY FINEST PLAYS

Lowell theatre-goers are to have the pleasure of witnessing a series of theatrical out-puts that will at once assure the success of "The Players" at "The Playhouse." Each drama or comedy has been selected for its true worth, as well as modern interest.

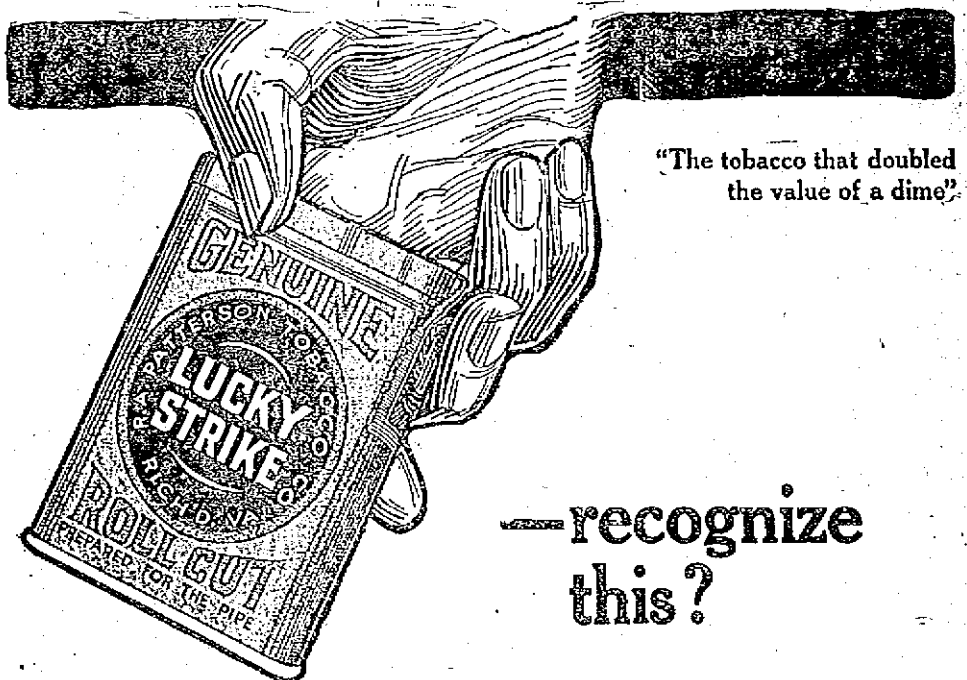

The style of drama offered will be varied. The very best authors will be represented. Plays of only a year since their original New York production, great plays of the past few seasons, as well as masterpieces of many years' vitality, will be offered.

Besides these plays will be staged with all the perfection of detail that characterizes a Metropolitan bid for popular favor. The plays will be announced later.

PHOTOGRAPHERS ASSOCIATION

PHILADELPHIA, July 23.—The tariff, so far as it applies to the importation of supplies used in the business, will be one of the questions taken up in the 32nd annual convention of the Photographers Association of America, which opened here today. Another subject will be the advisability to the camera men forming an adjunct to the association to be known as "the copy-right league." Many of the delegates claim that their pictures are "stolen" by periodicals.

FAVORS SHORT DAY FOR POSTAL CLERKS

The Senate Committee
Adopts 10 Hour Limit

WASHINGTON, July 23.—No appropriation bill reported to the senate in this congress is probably of more moment to the large cities of New England than that for the support of the postal service presented yesterday. Most of the Massachusetts delegation in both branches of congress have given more or less attention to various proposed reforms carried therein. This is particularly true of the Boston members because of the large number of clerks and carriers there who will be benefited.

Some time ago Congressman Curley introduced in the house a bill embodying the principle incorporated in the bill and providing for postal employees in offices of the first and second classes what is known as "the eight-hour-in-train" plan. There has been a very great demand for something like this from these employees. Heretofore they have been required by law to work eight hours, but had to do so during any period of the 24 hours of the day. Now, under the provision accepted by the postoffice committee of the senate, the eight hours of labor must be within a period of ten hours.

The house made the eight-hour-in-train plan effective July 1, but the senate proposes to defer it till March 4, 1913. Members of the house are hopeful of a compromise for Oct. 15 or Jan. 1. The increases recommended for letter carriers would advance about 50 per cent of these employees from $1100 to $1200 a year. The house proposed that 1240 carriers now receiving $1200 should be given $1350. The senate committee increases this number to 1717. The senate also increases from 560 to 947 the number of promotions from $1300 to $1465.

There is also much satisfaction among postal carriers in the new grading which the senate committee recommends. The bill as it now stands provides for ten grades, the highest salary being $1853 a year and the lowest $1200.

JIMMY GARDNER

HAS RECOVERED FROM ATTACK OF DIPHTHERIA

"Jimmy" Gardner, the well known boxer, has recovered from a very severe attack of diphtheria. His case was diagnosed as diphtheria on June 16. Jimmy was getting along fairly well and was looking forward in glad anticipation to the day when he could visit his home and have a go with the mite, but somehow or other he got more cold and suffered a relapse. For a few days he was on the dangerous list but his splendid physique and the courage that goes with it pulled him through and today the culture sent the board of health by Jimmy's physician, Dr. A. B. A. McCall, proved negative. Jimmy Gardner says he has had many a hard battle but he avows that he would rather meet all the Johnsons from here to Africa than to have another run in with old man diphtheria. Gardner's sickness has cost him a pretty penny. It will be remembered that his throat went bad when he was training to meet Edna McGeary at the Pilgrim A. A. Boston. He showed up, however, and was willing to fight but the doctors would not allow him to go on. It was then believed that he was suffering from tonsillitis but a little later it was discovered that he had diphtheria. He had a big campaign mapped out for the summer and fall and would have gone to Paris to fill engagements, but for the throat trouble that laid him low.

HOME RULE ISSUE

TO BE TAKEN UP BY A. O. H.
BOARD OF ERIN

PHILADELPHIA, June 23.—The question of Home Rule for Ireland is one of the matters that will come before the biennial convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians board of Erin, which begins in this city today with delegates from 25 states and three provinces of Canada. It is expected a resolution will be adopted pledging the support of the order to the Irish parliamentary party.

REIDPATH TO WED

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 23.—The engagement of Charles D. Reidpath, winner of the 100 metre event at the Olympic games, Stockholm, and Miss Sarah Pratt of this city, has just been announced here. They will be married early this fall. The Olympic hero and his bride-elect attended Lafayette high school together. Miss Pratt is a kindergarten teacher.

First Appearance Here in a Few Weeks

Local automobile dealers are now preparing for the showing of 1913 models, and it is expected that within a few weeks the first of the new cars will make their appearance in this city. At the present time the sale of this year's cars is practically over but many second hand cars taken in trade for new ones are being disposed of at low prices and in many instances a person in purchasing a high priced car at a moderate figure will be better satisfied than paying out the same amount of money for a low priced car which is brand new.

Undertaker Amodeo Archambault has received his model 45 Oakland touring car, which is a beauty. It has a capacity of seven passengers and the body and running gear are finished in royal blue. The Oakland limousine which Mr. Archambault has also purchased is expected to arrive in this city about the middle of August. The upholstery of this car will be of light broadcloth and the machine will be equipped with electric lights, both outside and inside, speaking tubes, etc. The body of this car will also be finished in royal blue.

A Ford commercial roadster has been delivered to Dr. Wilfred J. Burke through the agency of the Lowell Motor Mart.

Automobile thieves have been operating in many of the large cities, and may at any time make a visit to Lowell. Therefore, owners of machines should take extra precaution when leaving their machines unattended in the streets for any length of time.

The recent rains have greatly improved the roads in and around Lowell and at the present time there is an absence of dust.

The heavy downpour of rain Sunday was disappointing to many motorists who intended to make a tour of the beaches or the country.

Another supreme court, this time in the Keystone State, has decided that townships, municipalities, counties or states maintaining water bars in public highways are responsible for damages to motorists or their cars, caused by contact with these unnecessary obstructions.

This is a sweeping victory for motorists, as it is believed there is not the slightest doubt about other states, as well as United States courts sustaining the Pennsylvania decision. It is in direct line with the opinion of the corporation counsel of the City of New York, who recently notified Mayor Gaynor that the city could be held for damages caused through an order of the park commissioners in "directing" motorists over a given portion of a public highway, to wit, Coney Island boulevard, between King's highway and 22nd street. The mayor at once directed the commissioners to rescind their order.

The Touring Club of America has been urging a test case such as has just been decided in Pennsylvania, and the club now proposes that an action should be brought against the toll road companies in New England with a view to showing that if in accordance members of the club's contest committee have been in touch.

It will not require much work to put the course in shape and Elgin has plenty of time in which to smooth out the wrinkles. Had the deal been closed earlier the backstretch would have been widened, but that will have to wait until another year. The citizens of Elgin are more interested than ever, for when it looked as if the races would be abandoned they began to realize what they were losing.

The deal also marks the return to the promotion field of the Chicago Automobile club, which has held aloof from the sport since the Crown Point road races in 1909, which were handled by the C. A. C.

Boston will again have two shows in 1913. The pleasure car section under the auspices of the Boston Automobile Dealers' Association, Inc., will be held as usual in Mechanics building, March 8 to 15, inclusive, and the truck show held by the Boston Commercial Motor Vehicle Association, Inc., from March 19 to 26, inclusive.

The first exclusive truck show held last March was a great surprise to all—not only from the volume of business transacted but the general interest and attendance. Practically all the space was subscribed for, and a comparison with the other big shows was all in favor of Boston. From present indications and the applications for space the coming show will eclipse that of last year.

The pleasure car section will as usual prove the great magnet for every New England—not only will every make of car be shown, but elaborate preparations are under way for the usual unique decorative features.

COL. ROOSEVELT

TELLS WHY HE LEADS IN FORMING NEW PARTY

NEW YORK, July 23.—In his first speech since he returned from Chicago, Col. Roosevelt today set forth his reasons for leading in the formation of a new party. His address was delivered at a meeting of the New York state county chairmen. "No man knows better than I," said Col. Roosevelt, "that enthusiasm and high principles cannot be effective without organization and work. A great responsibility rests upon you men here who are undertaking the organization of a new party which is to stand four squared to democracy, which is to be literally the party of the people. It will fight on live issues and not dead ones. It will embody a protest against the corruption in both of the old party machines. It will be a party into which ex-democrats and ex-republicans without regard to their past are to come on an exact equality and to have each the same share in the party management."

"We are going to see to it that this party is organized so that it will be impossible for any 50 men chosen four years before by politicians to stand superior to all the voters of a great state like California, and if that state has not shaped its laws according to a given call of 500 private men the state shall not be disenfranchised."

"My own judgment is that Messrs. Barnes, Penrose, Guggenheim & Company made a poor swap when they took the stolen delegates from California in place of the electoral vote of California. They were not content with that. They swapped the electoral vote of Massachusetts for the vote of two delegates. I think it was about as expensive a swap as ever made by political managers."

DIFFICULT TASK

TO SECURE WORKING QUORUM
IN THE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, July 23.—The problem of maintaining a working quorum in the house came up today before the journal of yesterday's proceedings had been read. Business was delayed half an hour until a quorum was secured. Sergeants-at-arms were sent out yesterday with warrants for the arrest of the absent members before a quorum was secured.

NURSE IS MISSING

NEW YORK, July 23.—Although a general alarm has been sent out, no word of Miss Dorcas Snodgrass, the missing Mount Vernon nurse, has been received by either the police or the young woman's friends. Miss Snodgrass was engaged to marry Eugene Schmidt, a well to do young man who has been making a persistent search for his sweetheart since her disappearance last Wednesday.

THE LOWELL POLICE DEFEATED

By the Lynn "Cops" by a Score of 28 to 19

The Lynn police ball team with a bunch of rooters came to Lowell today on a special car and were entertained at Spaulding park by the Lowell police team. The game lasted three hours and there were all hits was: Lynn 28, Lowell 19. The game was played under difficulties owing to the strong wind that blew across the diamond.

Lowell took a lead at the early part of the game, and it looked as if the local boys, who have yet to win from the team from the ocean side, were going to win, but despite the fact that Ed Connors and a few more got in the way of the ball and tried all kinds of tricks there was no chance to cop.

Big Jack Sullivan went in to pitch for the locals and worked for a 1-2 inning, allowing the visitors 12 hits, and the score was tied, 17 to 17. McCarthy, who was hit, and the Lynn men won out, by good batting, assisted by numerous errors. The wind had considerable to do with the misplays, but some were of the bad apple order.

Lynn got two in the first inning on three hits and an error by Clark in left field. In Lowell's half, Manager Donovan's boys scored one on an error by Rock and a hit by Conney.

In the second Lowell scored 11 runs, on seven hits, three stolen bases, two bases on balls, five errors and a man being hit. It looked to the Lowell men as though they were to come back for the defeat at the hands of the Lynn men, when the latter won out at Lynn on May 25 by the score of 15 to 7.

The jinx got working in the third and Lynn piled up five runs as a result of three hits, two passes and a couple of errors.

Lynn continued to increase in the third getting three, five in the fifth, three in the sixth, four in the seventh, one in the eighth and three in the ninth.

In the fifth Lowell scored two and also got two more in the last and the game ended with two men on bases for Lowell, Drewett being put on while on third by a sharp throw by Donovan to McLaughlin. The summary:

TO HELP NATURE SHED
A BAD COMPLEXION

(From The Family Physician)
Beauty devotees are enthusiastic over the beautifying qualities of mercolized wax. Perhaps nothing discovered within recent years accomplishes so much, so quickly, without harm, without detaining one indoors, and at such small expense. The principal reason for this wonderful merit is that it works in harmony with physiological laws. Instead of hiding, or "curing" complexion defects, it removes them. The wax actually takes off the aged, faded, sallow or blotchy cuticle, gently, gradually, causing no inconvenience. It is Nature's way of renewing complexions. When the natural process is retarded because of deficient circulation or nerve tone, mercolized wax comes to the rescue and hastens the skin shedding. The new complexion which appears is a true one, youthful, healthy, exquisitely beautiful. If you've never tried mercolized wax, get an ounce of it at the drug store, use it at night like cold cream, washing it off in the morning.
Another natural beautifying treatment—for wrinkled, flabby skin—is to bathe the face in a lotion made by dissolving an ounce of salicylic in a half pint witch hazel. This is remarkably effective.

PRESIDENT TAFT
SOUNDING REPUBLICAN LEADERS ABOUT RECIPROCITY

WASHINGTON, July 23.—President Taft has indicated to republican leaders in the senate a wish to know their views about repealing the Canadian reciprocity act.
The senate has already passed repeal provisions as amendments to two tariff bills and a separate bill for the repeal of the act has been favorably reported to the finance committee.
Mr. Taft, so far, however, has not stated that he absolutely favors a repeal, but he has let it be known that if senate leaders favored such a measure he wanted to discuss it with them.

USED LAST BULLET
TO PUT AN END TO HIS OWN LIFE

FAIRMONT, W. Va., July 23.—Temporarily crazed with pain from wounds Policeman Otis Shaver of Monongah used his last bullet to end his own sufferings after vainly trying to kill the man who had shot him. The assassin and the policeman's prisoner, whom he had rescued, despite the fact that Sheriff George Amos and all the officials of the county pursued them with bloodhounds, apparently have made their escape.
Shaver arrested Vincenzo Angeloni, wanted for a stabbing affray in Monongah a year ago. As he was walking to the station with his prisoner, a man believed to be a brother of the prisoner shot Shaver and he fell mortally wounded.
The officer managed to stagger to his feet and sent all but one of the bullets in his pistol at the man, but missed him.
Then, suffering terrible agony from his wounds, he waved back Warren Davis, who was rushing to his assistance, with "Keep away from me, I am all in" and sent his last bullet crashing into his own brain.

REP. LITTLETON
DISSENTS FROM RECOMMENDATIONS OF STANLEY

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Rep. Littleton of New York, member of the democratic majority of the house steel trust investigating committee, today formally presented his views to the committee, dissenting from the recommendations of Chairman Stanley.
He agreed to sign the Stanley report with many reservations. That left Mr. Stanley with but two other members of the committee of nine in complete accord with him. They are Representatives Beal of Texas and McGillicuddy of Maine. Mr. Littleton's views, to which much publicity has been given, favor principally a joint body of the senate and house to study the trust question and the exclusion from interstate commerce of corporations in restraint of trade. He declines to support a proposed bill to put upon a corporation the burden of trade. Such a bill, Mr. Littleton says, would preserve "the chief fault of the Sherman law, which is the policy of a belated attack after a concern has grown up instead of providing any means of prevention."

STOLE A PEACH

12-YEAR-OLD BOY TAKEN TO POLICE STATION

A well stocked stand of delicious fruit outside a store is very tempting to many boys, especially if they do not have the price, and many a youngster is willing to take a chance of "swiping" peach, plum, orange or banana if one of the clerks in the store is not looking.
This afternoon a boy who is about 12 years of age stole a peach from the stand in front of George B. Meigs' fruit store at the corner of Bridge and Pine streets, but one of the clerks saw him and after giving chase and catching the lad turned him over to Patrolman Philip Murphy.

The boy when questioned, said he lived in Draught and went to the Colburn school, and told so many conflicting stories that the officer decided to take him to the police station. At the station he said he lived around back Central street, but didn't know the street, and he stuck to that story for a long time, but finally admitted that he resided in Charles street.

Many fruit dealers have been bothered by boys who make a habit of snatching fruit off stands and in several of the large fruit stores the loss for a year amounts to over $100.

Much Attention Devoted to Published Forecasts of Stanley Steel Report—Biscuit Made a Decline Of Four Points

NEW YORK, July 23.—The tendency of prices was reactionary at the opening of today's stock market. Steel declined fractionally on publication of the Stanley report and Western Maryland, Canadian Pacific, General Electric, Atchafalaya and St. Louis and San Francisco 2nd pfd. also were lower.

Increasing heaviness was shown in the first hour when Steel, St. Paul and Canadian Pacific declined a point each. Liggett & Myers was off four and Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh pfd. fell seven points from its previous quotation.

Wall street devoted much of its attention today to the published forecasts of the Stanley steel report. Judging from the action of the market the speculative element seemed disposed to place a bearish construction on the recommendation of the congressional committee. Steel shares fell a point, with similar declines in Canadian Pacific. Practically the entire list was heavy, the only notable exceptions being General Electric and Westinghouse, the former attaining its best quotation in some years.

Trading was dull and perfunctory. Bonds were steady.

Desultory movements in the specialties were the sole features during the noon hour. Sears, Roebuck Co. advanced four points.

The market became heavier in the late afternoon under the lead of U. P. and Reading. American Tobacco, Lackawanna, Steel and Missouri, Kansas & Texas pfd. also fell one to two and a half points.

The market closed heavy. Lowest prices and greatest stagnation were witnessed in the last hour with some slight readjustment in the final dealings. Biscuit was the weakest of the specialties declining four points.

SIXTY SCHOOL CHILDREN WERE HIS VICTIMS

Boston Man Wanted by Police For Taking School Diplomas of Nashua Graduates

NASHUA, N. H., July 22.—Sixty, to frame the officer's diploma in payment. The officer was also to receive $2 for driving around with Adams one afternoon, but did not get his pay.

At other times he was accompanied by a young lady, not a member of the class, but the daughter of a highly respected Nashua family. Both the class officer and the young lady are greatly chagrined over the turn affairs have taken and are anxious that their friends know that they simply drove around to point the way and hold the horse while Adams was inside.

He is described as 25 years old, 6 feet tall and of medium dark complexion. It is said he still owes.

To Messrs. McKean and Lewis he said when he brought the carriage back that he would want the same the next day. The Marshall rig was found hitched near the Phoenix hotel.

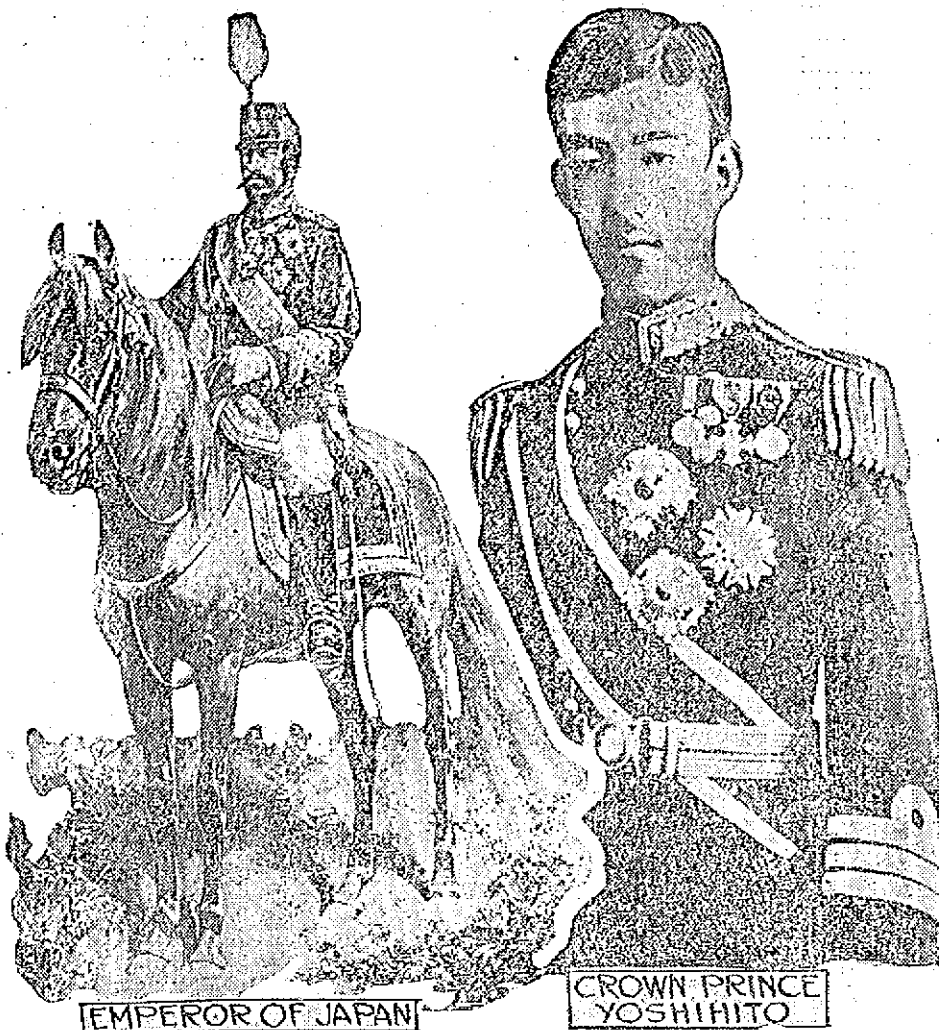

The man registered at the Laton House July 8 as H. W. Adams of Boston, representing the Syracuse Portrait company. He owes for his entertainment in the hotel during his stay in Nashua. He also obtained two watches valued at $10 from Landlord Pendall, for which he said he had prospective customers, and still has them.

He was an eloquent talker and when he did not find the graduate at home, did business with his or her mother. When told that the family intended having the work done by Alderman William H. Lovejoy, who made a special price for diplomas, the man said he was soliciting work for Mr. Lovejoy.

He assured the people from whom he obtained orders that he would return with the work last week Tuesday and collect the balance of his money, but he has not been seen since by persons interested.

Emperor of Japan, Who is Critically Ill, and Son Who Will Succeed Him

EMPEROR OF JAPAN

CROWN PRINCE YOSHIHITO

TOKIO, July 22.—Though the mikado is still alive and his condition is improved, his physicians hold out no hope for his ultimate recovery. Mutsuhito was born among the mountains of Kito on Nov. 3, 1852, being the second son of his predecessor and the 121st of his line, according to Japanese reckoning, which reckons from the days when Jimmu ascended the throne, in 660 B. C., and on through reigns more or less apocryphal until the written records, beginning about A. D. 700. When the young emperor was crowned at Osaka on Oct. 31, 1868, Japan had no telegraph system, no railroads, no navy, no steamship lines. Feudalism had not yet been abolished. The first military school was founded in the very year of Mutsuhito's coronation. He married in 1869 the tactful Princess Haruko, whose name means springtime, a daughter of Ichijo Tadaka, noble of the first rank. One son and several daughters were born to the emperor and empress. The heir apparent, Prince Yoshihito, was born Aug. 31, 1879, and married in 1890 to the Princess Sada, daughter of Prince Koko. Prince Yoshihito has three boys.

For Times Like This Keep Toiletine

Accidents in the kitchen and home happen frequently. You could your arm with steam, cut your finger, burn your thumb, get your hand caught in a drawer or door.

These, and many other little things, cause painful injuries which, unless attended to at once, may result seriously.

Toiletine is good for every skin injury. It takes out the pain and soothes at once and quickly heals the broken, inflamed skin.

THE HIBERNIANS

GIVE $38,000 FOR CATHOLIC CHURCH EXTENSION

CHICAGO, July 22.—The delegates and visitors who have been in Chicago attending the convention and the festivities of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and the Ladies' Auxiliary departed yesterday for their homes. Many remained over Sunday to attend the annual picnic given by the Chicago and Cook County Hibernians at Gardner Park.

The loyalty of the Irish people in America to the Roman Catholic church was demonstrated yesterday by a gift of $38,000 to the Catholic Church Extension society by the Ancient Order of Hibernians. Of this sum $10,000 was given by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the order.

This gift will be used to establish a permanent fund, known as the Hibernian fund, to which will be added the gifts of individual members of the order from time to time.

Interest from this fund will be used to establish chapels and small churches throughout America. As a complement to the donors, the society will use the money to build branches of the church where the Irish people are more anxious to have them. They will be named after Irish saints. The money was raised by a tax of 25 cents per member, levied two years ago at the biennial convention.

BRUTAL ASSAULT

JOHNSON WAS ATTACKED BY TWO UNKNOWN MEN

A brutal assault took place in Lakeview avenue Friday night, when a man named Henry Johnson, residing at the Navy Yard, was attacked and robbed by two unknown men. Inasmuch as the victim could not recognize or give a description of his assailants, the matter was not reported to the police.

According to Johnson, who is from Finland, he has resided in this city a little over two weeks. He is employed as a weaver in the Merrimack Woolen mills at the Navy Yard, and resides at Mrs. Kilgus's boarding house in the Navy Yard. Last Friday evening he came to the city and returned to his home at about 11 o'clock. When he reached a point in Lakeview avenue, a short distance above Beaver street, he claims he was attacked by two men, one of whom struck him over the ear.

The blow nearly severed his ear. Johnson says the men then pounced on him and robbed him of his pocket-book, which however contained nothing but his discharge papers from the Finland marine.

JEWELS STOLEN

THEY ARE PROPERTY OF WIFE OF UMPIRE STAFFORD

BOSTON, July 22.—Miss Mary Stafford reported to Chief Kendall of the Somerville police about 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon that five diamond rings and a pair of diamond earrings, aggregating in value about $1000, had been stolen late in the afternoon from the top of a dressing table in a bedroom of her home, 131 Elm street. The jewels were all the property of her sister-in-law, Mrs. John E. Stafford. When questioned Miss Stafford said that so far as known no stranger had been in the house between the time when the rings were last seen and the time when they were missed. She furnished the police with evidence which they believe will lead either to the prompt recovery of the stolen property or to the arrest of a suspected party. Three of the rings were solitaires, the largest of which is valued at $150.

John E. Stafford is an umpire of the New England baseball league.

SEA GIRT, N. J., July 22.—Governor Wilson began today to write his speech of acceptance. He spent the night at the home of a friend, where he will deny himself to all callers until the speech is complete. He expects to spend today and tomorrow at the task and perhaps a portion of Thursday. "I expect to make" the speech as short as I can," he said. "Although brevity, of course, will not be my principal aim."

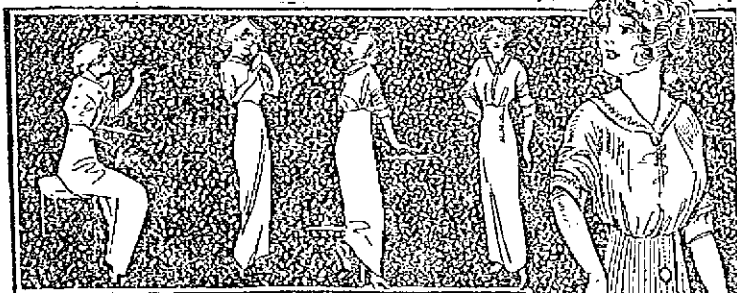

The governor has purposely refrained from commenting upon the platform and the situation so that he might reserve his views for the speech which he will deliver here on Aug. 7.

MEXICAN PRIEST HERO OF MASSACRE

He Brought About End of Slaughter

MEXICO CITY, July 22.—A priest is today hailed as the hero of the massacre near here, when Zapatistas attacked a Mexico-Cuernavaca train, resulting in the death of 84 persons.

Wounded now being cared for in hospitals today declared that more would undoubtedly have been slain, but for the bravery of the clergyman who walked directly through the fire of the rebels and seeking out Delo, their leader, exclaimed: "Geneva, what are you doing? Would you have the blood of innocent people on your soul?"

The firing immediately ceased and the rebels withdrew. Trains are still running between Mexico City and the scene of the work and slaughter today. Forty-three soldiers are known to have been killed. The bodies of nine victims have been recovered and of the remaining 23 missing a majority are believed to be killed and their bodies consumed in the burning cars which were fired by the rebels. Women passengers were subjected to indescribable barbarities.

THE ARRANGEMENTS

FOR SACRED HEART PARISH OUTING ON SATURDAY

Final arrangements are nearing completion for the Sacred Heart parish outing and field day, which is scheduled to take place at the Knights of Columbus grounds, Tynesboro, on next Saturday.

The various committees feel fully repaid in the assurance that Saturday's outing will be one of the most successful affairs of its kind ever conducted under the parish auspices.

The following is the day's program, including a detailed list of the sports, with the prices to be awarded:

At 9 a. m. and at 1, 1:30 and 2 p. m. the special cars will leave Moore street, corner of Gorham, passing through the square on the way to the picnic grounds.

9:00 a. m.—Boys' games. Baseball game, 100 yard dash, shoe race, three-legged race and scramble for money in sawdust.

10:30 a. m.—Girls' games. Baseball game, ball-throwing contest, potato race, obstacle race.

12:30 p. m.—Dinner.

1:00 p. m.—Excursion on the "Gov. Allen" begins.

2:00 p. m.—Ball game, Groves vs. Manhattan; purse of $50.

Miss Elizabeth Miskella and Miss Mary Devine, who are managing the opposing teams, are intensely enthusiastic over the scientific accomplishments of their respective teams on the diamond and feel equally confident of success.

WEATHER COOLER

MANY VACATIONISTS HAD WRAPS LAST NIGHT

There was quite a drop in the temperature last evening and this morning. Many were seen wearing sweaters and overcoats. After the storm of Sunday, it was expected that the weather would warm up, but we were handed just the reverse for since the rain the weather has gradually become colder. Last evening there was a heavy wind blowing, and while many people went to the parks in the vicinity to enjoy dancing and other amusements, canoes and boats were conspicuous by their absence on the lakes and ponds.

At Lakeview there was a very strong wind blowing and it increased during the evening. At midnight the breeze was very strong and even the residents in the city were obliged to get up and close up the windows. This morning the breeze continued and those obliged to ride in from camps and also from the outskirts of the city did not find an overcoat or sweater in the way.

During the morning the wind moderated a little, and the weather became much warmer, but at 12 o'clock today the thermometer in Merrimack square registered just 50.

COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY

NEW YORK, July 22.—After having been officially and legally "Columbia" for more than 125 years, the institution is at last to have its name changed to "Columbia university," according to a motion filed with the state supreme court here.

This will be the fourth time that Columbia has been through the process of a rechristening. The letters patent, which King George III sent to this country in 1754 called for the incorporation of the "Governors of the college of the province of New York in the city of New York." Soon after this the institution became known as Kings college and Kings college it remained until after the revolution. In 1784 it was named Columbia.

BLAME FOR THE STRIKE IS PUT ON "L" ROAD

State Board Says Men Were Discharged for Joining Union

BOSTON, July 23.—The report of the state board of arbitration, made public last night, justifies the belief of the striking men that its members were discharged by the Elevated road for membership in the union. The board further holds the company's contention that a strike does not exist as invalid and recommends that an amicable settlement be reached by conference of both parties be reached.

Upon the receipt of the board's report statements were issued by the strikers, by Gov. Foss and Mayor Fitzgerald. All three urge immediate action to bring about a settlement.

The statement of the union calls for "immediate action to the end that justice may prevail," and further asserts that "now that the Elevated company has been found guilty by a tribunal of this state of violating the law by discharging men for joining a union, that if this action does not take place, union labor will take the matter in its own hands by calling a general sympathetic strike of all the unions in Boston next Sunday."

Gov. Foss declared that the action of the Elevated was absolutely against the spirit of the commonwealth, and that as a result of the management of the corporation should be taken out of the hands of its present holders and the guilty officials should be punished by law.

After failing to meet the governor last night, Mayor Fitzgerald asked for a conference with the Elevated officials at 9 o'clock this morning, at which he will ask that the striking employees be put back to work at once. If this request is not granted by the officials of the Elevated, he will advise that a special session of the legislature be called without delay to enact laws that will compel them to follow the recommendations of the board.

"The report was especially pleasing to me," said the mayor, "because it justified the position that I have taken that I should not interfere in this matter until the state board had made its findings.

A meeting between Gov. Foss and Mayor Fitzgerald at which their course of action in the L strike was to be discussed had been arranged for last night at the Bellevue. The governor did not wait long for the mayor, however. He arrived at 8 and stayed till half-past. Then he told the clerk to tell the mayor when he came that he had gone to his summer home. Five minutes later Mayor Fitzgerald walked in. He received the governor's message from the clerk and left without comment.

Dist. Atty. Pelletier will today call a special session of the Suffolk grand jury to consider the charges brought by Atty. James H. Vane of pecuniary on the part of Elevated officials at the hearing before the state board of arbitration. The grand jury will also take up the charge of violation by the company of the Massachusetts statutes forbidding the discharge of an employee for activity or membership in a trade union.

OLIVE OIL IN THE HOUSEHOLD

Next to bread, there is no other article of food which has so much value as pure olive oil. It is so easily digested that it can and should be used with nearly all our foods. Pompeian Olive Oil, from the finest groves in Italy, not chemically treated or adulterated in any way, has such a sweet, nutty taste that it improves the taste of foods and at the same time gives to the body health and strength.

Pompeian Olive Oil when mixed with the flour used in clam soup, cream of tomato, or other thick soups, imparts a most delicious flavor. In making fish cutlets, or frying fish of any kind, use Pompeian Olive Oil instead of butter or lard, and the taste will be improved one hundred per cent. Sweet potato croquettes, cold slaw, macaroni and other dishes are likewise made tastier when this oil is used. By reason of its sweet, nutty flavor, it should be used in preference to any other kind for salad dressings, especially where fruit salads are served. In scrambling eggs, a little cream and olive oil put in the frying pan gives you a dish better than anything you ever tried before. Ask your dealer for a book of Pompeian recipes, and when once you try this oil in cooking, you will never do without it.

Pompeian Olive Oil is sold by druggists and grocers. Full one-half pint cans, 25 cents; full pint cans, 50 cents; full quart cans, 90 cents.

GOVERNOR FOSS

SCORES ELEVATED

Charges Officials With Evasion of Law

BOSTON, July 23.—Punishment of "guilty" officials of the Elevated was urged last night in a statement issued by Gov. Foss in regard to the report of the arbitration board on the Elevated strike. The railway in the governor's opinion, should be in charge of men who would obey the letter and the spirit of the law.

The statement follows: "The report of the state board of conciliation and arbitration on the controversy between the Boston Elevated railway company and the striking car men has been placed in my hands tonight and issued to the press."

"The report is signed by all three members of the board. It indicates clearly that employees of the elevated were discharged because of their membership in a certain labor organization, or for their activity in forming that organization."

"Such action by the Elevated is absolutely against the spirit of the law of this commonwealth, which prohibits employers from denying their employees the right to join labor organizations."

"This prohibition is made in the same fair spirit in which the law also declares that no person shall be intimidated or coerced, or seek to prevent, a person from entering into or continuing in the employment of any person or corporation. By violating this law the officials of the Boston Elevated Railway company have done serious wrong to their employees, and created a situation which resulted in much hardship to the general public as well."

"Public sentiment will demand a change of policy on the part of that corporation, and every right thinking stockholder should join in enforcing this demand."

"Guilty officials should be punished, and the management of the corporation placed in the hands of those who will respect not only the letter but the spirit of our laws."

"This quasi public corporation, as well as others, has been fighting my attempts the past two years to secure legislation giving the state a public utilities commission, with ample power to protect the rights of the stockholder, the employee and the public."

THE STRIKING MILL MEN

Woodworkers Held Enthusiastic Meeting

A special meeting of the members of the Millmen's union, at present on strike, was held in Runels building, Carpenters' hall, Sunday afternoon. The meeting was addressed by Mr. Shields, general state organizer, who gave the men some valuable advice on the situation as it stands at present. He also reported that the executive council of the state which met in the same hall earlier in the day to consider the financial end of the question, had voted the financial assistance necessary, which announcement was received with enthusiasm.

Mr. Charles N. Kimball then addressed the meeting and gave a resume of the trouble, urging the men to go on with the good work, emphasizing the fact that the whole Carpenters union of the country is at their back, both morally and financially. Mr. Kimball received a rousing reception.

The meeting was next addressed by Mr. Hannigan, president of the state council from Worcester. He spoke of the liability to accident in the wood-working mills owing to the unprotected nature of the machinery, urging organization as the only way to remedy this matter as well as the general betterment of the men employed.

It is a well known fact that a man looking for a job in a wood-working mill and lacking a few fingers is given the preference over a man with all his fingers. Remarks were made by Mr. Pratt of the executive board of the state council on the state of affairs in Boston. Mr. Thawlin of Boston spoke on the necessity of getting the union label introduced into the shops.

MISSING BOY FOUND IN LONSDALE

Spent Two Days and Nights on Wheel

BOSTON, July 23.—At the point of complete exhaustion from hunger and exposure, Kenneth A. Libby, the 14-year-old Winchester boy who disappeared from home last Saturday, stumbled into the Lonsdale boarding house at Lonsdale, R. I. last night, with a story of having spent two nights and two days riding across two states on his bicycle in a vain search for his home.

At the time he was telling the story in the Rhode Island mill village, forty miles from home, the police and firemen of Winchester, with the Metropolitan park police and scores of volunteers, were giving up in exhaustion the search they had carried on intermittently for two days in the Middlesex Fells. It had been feared that the lad was the victim of an accident or murder, and that his body lay in some obscure spot around his home town.

The lad slowly pedaled his bicycle into Lonsdale after dark. He almost fell off the wheel in front of the Lonsdale boarding house, on the street to "The Narrows," a big building run by one of the mills and patronized by mill employees. Standing outside the door were some men, including Robert Glassey, a policeman, who ran forward when they saw that the youngster was staggering and seemed about to fall. Young Libby showed signs of his experiences. His face was drawn with hunger and exposure, his eyes were heavy from lack of sleep, and his whole figure bespoke utter fatigue. The bicycle was covered with mud.

After he had been taken into the boarding house and been given a meal, he was pressed to give an account of himself. He seemed bewildered and was so tired that he kept dropping off to sleep as questions were put to him. He said he had been wandering away on Saturday he could give no connected account, simply saying that he had kept traveling in the hope that he would finally reach home, and stating that it had rained very heavily, and he had been soaked.

AFTER BAD START, LOWELL WINS

Fall River Scored 4 Runs
in First, But Grays
Won

FALL RIVER, July 22.—Lowell defeated Fall River here yesterday in a grand uphill fight, the score at the end of the game being 6 to 5 in favor of last year's champs. Fall River got the jump and what many thought the game in the first inning, when they piled up a quartet of runs.

The runs resulted owing to Pfeffer's wildness and a rather close home run by Capt. Bowcock. Two men were passed and another hit and then Bowcock batted the ball to the outfield, the latter landing on a large stone and remaining high over the fence for a moment. With the ball in the air, the game looked like one lost for Lowell, but the Grays worked hard and fought all the way. After the first session Pfeffer pitched very effectively and he was given fine support, especially in the catching department, for Monahan played one of the best games seen here this season. He took 16 to his pitcher and held him up all the way. Incidentally, Monahan batted out two runs late that assisted materially in Lowell winning the game.

Riley started in the box for Fall River, but he didn't last. When Manager Jawn O'Brien saw that Lowell got his man, Wormwood was sent in and the latter went along fairly well until the eighth when he became wild and after he hit two men, passed three and was touched up for a double, Lowell was in the lead, and was never passed.

Owing to the fact that the regular ump did not show up, Lavigne of Lowell and Arminger and Wilson of Fall River did the honors. Arminger, who started with Lavigne, did not last as his own men began to tell him a few things about umpiring and he went to the clubhouse, Wilson taking up the job.

Lowell scored her first run in the third. Magee opened with a triple to center and he scored when De Groff slammed the ball to right for a double. McGamwell grounded to Riley, going out at first, De Groff taking third, Miller fled to Merrill in left and De Groff tried to count. Many thought that he did, but Arminger thought otherwise and called him out. The throw of the ball River left center was a bean, but the ball looked safe. In the fourth inning Lowell got another one. Boutles went to first on a free pass, but he went out at second on De's grounder. Monahan fled to right. Pfeffer got a complimentary ticket. Clemens got a stretch hit. The bases were filled and there was no argument, and as the umpire did not call time, De Groff took advantage of the opportunity and scored. Lavigne called the Lowell shortstop safe and then another argument arose. Finally Arminger tendered his resignation, and he was accorded a rising vote of thanks—nil. Magee walked. Riley was then sent to the stable and Wormwood took up the work. With three on and De Groff up, it looked rather dark for the new pitcher, but he was there and forced Rube to do the work drill.

Fall River added one in the fifth. Walsh walked to first on four balls, ones and went to second on Weaver's grounder and came home when Hickman singled.

Lowell settled the game in the eighth. After Boutles had gone out on a fly to Walsh, De Groff first after being hit by a pitched ball. Monahan then sent the ball to center for a fine double and De scored. Joe's hit, Pfeffer, Clemens and Magee, with the result that Monahan was forced home with another run. De Groff was hit and Pfeffer scored. The score was then a tie and McGamwell fled to Walsh and Clemens came home. Miller ended the inning on a fly to Merrill.

Fall River tried hard to score in the eighth and ninth but there was nothing doing. The score:

DIAMOND NOTES
One more for "Big Jeff."
Playing great ball.

Right after Brockton.
Manager Gray expects to be on the top rung by the first of August. He made that prediction five weeks ago, and his dog looks pretty good at present.

Clemens was there with the hingles, three being his contribution to the hit column. As usual he beat out one to the infield. Pete is very fast and has the batting game today and tomorrow.

At Fall River again today and tomorrow, and the following day down with the Whalers.

The Chicago Cubs are certainly playing great ball and are making John McGraw sit up and take notice.

Buck O'Brien, the Brooklyn boy, worked for the Red Sox yesterday and they won. Looks like the world's series in Boston.

Jim Delahanty is known as a Tiger. Wilson have been asked on him, and it is understood that a deal is on to send him to the Sacramento club of the Pacific Coast league, though President Naven will not absolutely confirm this. Delahanty, because of the still ailing knee cap which was broken in 1911, has been a sluggish in his batting this year that by has slowed up the entire infield. His inability to sprint has prevented him from making good as an outfielder, and he has been out of the game so much that even his hitting has suffered. Thus his last point of usefulness has disappeared.

AMATEUR BALL TEAMS

Many Dispute the Manhattan's Claim

As the game between the Dixwells and the C. Y. M. L. team on the No. Common Saturday afternoon ended in a dispute the former would like to play the latter for a purse and further state they are desirous of the game being played at Spaulding park. The Dixwells claim that they won Saturday's game, but to settle all disputes, the manager wants the teams to meet on the league grounds.

As there are several teams in the city who dispute the claim of the Manhattan to the championship of the city, it is up to Manager O'Brien to get busy and accommodate his challengers.

The Lowell Americans are without a game for next Saturday and would like to play the O. M. L. Cadets, Rangers, Belvideres, Ponies, Highlands, etc. Send answers through this paper.

There is great interest in the game between the Manhattan and Groves which takes place at the Genoa club grounds Saturday.

The T. R. & T. team of N. Billerica is one of the challengers of the Manhattan, and as this team handed it to the Lowell boys only a short time ago, their challenge seemed justifiable.

Others disputing the title are the Y. M. C. I's and South Ends, and owing to the fact that there is such a general stir over the title, the manager of the champions should arrange to meet the managers of the teams who can't see them as champs and arrange for a series, with all those who have a chance and also those who think they have.

The Dodgers were defeated for the first time this season last Saturday, by the Cubs of North Chelmsford.

All the registered players of the Grammar school baseball league are expected to be present at the presentation of cups to take place at the rooms at 5 o'clock next Friday.

The Rangers went to Lawrence Saturday and defeated the strong prospects of that city by the score of 3 to 1.

The Graniteville team will play the Lincoln Saturday.

The Y. M. C. A. Indians were defeated by the White Sox of Graniteville Saturday by the score of 26 to 5.

The Chippewas, one of the fastest amateur clubs in Lowell, are reorganized and would like to play any team in the city. The battery for the Chippewas is Johnson and Halloran, which is considered one of the fastest north of Boston. Send all challenges to William Hineley, manager, 5 Bowden street, city.

GORMAN DEFEATED BY JACK DILLON

He Was Knocked Out in the Sixth Round

MEMPHIS, July 23.—Jack Dillon made his first appearance in this section of the Southern states last night, meeting Joe Gorman in a bout scheduled for eight rounds before the Spatsmen.

Dillon knocked Gorman down twice in the fifth and delivered a clean-cut knockout in the sixth with a short right swing to the jaw.

Gorman was, to all appearances, outclassed. He tried to box with Dillon, but failed. Then he tried to rough it, but Dillon's superior tactics at this branch of the game, a long range lightning Gorman loomed up as a novice.

In a warm rally at close range Dillon, landed with his right, shortly after the start of the sixth, and Gorman was counted out.

OUTPOINTS FAL MOORE

NEW YORK, July 23.—While Becher and Young Brown, two local lightweights, fought 10 fast rounds to a draw in the main bout last night in the Garden A. C. It was a swinging match throughout. Both lads stood toe to toe and hammered away. Becher played continuously for Brown's body and landed many hard punches. Brown did the better work at long range and his whirlwind knock-out was a draw.

In the first match Frankie Fleming of Canada knocked out Tommy Beck of Philadelphia. The end came just a few seconds before the first round. Fleming had previously scored Beck in the first session and early in the first round. Beck held Fleming even for the first eight rounds, scoring a clean knockdown in the sixth and had a slow knockdown in the last two rounds, however, and hammered Beck all the while.

Buddie Smith, a local lightweight, outpointed Paul Moore of Philadelphia in the second bout. Smith came out in pairs in six out of the 10 rounds, but Moore scored knockdowns in the second and fifth sessions. Moore was slow and only showed a shadow of his former boxing ability.

BROOKS NEAR TO KNOCKOUT

NEWARK, N. J., July 23.—The bout between Adam Balz and Battling Brooks here last night was stopped in the third round. Balz had his opponent near to a knockout.

HARRY KRAUSE
FOOTBYAMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

Harry Krause, who was recently signed by the Cleveland Naps, is the latest one to try the "comeback" stunt. Last spring Manager Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics sent the young southpaw pitcher to the Toledo team of the American association, the change seemed to do him a world of good, for he pitched great ball for the Mud Hens and led the winning twirlers in Class A circuit. SCHAEFER BATS BY REQUEST

Herman Schaefer is the best comedian on any stage or diamond. Schaefer is the greatest clown baseball has produced, and in ballroom's list of funny men there are a large number of names.

On the last western trip of the Washingtons "Germany" introduced a new stunt, a high wire act. He imitates a high wire performer, making the white line of the catcher's box do for the wire. The burlesque is what vaudevillians refer to as a "scream."

The high wire act is the funniest act Schaefer has produced. Slivers Oakley, greatest of American clowns, would be forced to swallow his make-up if he saw Schaefer going through the high wire act.

An injured hand is keeping him out of the game, but Griffith used him as a substitute batter for John Henry against Detroit recently.

As Henry started for the bench Schaefer met him and shook him firmly by the hand and, turning to the crowd, yelled:

"Ladies and gentlemen, allow me to introduce to you Mr. Henry. He is the gentleman I am to bat for."

Schaefer walked to the plate. Billy Evans asked him who he was batting for.

"Me!" yelled Schaefer. "Me!" I'm batting by request.

He leaned on his bat and saw two strikes go by. Dubuc's third pitched ball, a slow ball, was on its way before Schaefer grasped his bat. He made one swift movement and connected. Dubuc had to go in the air and knock down a vicious line drive to prevent Schaefer getting a single.

CALLAHAN IS GENEROUS

Jimmy Callahan, manager of the Chicago Americans, has a big heart. He was presented with a heap of floral pieces upon the Sox's arrival in New York. He immediately sent the flowers to the Washington Heights hospital. Callahan thought they would do more good there than with him.

GEORGE STOVALL MAKING GOOD

George Stovall is wearing the same smile as he did last season when he was piloting the Naps into third place.

He has good reason to smile. He has made something of a ball team out of the St. Louis Americans, and he is given credit for it.

George is hardly any better this season than during the seven and a half seasons he served as a Nap. The Browns needed just such a player as he is, and needed him badly.

Since Jim McAlister, then manager of the Browns, decided in 1909 that Tom Jones' day of usefulness was past, there have been nineteen St. Louis first basemen. Of these, eighteen failed to fill the bill. Stovall is No. 19, and he's worth more than the other eighteen put together. George's presence on first has improved all the other infielders. Besides playing a great game at first, Stovall is showing managerial ability, and St. Louis fans look for a first division club in 1913.

HUGHES CALLED VETERAN AT 33 YEARS OF AGE

A man in baseball ages rapidly. Five years before the public usually age him about ten or twelve in the public mind. Tom Hughes of the Washington Americans gives an illustration of this. Whenever Hughes pitches some one is sure to ask if that is the same old Hughes who used to pitch for Chicago, Boston and New York, and when that identification is accepted the remark is made that Hughes must be over forty years old.

But Hughes is not quite thirty-three years old. He started his major league career in 1901, when he was a mere strip of a lad, but he has been before the public ever since and consequently is counted among the veterans of the game.

McKinley, Bert Axworthy being a contender in the early stage. Geers trailed in each of the three heats to the three-quarters, then out loose with the gelding and each time won in the last few yards.

The only real brilliant contest of the afternoon was the early closing event for 255 pacers, in which 10 of the best pacers racing started. C. The Limit, Peter II, brs (Valentine) 5 7 5, a Grand Rapids winner, but beaten last week at Kalamazoo, was first choice, bringing over money over the field, there being considerable play on the New England pacer. Brannham Baughman, from the Cox stable.

The favorite won the first heat very handsly in 2:03 1/2, the fastest race heat of the season, the California pacer Jim Logan being a close second. The latter was an outsider in the pool, never being conceded a chance, but in the second round, after trailing all the way to the stretch, he finished fairly well, beating the favorite in the last few yards, the time again 2:03 1/2.

The third heat was easy for him. C. The Limit breaking in the stretch. Brannham Baughman was always a contender, but was a bit shy of speed.

The 215 pace was a rather cheap race, but went the limit of five heats, being won by our Colonel, who was unspectacular and not troublesome in the first two rounds. Dudie Archdale equalled the best trotting heat of the season when she won the second heat of her race in 2:05 1/2.

The feature of the racing today will be the Chamber of Commerce $3000 stake for 213 pacers, in which there will be but seven starters. The presence of the sensational Joe Patch, having scared many out. There will be ten starters in the $2000 210 trot, in which the Boston mare Chatty Bidet and the $10,000 stake winner Braden are the best liked.

How to See Colorado and the Yellowstone

By all means make your plans include Colorado. A week of that glorious air will do you good for a lifetime. And that wonderful sky. Even Italy cannot match it for clear, deep, turquoise beauty. Then the mountains—they tower above you everywhere seeming to raise your spirit with them into the cool and restful cloudland. It's a new experience. But you must also see the Yellowstone to complete your vacation. And it's easy if you take advantage of the reduced fare rates offered to summer tourists. Your ticket will take you through Colorado,

Another Field That Was Occupied by Man Has Gone by Women Are Now Engaged in Playing the Game of Polo

When the hard driven wooden ball goes whizzing through the air singing the tale of the impact of the mallet and of the shrewy arm that wielded it, when the hard ridden ponies clash and smash and bump and turn only to crash together again, when the possible end of the game is burial in mud six inches thick, churned into a smear by the cutting hoofs—with the possibility of broken or strained limbs, crushed features or death itself as the guerdon, the polo field, when play is on, is no place for women.

Not for most women. But "there are others," as the French say. There are women—not many, it must be admitted—who glory in the thrills of the kindly sport and scoff at the danger. When the polo season is on they imperil their necks, their limbs and their reputations for womanly gentleness. Paint you polo as you will, to this complexion it must come at last. It is no game for the woman whose idea of something good to ride upon is a rocking chair. Nor is it a game for the woman who lives and moves and has her being within the circle of the conventionalities.

When the game is on and the ponies must be ridden hard across the field to the spot where the ball lies waiting the first touch of the mallet, when, the horses, playing the game fully as much as their masters and mistresses, rear and plunge in mad endeavor to upset their opponents there is no time to think of appearances. "The game is the thing," not disarranged dress or spills or mussed hair or muddled features or loss of calm and dignity. When you are trying to whack the sphere far beyond the other fellow's or woman's reach you've no time to think of lost hairpins.

Polo playing by women in teams is a new "stunt," one of the newest in the sporting world. Of course there have been always, since the time when Emperor Aurangzeb or somebody like that invented the game of polo, centuries ago, women who have dallied with the stirring game of the mallet, ball and pony. In recent years Florence or Adelaide or Estelle, being a good horse woman and filled with the spirit of mischief, has donned her own or her brother's riding togs and stole out in the gray dawn to take a whack or two at the ball. Sometimes even two or three of these venturesome spirits have forgotten in practice periods. And even of late years women have played in regular polo games with men. Now, however, for the first time in the history of this well known universe women have organized a polo club of their own.

They are really, truly society women who have taken up the game of polo. They are the cream of the cream, the elite of the swell. They are, for instance, Miss Eleanor Sears of Boston, California and half a dozen other fortunate places; Mrs. Thomas Hastings of New York, Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock and her two daughters, also of New York; Mrs. Reginald Brooks, Mrs. W. Butler Duncan, Mrs. Harold C. Phipps and others. Those society dames could play polo with platinum balls and diamond studded mallets if they wanted to. They represent, besides daring horsemanship, skill, strength, endurance, nerve and willingness to take chances, M-O-N-E-Y in large accumulations. They need it, of course, because polo costs much mazzana. First, there are the ponies. Now, a polo pony isn't much for size, but he's very strong on looks and value. There must be many of him (or her) if the polo player is to have any sort of respectable string. No polo pony is much good after he goes down head first in a melee, and the rider, just before he or she is pitched over the horse's head, hears in the whirl of disordered thoughts of the game the sickening, "rotten" crack that tells of a beloved animal's leg broken.

Good Polo Ponies Scarce

You see, good ponies are scarce. Not every horse, noble animal though every one is, has the intelligence to become a polo pony. He must be trained carefully to follow the ball, and he must be swift and sturdy and hardy and invincibly, unerringly, surefooted. In England they say a polo pony must be able to turn like a flash on a sixpence. That's about the size of a dime. And he must have the instinct for the game—indescribable, of course, as are all subtle things.

Why They Play Polo

To the charge that polo, being a rough, exciting game, with frequent unseating of riders and entailing great strain on players, is "no business" for a woman, Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock, leader of the polo set on Long Island, said recently that she saw no reason for the criticism. She asserted with truth that in the cross country riding of the Meadow Brook Hunt and other clubs women take a leading part, being

"in at the death" with their male companions and rivals and frequently beating them to the brush.

If women can "take" fences and ditches with men, ride with them stirrup to stirrup when the fox is breaking cover, keep up with the hounds as they course like swallows over broken country and joy in the "view halo" when the overtaken animal breaks cover, why can't they play polo? asks Mrs. Hitchcock. The answer is that they can, and their do play good polo when they want to.

Mrs. and Miss Hitchcock

We just can't let this thing go on to the end without telling about the Hitchcocks. You said mothers of daughters in long skirts, who spend your days in supervising your household and your evenings in happy, housewifely dreams. Think of Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock actually playing polo against her own daughter! Don't rub your eyes—it's a fact. To prove it here's a recent quotation from a New York paper:

"Miss Helen Hitchcock, who is fast becoming a true shot, made a remarkably good play against her mother. Mrs. Hitchcock had the ball going down field when her daughter cut sharply across, just avoiding a foul, backed the ball, wheeled quickly and scored in four strokes from centre field." Shades of Martha Washington and Nancy Fanks!

RUSIE AND WALSH THE BEST

"I found during the long time that I was in the big league that Amos Rusie and Ed Walsh were the hardest pitchers for me to hit," says Willie Keeler. "I have gone through a season without striking out, and Rusie and Walsh have the distinction of making me fan twice in one game."

"Amos could shoot them over. He had more speed on his curve ball than some of the present day pitchers have on their fast one. When the fellow, who was with the Giants, was going right he was a wonder. How he could buzz them over the plate! I know for a fact that when he was going good it was not necessary for him to pitch any curves. That fast one always had a beautiful hop on it, and it was impossible to connect with it."

"Ed Walsh was another great one with that spitball of his. I have seen all kinds of wet balls, but Walsh has one which takes the cake."

WHY KID TWIRLERS FAIL

Monte Cross Points Out Some Reasons

Monte Cross, who played ball for many years with the Athletics and was a star in his day, says that there is no such thing as luck in baseball. Monte is positive that all good ball clubs, the ones that are always high up in the race year after year, make a study of the game and players and that by thoroughly mastering every point they have little trouble in ripping off victories. Cross says that to become perfect in baseball, as in anything else, one must devote considerable time to the study of the game. That explains the reason, according to Cross, for the continued success of Manager Mack and the Philadelphia Athletics.

Having a system of signals is one of Mack's great secrets. Another is in doing out what the other fellows are going to pull off. Mack and his players, says Cross, never fail to catch the signals of an opposing team, and when once they do everything is easy sailing. Says Cross:

"When the first man on the Athletics trots up to the plate he has instructions to watch closely every move that his opponents make in the field, and especially the pitcher. Lots of times a batter can tell what a twirler is going to shoot over the plate by watching his foot. Then many fingers have certain little habits not noticed by the fans, perhaps, by which a smart ball tosser can tell just what kind of a curve is going to come over. This trick of telling what kind of a ball is to be thrown is done by closely observing the pitcher's swing and also how he holds the sphere."

"Many pitchers fail to learn how to cover up when delivering a ball. I have noticed this at the spring training camp. Very few of the young pitchers know how to conceal what they are going to throw, and none of the pitchers can conceal the fact when they intend tossing the ball to first trying to nip a base runner. Most young pitchers will plainly show in throwing to the initial catch some little habit that should be easy for the runner quickly to solve. The fault with the youngster here, and it is the same with every recruit that comes up from the smaller leagues, is that when they are about to throw to first they will invariably drag their foot on the ground in making the quarter turn. When they are going to pitch to the batter they lift the foot."

"I want to tell you something of considerable interest that perhaps few of the fans have thought of. When a young league pitcher is brought up for trial and by his wonderful speed and great curves the manager decides to retain him that does not necessarily mean that he is a good pitcher. Just because a recruit happens to have a grand physique, speed and curves that is not by any means all that is required. He must also have brains."

"And now we are getting down to the real interesting point that I wanted to tell you about. Perhaps this youngster will go along for two or three seasons and twirl fairly good ball. All the while this particular man will be working as hard as he knows how—in fact, almost throwing his arm off every time he goes on the mound. This sort of pitching is an awful strain on a man, and it soon begins to have its effect. Suddenly by constant hard labor the pitcher one day strains his arm, his speed and curves are gone, and the fans figure that he is through. But such is far from being true."

When a big, strong fellow suddenly awakes to the fact that his arm is injured he becomes a real clever pitcher, and by that I mean a smart, heady twirler. He then has to rely solely upon head and work to fool the opposing hitters, and instead of merely using his once wonderful arm he falls back on his brain to hold his job. Remember quite a few years ago Christy Mathewson hurt his arm, and many of the wise ones had it that this fellow was through. Well, what did Mat do? He simply developed a new curve ball, and today he is still considered one of the grandest pitchers in the game. There are many other cases quite similar to that of Mathewson's."

"There is another thing I want to say about bush league pitchers who get a chance in the big league, but are turned back because they lose control. If these same men would only practice hard under some manager or coach who knew just what to do under such conditions not half the men would be sent back. I take the credit for developing Jack Coombs into a clever twirler, as I worked with him constantly and helped him to gain control. When Jack broke in he was as wild as any pitcher that I had ever before seen. He didn't seem to have any control, and what's more, it was easy to see that Jack had no idea as to how ever to become perfect."

"I took Coombs in hand and worked with him every day. I explained to him that in order to gain control to try to always aim for some certain spot on the person of the catcher when he threw a ball. For instance, if he wanted a low ball on the inside to throw at the catcher's knee. If he wanted a ball high and on the outside, to aim for the catcher's shoulder. By hard practice, and lots of it, Coombs acquired control. When Jack throws a ball now he knows exactly where it is going, and that is more than a good many fingers can say."

A NUMBER OF BATSMEN

Benefited by Sheer Force of Bingles

There are ball players who add to their store of base hits by the sheer force of their hits. Like all good hitters they land squarely; but, unlike some good hitters, they land exceptionally hard. Momentum carries many a drive of theirs along so fast that the fielder can't get to it. Other batters may land just as squarely and with as good direction, but lose hits because the fielders of the Cubs is a square lander, but not a fierce swinger and is a good hitter because of the cleanness of his stroke; but, although he is a slugger and a hitter for extra bases, his wallop does not go with the speed of some others.

Take Byrne of the Pirates. A small man, but he hits a ball almighty hard—harder than any man of his inches. Wagner drives a ball with tearing speed when he lands right, and hits of his have gone so straight as to result only in singles, then, had they lifted a little, the momentum and trajectory would have made doubles or triples of them. Some of his hits shoot on a bee line for the ground, too fast to be handled, but not having the arc necessary to clear the outfield.

The hardest hitter this season is Zimmerman of the Cubs, whose eye is exceptional and whose swing is powerful, but well controlled because of his easy, natural poise. Doyle and Meyers are both in this hard hitting class. Doyle of the Giants taking the most vicious sort of a swing. Meyers' swing is less violent, but the chief is a splendid judge of a pitched ball and meets it with beautiful precision. Like Lajoie, Speaker, Cobb and other powerful hitters, he can make up his mind quickly, while the ball is coming up and is ready to meet it.

Sam Crawford in a more set way than Lajoie jumps the ball off his bat as viciously as any of them, swinging powerfully, but not violently. He gets all his body in it. Lajoie handles the bat with a freer, lighter sweep, whist and arm and body co-ordinating, body relaxed and in ideal poise, and is probably the freest hitter of them all. Zinn of the Highlanders landing it like a bull with great force, and it was Tye's let yet is not a hard swinger. He swings more on the Schultz and Beaumont order. He has an excellent batting position. Those mentioned are not all, but they will serve to illustrate the subject of players who are hard hitters in the sense that they are literally so, being "picklers" of note.

Never Travel Without Sanfords Ginger

It quickly checks stomach and bowel ills due to heat or sudden change of water, food and climate; dispels fatigue, nervousness and sleeplessness, knocks out cramps, pains, colds and chills, and wards off many a threatening ill.

A delicious combination of ginger, aromatic and French brandy. Look for the Owl Trade Mark on the wrapper, let you get a cheap, worthless or dangerous substitute. Forty years the standard of purity, flavor and strength. Sold by all druggists and grocers.

SELEE BEST MANAGER SAYS KLING

Johnny Kling, manager of the Boston Nationals, says Frank Selee was the greatest manager.

"Selee really made the Cubs champions. He developed Chance into a first baseman, discovered Evers, Reulbach, Tinker and Schulte and gave me the first opportunity to catch behind the bat. Selee was a natural judge of playing talent. He wasn't a bulldozer on the bench, but an even tempered, fair-minded critic of the mistakes made by his players. Had he lived he would have received all the credit for the greatness of the Cubs instead of Chance. I don't believe Chance can pick up and develop young players, but he knows how to make the men placed in his care play ball. He is a strict disciplinarian and a great field general. As a first baseman and batter he was at the top of the heap and set a winning example. Chance has always believed in slipping on fives for boob plays."

THE FAMOUS TY COBB

Deserving of Censure For Recent Act

Is Ty Cobb, Detroit's outfielder, the great ball player that most people regard him? This question is suggested by a happening at the Detroit ball park recently, when the Georgian quit the game after the first half of the ninth inning and went to the clubhouse to take a shower bath.

He thought he would not come to bat and decided to gain a few minutes by dressing while his mates were batting. But the Tigers got a few men on the bases, scoring a run, and it was Ty's turn to bat. He was nowhere to be found. When finally discovered he was under his shower bath in the dressing room.

This little incident will doubtless cause Mr. Cobb to fall many points in the estimation of many who had regarded him as all that could be desired as a ball player. Mechanically he is undoubtedly a wonder and deserving of all the fulsome praise that has been heaped upon him, but if he is no more interested in the success of his team than this happening would indicate he is not nearly as great as we have been led to believe.

The great ball player, the man who is worth most to his team, is the man who fights to the last ditch, regardless of the size of the score or without thinking of whether his team is ahead or behind. Any inning is likely to change the complexion of any game, and the only players worth while are those who are on the job every minute of the contest.

Cobb, like many other stars, has enemies, but even his friends condemned him for his recent action, and he was deserving of censure. Ty owes it to the fans, as well as to his employers, to do his best at all times and to work every day for victory. He has no right to take it for granted that he will not be needed in a certain inning. A man who figures that way does not have the best interests of his team at heart.

BROWNS LAND CRACK PITCHER

A new pitcher has been captured by the St. Louis Browns. He is a collegian, Right Hander Adams, and hails from the Albright college of Myerstown, Pa. Adams was discovered by Professor Charles S. Kelschner, one of Colonel Hedges' unknown scouts in the east, and is due to report to Boss Stovall immediately.

Adams' fame was gained a few weeks ago when he pitched two games in one day, morning and afternoon, and accomplished the feat of striking out thirty-two batters, sixteen per show. Kelschner is the one who picked up First Baseman Ed Miller. If Adams is as worthy as his namesake, "Rube" of the Pirates, and can whiff sixteen every time he pitches, then the Browns have the wonder of wonders.

CRUSADE AGAINST INFANT MORTALITY

The Boston board of health is instituting an investigation into the extraordinary infant mortality in some hospitals and following the treatment of some doctors. Improper feeding is said to be the cause. That will doubtless explain many deaths of infants. The nurses attached to the Lowell Guild find this to be one of the prevailing causes of infant mortality. They claim also that there are many mothers who adopt artificial feeding for their babies without any cause except to avoid the trouble. The modified milk prepared at the milk station or prepared from the medical formula is the best substitute for the natural food; but skill is necessary, even in using that. The Lowell Guild is doing much to instruct mothers in the preparation of modified milk for children of various ages as well as on other important matters in the care of children.

The local board of health should circulate as widely as possible its rules for the care of children in hot weather, and it should also note whether there is a train of infant deaths following treatment by any particular doctor.

Speaking of the crusade started in Boston an official of the board of health says:

"We must have the most conscientious co-operation of the physicians, hospitals and parents of the children. We feel that many of the babies could easily be saved, and we are going to see to it that all that can be saved are saved, or we will know the reason why. It is not our intention to antagonize any physician, hospital or anyone else for that matter. We intend to co-operate with the physicians and hospitals. If we are convinced that a physician or a hospital does not do its full duty by their patients why of course that will be another thing."

Doubtless the Boston board has good grounds for its movement to lessen the infant mortality. The doctors are not numerous who can analyze the ailments of a baby and prescribe just what is needed.

THE NATIONAL ANTHEM AGAIN

Again has the question of what is our national anthem been brought to the front, this time by Senator Rayner. The senator wanted an appropriation to preserve old Fort Henry which repulsed the British fleet in 1812, claiming that it was there the "Star Spangled Banner," the national anthem, was born.

Senator Heyburn objected that this famous song had never been adopted as the national anthem; but he did not mention any other, although he favors "My Country 'Tis of Thee."

The question is one that has been discussed for a long time and is not yet settled. Some poets have vainly essayed to furnish a national anthem, and some magazines have offered prizes for the best original anthem. But no national anthem was ever born on demand in this way. It comes only from the fire of genius stirred by lofty patriotism. Had a special effort been made during the Civil war a suitable national anthem might have been produced; but since that time there has been no occasion sufficient to lift the poetic soul to the dizzy heights on Mt. Parnassus to snatch even the echo of the inspired strains that alone can make an appropriate and enduring national anthem. The "Star Spangled Banner" is too ponderous, and "America" is too solemn and sedate, although as an anthem the latter is more appropriate, yet in spirit it is inferior to the other.

In some future emergency a genius will undoubtedly arise to give this nation an anthem that will have the fire of patriotism and at the same time the poetic grace, the lofty conception and the musical possibilities requisite for a real anthem.

TO BURY THE G. O. P.

The leaders of the Roosevelt party do not expect to win this year, but they expect to kill the old republican party, having exposed its inefficiency, and its inseparability from graft and special privilege. The old machine may run through this campaign and then after sustaining a crushing defeat, the Bull Moose party will come up in opposition. The question will then come upon which is the real opposition party. There may be a reorganization out of which will be evolved a national party to take charge of the obsequies of the republican organization.

We would suggest that J. Pierpont Morgan and John D. Rockefeller be the chief mourners, that Andrew Carnegie deliver the funeral oration, and that the bearers be made up of representatives of the steel trust, the beef trust, the sugar trust, International Harvester trust, the rubber trust and several others equally prominent. For a monument there should be a large elephant bearing in a spacious howdah representatives of the leading trusts while the huge beast is being shot down by that famous hunter of the plains, Col. Roosevelt.

WILSON AND HARVEY

In reply to the critics who twit Governor Wilson on receiving the support of Harper's Weekly after rejecting it before the nomination, it may be said that as a party candidate Governor Wilson has no right to turn away the support of any citizen or any newspaper. He is the candidate of a party whose success is of the greatest importance to the nation, and as such it is not his province to belittle the support offered him from any quarter. Before the convention he was free to choose his supporters and backers; but now the situation has changed. If Harper's Weekly supports him Governor Wilson should appreciate the fact. The country knows his attitude to Col. Harvey, so that there can be no misunderstanding. If elected, President Wilson will not be influenced by what Harper's may say just because it supported his candidacy.

THE UNWEDDED D. I. WALSH

Now that David I. Walsh's bid is in the matrimonial ring, shall it ever be said of Fitchburg's charming young women that they permitted such an eligible candidate to escape? Don't all speak at once, please, because only one can wear the hat.—Fitchburg News.

Could it have been to Mr. Walsh, Governor Foss alluded when he said the candidate for governor should be a married man?

This being a leap year some of the Fitchburg young ladies have an excellent opportunity to help Mr. Walsh in removing this bar to his eligibility for the highest office in the gift of the state.

Col. Roosevelt must be preparing a dice program for his Chicago show since he has fixed the price of seats at $10, $15 and $20 each. The other parties gave free shows. It cannot be shortage of funds that causes the Colonel to adopt these prices, for George W. Perkins, the leading magnate in the $35,000,000,000 Morgan bank and railroad combine, is behind the Bull Moose party. The New York World hints that after paying such prices the spectators will expect something at least as good as a prize-fight in which somebody will be beaten to a frazzle.

THE TEMPTATION

SEEN AND HEARD

Perhaps there are no female angels in heaven, as the theologians declare, but there are a lot of them on earth.

Any man has a legal right to go through his wife's pockets, provided he can find them.

If all our dreams were true, most of us would complain even more than we do now.

When four young men start out in a rivalry to get a girl, the one who can buy her violets in midwinter has a great advantage.

Straws show which way the wind blows, but if a girl is contented with her ankles, she doesn't particularly care.

Any young man who sows wild oats is absolutely sure to get a crop.

Here are a few lines from a fellow who has just returned from the Pine Tree state after a delightful stay of two weeks during which he lured innocent fishes from the trustful waters of unspoiled streams and accepted a proposal of marriage from the buxom daughter of a well-to-do farmer.

How Grace Benson Became Famous for the Beauty of Her Hands and Arms

Free Prescription That Can Be Prepared at Home Without Expense

Grace Benson, famous for the marvelous beauty of her hands and arms in a recent interview, says: "If I could tell every woman about the prescription that has caused all this talk about my hands and arms they could every one of them make their hands and arms just as beautiful as mine. I am glad to have the opportunity to give my receipt free to the world. It will help every woman to improve her personal appearance."

When I asked her if she would allow me to publish the prescription, she quickly answered: "Certainly, only too glad to have you do it." Turning to a desk, she wrote it on a slip of paper and handed it to me. Here it is: "Go to any drug store, get an empty two-ounce bottle, also a one-ounce bottle of Kulus Compound. Pour the entire bottle of Kulus into the two-ounce bottle, add quarter of an ounce of witch hazel, then fill with water. Apply night and morning."

She further said: "This prescription makes the skin transparent and removes all defects, such as freckles, tan, sun spots, roughness and ruddiness. A single application works a marvelous transformation. Where low collars are worn it can be applied to the neck with equally as startling results. It is absolutely harmless, and will positively not stimulate or produce a growth of hair."

into a close fitting "overcoat" for the hook. At times this cunningly contrived implement of death would lie in the water only a few minutes when the line would twitch and I would be ordered to "pull 'er in fast." Then in yanking the line from the water I would become surcharged with excitement on feeling the resisting "tug" of the fish in its efforts to free itself from the hook and, when fluttering on the end of the line, its shining sides at last appeared in view. Well, I would become the most excited person in Arcostock county. Immediately my previous disappointment and chagrin would be forgotten and, after finally detaching the fish from the hook, my pleasurable pride would be increased a hundred fold. At one of these joyful moments I exclaimed: "Well, Jack, I'll soon be classed as a fisherman with Isaac Wagon, eh?" "I dunno who you mean, Bill, but if like I any part of a fisherman and can pull 'em out like you, wai I allow I'd like to fish with him some lowry Sunday." Evidently Jack knew something about putting on the save even if he knew nothing about the famous Isaacs.

Jack was a wiry, active little man with a unusually large nose, keen pair of eyes and four days' crop of beard. A pair of overalls, rubber boots, turtle neck sweater and golf cap—all weather-beaten—kept off the tan, while a "Duke's mixture" cigarette set off this attire. His remark that "I cud jes sit here all day, seven days a week, and fish" indicated his feelings on the fishing question. In fact, this enthusiasm was so pronounced that I fancy it materially though unconsciously influenced his powers of imagination. The yarns he spun about the large masses of trout, salmon or pickerel which he alleged to have drawn from the water were truly marvelous. Besides being an expert fisherman, he could hunt anything from rabbit to "bar" with any man in the county, so he informed me. This did not doubt, for, although several of his fish stories seemed in keeping with their name, still he certainly did know many of the finer points about fish catching, and, moreover, missed no opportunity of passing the knowledge along to me. He was an agreeable companion and at times an entertaining one. One "crack" which he unconsciously made is well worth repeating. While describing a fox hunt in which he and several other dwellers participated last winter he dwelt at length on the sagacity of the fox in eluding capture. "By ceterky, Bill," said he, "those thar foxes are the smartest critters in creation. Who-ever named 'em giv 'em a good name." The feminine gender, I noticed, was invariably used by Jack in referring to fish. On my asking him if there was any particular reason for his being so complimentary, he replied: "Sure thing. 'Cause those thar fish are always gaddin' about an' are always looking for somethin' for nuthin', an' in particular, are always mighty slippery."

Regarding the size and number of my catches I will maintain silence, for were I to truthfully disclose their exact size and number, I fear I would lose that reputation for veracity which has taken me many years to establish. Moreover, I have noticed that when the subject pertaining to the size and number of fish there is apt to be much jealousy and envy shown and inveterate cast against a successful fisherman by less fortunate, or even bungling, handlers of the hook and rod. Consequently I remain silent. Nevertheless, we were not a long time on the water before our basket was filled. Whether the basket was 8-10 inches, or whether it was 3-2-2 feet, I will not state, for, as I will again remark, I will take no chances on endangering what reputation for truthfulness which I now possess. However, by "reading between the lines" of this latter statement you can easily conclude that the results of our expedition were by no means inconsiderable.

THE POET AND THE SUNSETS
The gorgeous grandeur of the sunsets thrills me, The brilliant colors and the golden glow. I think sometimes it must be I'm a poet. For poets all say it affects them so. I love to watch the sinking sun's departure. And muse, and wonder why it goes. It leaves with regularity, I've noticed, And always at the closing of the day. It fills my soul with deep poetic feeling. To watch the daily setting of the sun. I've started several poems on the subject. But somehow I have never finished

BABY CRUSHED

DREAM OF LITTLE ONE'S MOTHER IS FULFILLED

BOSTON, July 23.—The dream of Mrs. Anna Labovitz, 37 Barton street, has come true. Sunday night she dreamed that her little 20 months old son, Hyman, was dead. Today he is in his coffin.

Late yesterday afternoon Mrs. Labovitz left her son while she went up to the roof of the house to take in her washing.

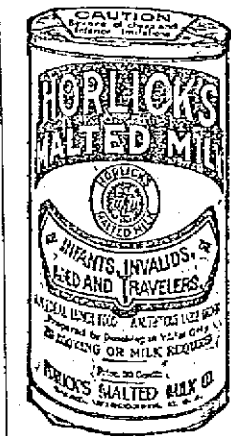

She warned the child not to move until she came down, but as soon as his mother was out of his sight the little one crawled out into the middle of the street and under the hoofs of a horse attached to a heavy wagon owned by the American Grocery company. The massive wheels crushed out the life in the little body.

Aroused by the shrieks of the woman who witnessed the accident, Mrs. Labovitz rushed down from the roof of the tenement to the street. "My dream has come true," she cried when told of the accident, and fainted. The driver of the team, Abraham Cohen of 51 Leverett street, was arrested by Officer Forment of the Joy street station and was held pending investigation.

A LITTLE NONSENSE

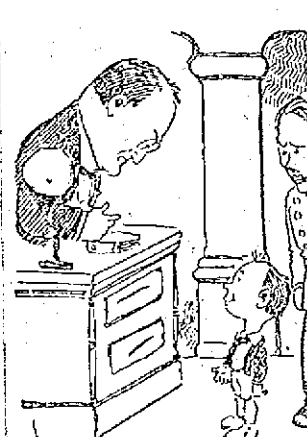

WARDING OFF THE REQUEST.
"The very instant that Brown was married he struck his father-in-law for a loan."
"Why did he do that?"
"His bride had warned him that the old man intended to strike him for one."

THEY AREN'T WISE.
Mrs. Beadhouse—I don't see why all these dies come here.
Peevish Boarder—Not when there is a first class place across the street for the same price. They must be strangers in town.

AN EYE FOR BUSINESS.
Summer Boarder—I could spend years looking at that mountain.
The Landlord—Well, heard by the year comes cheaper. Just keep looking!

AMBITION.
Judge—You are only 12 years old and have been caught four times at petty larceny. Where do you expect to finish?
Cupid—If I tend strictly to business I hope to grow up to be a first-class home-story man.

HARDLY ABLE TO DO IT.
"My household bills are paid weekly."
"So are mine—very weekly, indeed."

STANDPATTERS.
First Statesman—We don't want any standpatters in our party.
Second Statesman—No; and yet we don't want too many of those people who are always side-stepping so that you can't tell where they stand.

SUMMER RESORTS.

MINGLOW TO LET AT OLD Orchard, Me., for September; pleasantly situated; three bed rooms and kitchen; $5 per week. Tel. 3573-1.

LEGAL NOTICES

MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE.
By virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by Joseph P. Doran and Ellen Doran, his wife in her own right, both of Lowell, in the County of Middlesex and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, to James F. Sullivan, of said Lowell, dated the tenth day of June, A. D. 1912, and recorded with the Register of Deeds for the Northern District of said County of Middlesex, Book 209, Page 17, will be sold at public auction, for each of the conditions of said mortgage deed on the premises, 6 Sixth avenue, hereinafter described on Wednesday, the fourteenth day of August, A. D. 1912 at two o'clock in the afternoon, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed and hereinafter described substantially as follows: A certain lot of land and the buildings thereon, situated on the southeasterly side of said Sixth avenue, in that part of said Lowell called "the City of Lowell," and described as follows, viz.: Beginning at the northwesterly corner of the premises on the southeasterly side of said Sixth avenue, which point is a small salient corner, and extending easterly to 22-1/2 feet from the easterly line of Mammoth road, thence southeasterly at an angle of 55 degrees and thirty-six minutes to the southeasterly line of the lot of land, thence southeasterly along said Sixth avenue to a point 21-1/2 feet to the point of beginning. Meaning hereby to convey lot number thirteen (13) on a plan of land in said Lowell made for James F. Sullivan, surveyed August, 1891, Osgood & Snell, C. E.'s, and recorded with the Middlesex North District Registry of Deeds, Book of Plans 15, Plan 35, and being the premises conveyed to us by the aforesaid James F. Sullivan, by his deed dated June 10th, 1911.

The above described premises will be sold and conveyed subject to any and all unpaid taxes and other municipal assessments and tax sales which may be levied or made due thereon. JAMES F. SULLIVAN, Mortgagee.

Bay State Street Railway Co., State Street Railway Commission, 15 Ashburton Place, Boston, July 10th, 1912.

Massachusetts Highway Commission, Boston, Massachusetts. Gentlemen: Your petition, the Bay State Street Railway Company, respectfully asks permission to relocate its track and locate a second track in Middlesex County, State Highway, Chelmsford, from State Highway Station 65-9 to Station 55-60, 1901 layout, as shown on Sheet No. 1, of plan entitled "Bay State Street Railway, Proposed Relocation of Track and Extension of Second Track, Middlesex St. from Stevens Corner to Lowell Line, Chelmsford, Mass. Road here L.S. 12, Mar. 11, 1912," filed herewith.

Also, herewith duly certified copy of action of the Town of Chelmsford, with respect thereto.

Bay State Street Railway Co., By P. F. Sullivan, President.

THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.

In Board of Massachusetts Highway Commission, July 19, 1912.

ORDER OF NOTICE.
Upon the foregoing petition it is ordered that said order be made the seventh day of August, 1912, and the office of the Massachusetts Highway Commission, 15 Ashburton Place, Boston, be fixed as the time and place at which the Massachusetts Highway Commission will consider such petition; and that notice be given by the petitioner to all parties interested that said Commission will consider such petition at the time and place aforesaid by publishing in The Sun, a newspaper published in the City of Lowell, County of Middlesex, (there being no newspaper published in the town of Chelmsford), a true copy of said petition with the order thereon, at least fourteen (14) days before the said seventh day of August, 1912, that all parties interested may then and there show cause, if any, why said petition should not be granted.

For the Massachusetts Highway Commission, F. J. BIELER, Secretary.

A true copy of petition and order of notice thereon.

Attest: M. A. RILEY, Recording Secretary.

DOWN AN' OUT

"THE IVORY SMILE"

Being a Deliberate Attempt to Tell You What You Don't Know About Your Teeth

The fact that the average person can get along with one set of hands, but not with one set of teeth, proves that something is radically wrong with the methods employed in caring for the teeth.

Our hands are normally healthy because they are exposed to the air, which contains a large percentage of oxygen.

Dentifrices used in the past were made simply to whiten the teeth, no thought being given to the health of teeth, mouth and gums.

Chalk and other gritty substances were used—anything to clean the surface of the teeth. Strong flavoring materials and irritants such as Thymol, Menthol or Oil-of-Wintergreen were used in dentifrices to cover offensive odors of decaying teeth—and as a result the enamel coating was destroyed.

The United States government has granted a process patent exclusively to the inventors, for their method of retaining oxygen in Dentylene Peroxide Paste and Powder. Oxygen liberated when used as in Dentylene Peroxide acts as nature's deodorizer, germicide and bleach. It is the one preparation that not only cleanses and preserves the teeth but also makes them snowy white.
